DEMOCRACY ON THE CAMPUS

Let's be Democratic. Democracy is the by-word of the world. We hear it on every hand and read it in every paper.

We are all here for the same purpose and that purpose is to become bigger and finer men and women in every sense. Give every man a chance. Be willing to be a friend to every person who is on the square. Believe in the rule of the majority. Judge none of your fellows for what he has personally, or for how much in monetary values his acquaintance is worth to you, but for what he does for the common good.

If we all understood and practiced democracy in our school life we would soon have a college life here which would put us head and shoulders above other universities. You never know how many real men and women you miss knowing by being exclusive. No one can afford to take the chance.

What is education? But what standards may we judge whether a man or woman is educated? One great author has said that "Education is the sum total of our knowledge gained through experience." We, as college men and women are very prone to consider education as the time spent in school rather than what we gained in actual experience there.

If we are to become broad minded citizens and be capable to take up leadership in our own community, it is necessary that we treat our college life as a replica of the life to follow. We surely learn the most through our contact with our fellows, so why not make the most of the opportunity and know everyone possible and as well as possible. Be democratic, be active in every phase of school life, and above all be a booster for your class and the University. Adopt the same attitude towards life here as you will towards your business and make every move count in your favor. Thus an education will be received which is valuable and which will be a recognized asset.

DOES COLLEGE PAY?

The most unskilled laborers in the steel industry are receiving a minimum wage of forty-five cents an hour or $4.50 a day for a ten hour day. Practically all these men are foreigners,—hunkies with less than a common school education. Men with more skill, but not more than the average American or common school education receive $10 a day and upwards. Everywhere laborers as a class are receiving as high or higher wages than a big percentage of college graduates working on salaries. Naturally, the question arises, "Does college pay?"

Considering the question from this economic side only, the relationship between a college graduate and wages, college does pay however, or at least college will pay. The present condition cannot be otherwise than superficial. In the readjustment of industry to war conditions and the resulting high prices, organized labor forged ahead in its demand for increased wages while the salaried workers remained practically at a standstill. The salaried workers did not have the stimulus of organization and the increase in their pay is following the slow moving natural route.

The balance must be restored because without executives laborers can not long run an industry. Eventually, the law of supply and demand will create higher salaries for these executives, who, in a large part, will be recruited from the college graduates of the country. In time the basis of pay again will be determined largely by what a man knows rather than by how many cubic feet of dirt he can shovel in an hour.

By the time the freshman of today is a graduate, college will pay.—The Daily Kansan.

TWELVE APPLY FOR RHODES SCHOLARSHIP

nominals from people, preferably professors, who know them intimately. The committee also asks that letters be filed from four others from whom information concerning qualifications may be obtained.

The university committee of selection will make nominations to the state committee composed of Chancellor S. Avery and two former Rhodes scholars, Professor Rice and Paul Good. The state committee will select two men from the list of candidates from all Nebraska colleges.

Nominations to the general selection committee are expected to be made before October 5.

MORE CANDIDATES MUST FILE IF ELECTION IS TO BE HELD

freshman president. The first year scrap is always an interesting one and if it narrows down to a small number of contestants, will probably be more exciting than ever. Teft is a member of Beta Theta Pi and Gilbert is a Silver Lynx.

Filing will close this afternoon at 5 o'clock. All candidates who wish their names to appear on the ballot must have their applications filed with the registrar by that time. With no entries at all for some of the offices and but little competition for the others, the election as a whole bears little promise of yielding a real political scrap unless rally on the last day and enter their names on the list.

They say love is blind, but at that it gets around a great deal.
