SERVICE MEN WANT ARMISTICE HOLIDAY

Students in Law College Declare Vacation non November 11 But Are Overruled

Commercial Club of Lincoln Requested Half Holiday for Ex-Soldiers and It Was Granted

The three classes in the Law college held meetings Monday morning and voted almost unanimously to observe a holiday on Tuesday, November 11, this year and all other years, so far as practical and possible. These meetings were held by regularly elected class officers except in the senior law class, which has no officers, but which met and decided by mutual consent. This action was reported to Dean Hastings, of the College of Law, and resulted in the hasty summoning of representatives of the classes and the class presidents for the announcement that such a holiday would be treated as a breach of discipline on the part of the students. Placards were placed in the Law building to advise the students there that classes would be held as usual.

Dean Carl Engberg, after a consultation between the university authorities and Governor McKelvie, announced that "drastic action" would be taken against service men or others in the law college who were absent from classes Tuesday morning. It was first announced that there would be no holiday observance whatever for the men, but this was later changed by an order that allows ex-service men to be absent from classes Tuesday afternoon and evening.

Representatives of the Lincoln Commercial club and an army officer consulted with the university authorities after the Commercial club had been informed at 1 o'clock Monday that there would be no holiday at the university. The Commercial club reported that when university authorities "understood the situation" they had readily consented to a half holiday.

It was declared impossible by representatives of all classes to reach all students who had been advised of a holiday and many, especially in the two larger classes, could not be located after they had left the building. In the law college there are practically no afternoon classes, so the holiday ruling does not affect those students.

PURDUE'S AMBITION

An ambitious goal for Purdue university has been set by its college daily. It includes the following movements which it hopes to attain by 1921:

1. Student Union Building by 1921.
2. Clean politics.
3. Purdue at top of conference athletics by 1921.
4. Greater co-operation between alumni, students, and faculty in bringing athletics to Purdue.
5. A new building to take the place of Purdue and the University Halls for recitation and registration purposes.
6. A Convocation fund.
7. Museum for Purdue's priceless collection of pioneer locomotives.

NEBRASKA CO-EDS PLAN CORNHUSKER LUNCHEON

Do you want to be one of the three hundred loyal Cornhusker co-eds who will celebrate home-coming day with a rousing luncheon Saturday? If you do, and of course you do, get your ticket either at the Student Activities office or from any member of the W. S. G. A. Council. No more tickets will be validated after Thursday evening, but as the number has been limited to 300, not all of those who want to go will be able, so it will be necessary to get your pastebored early.

As the girls' Cornhusker luncheon was not held last year, there may be some who do not know what one is. Anyone who has attended one will tell you not to miss it. It is a big get-together meeting open to all the girls in the school. Toasts will be responded to and yeils will be given.

The luncheon will be held at the Windsor hotel and a charge of sixty cents will be made for a ticket.

A magazine writer recently said: "We are living in an age of speed and prompt service." Evidently he has never had any experience at a local soda fountain.

CONVOCATION TODAY

Prof. Fling will speak this morning in Memorial hall on the subject: "The Peace Conference" as the first of the convocations touching the war. Prof. Fling was present at the peace conference and he is especially qualified to speak on this, the first anniversary of peace day. Because he was present at the various conferences in the capacity of historian, he has information which is not possessed by the average speaker and his speech will be interesting as well as instructive.

November 18 Miss Howell, who did canteen work in France will speak and the Tuesday following, Miss Grant will speak of her experiences in France.

MISSOURI STUDENTS SHOW REMARKABLE SPIRIT IN DEFEAT

Cornhuskers who made the trip to the Missouri seat of learning last week, have returned with glowing reports of the activities of Tiger students. They all give reports of royal treatment by the Missourians and are enthusiastic in their praise of the cheering of the Tiger student sections.

The Missouri students participated in a gigantic parade Saturday forenoon and many of the visiting Huskers say it was the neatest thing they had ever witnessed in the parade line. The course of the procession led through the main streets of Columbia and the Tiger troopers succeeded in arousing an abundance of pep among the townspeople. The Cornhuskers have always resorted to night time processions, but the Tigers believe in parading the streets in broad daylight.

The action of the Tiger rooters at the game received much commendation from the Cornhuskers who were in attendance. The Missouri yells and songs poured over the field in great volume, cheering the Tiger warriors to fight on in the face of defeat. When the game was over, not a Tiger rooter left his seat until both teams had left the field. Then they rose to their feet and sang their school anthem. Tiger students are loyal to their team in either victory or defeat.

HOME COMING PARTY COMMITTEES NAMED

Announcement of Students Responsible for Elaborate Plans for Saturday Night

The All-University Homecoming party to be held in the armory November 15, the evening of the Kansas-Nebraska game, promises to be one of the most elaborate functions of the school year. This is one of the series of parties given for all university students during the term, and the committees which have the entertainment in charge are expecting one of the largest throngs of merry-makers ever assembled on the armory floor.

This affair will be essentially a Cornhusker Homecoming party. It will give the alumni who return to their Alma Mater this week an opportunity not only to meet their classmates of former days, but to become acquainted with the university students and the alumni. A charge of thirty cents will be made for the entertainment. Skits have been prepared by both the resident alumni and the participating students. During the evening the alumni will be given an opportunity to extend the "glad hand" to their friends of years gone by, in the chapel, while the other revelers will enjoy dancing in the armory.

In the morning there will be the underclass olympics. In the afternoon the Jayhawks will fight with the Cornhuskers for supremacy of the gridiron.

In addition to the reception committee for the party which was announced in Monday's Nebraskan, the following committees have been appointed:

Entertainment committee—Frank Patty, chairman; Helen Holtz, Rachel Trester, Florence Wolf, Gladys Fohrbaugh, E. T. Kelley, Wesley Gish, Francis Flood.

Finance committee—M. J. Gary, chairman.

Advertising committee—Boyd Willets, chairman; Jack Austin, Charles J. Wiles.

Seth Taylor has charge of the advertising for the party, George Driver of the finances and the following persons have charge of the general committees:

Decorations—Ruth Du Bois.

Reception—Ruth Sheldon and Alfred Hinz.

Refreshment—Olive Hartley.

Program—Harry Reed, Janet Mansland.

SOPHOMORES SAY THEY ARE READY

Second Year Class Issues Final Appeal for All Students' Support

Sophomore tryouts for boxing and wrestling preliminary to the Olympic struggle, will be held Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock in the armory, and tryouts for track events will take place on Nebraska field at 3:30 Tuesday afternoon, although the men will meet shortly before that hour in the gymnasium.

With a final "pep" meeting for the entire sophomore class Tuesday morning at 11:30 in Law 101, the plans for the freshmen-sophomore struggle have almost been completed by the sophomore olympics committee.

Every man who has been selected from his fraternity to try out Tuesday should be on hand promptly at the hour named above. Non-fraternity men are expected to turn out in large numbers, for they represent some of the very best athletic material which has loomed on the horizon of the sophomore class.

It is essential to a victory for the second-year class on Homecoming Day that these men all turn out and show their class spirit.

"Whether we will win or not depends entirely upon the number of men who take part in the coming fight, and in the spirit shown by those on the side lines," declared John Lawlor, chairman of sophomore olympics yesterday. "And we may have a pleasant surprise in store for all sophomore men and women to be announced soon."

DIRECTORY IS NOW IN PRINTERS' HANDS

The university student directory has gone to press and proof reading has begun. Altho no definite date can be set for the distribution of the student directory of the Y. M. C. A. hopes to have it ready before Thanksgiving vacation. The directory is published to meet the needs of every person on the campus. It contains a list of the following information:

1. University telephones.
 2. Fraternities and sororities telephones.
 3. Class honorary and professional societies.
 4. All campus organizations, together with the executive officers of each.
 5. Complete membership of every fraternity and sorority in the university.
 6. All faculty members, giving the campus and Lincoln address in each case.
 7. Complete list of students, listed alphabetically, with class, college, organization, home address and Lincoln address and telephone.
- The directory is published by the university Y. M. C. A. on a non-profit basis. Alfred Hinz is manager of the book.

Rushing is Characteristic of College; It Wears Out Shoes and Watches and Brings White Hairs

It makes no difference who you are nor where you come from, whether you live at the "frat" house around the corner, or dwell in a spacious home on Heridan boulevard, if you attend the University of Nebraska, nine cases out of ten, you will be assigned at some time during your college career to the "inevitable eight o'clock."

Rushing is characteristic of the Americans. If you were to meet an American girl in the Fiji islands, or in the South Sea Islands, or in Siberia or in Podunk, he would be rushing, everlastingly rushing.

The term "rushing" means more to a college student perhaps, than to any other individual. "Rush" is essentially a college term. The "rushing season" inaugurated at the beginning of each term of college, typifies the rate of the entire school year, and does not end, as is commonly thought, at the end of the initial week.

The eight o'clock rush is no doubt the most inconvenient, most undesirable, and probably the most noticeable rush of the entire nine months, for scarcely any individual who has attended a college or a university, but has experienced the thrills attending the "making of an eight o'clock."

An "eight o'clock" spells one kind of terror to the average student. It brings up vivid visions of dark, cheerless winter mornings, suggests a courtroom, an endless breakfast, a search for books, a hunt for gloves, a hurried

SORORITIES MAY EXCHANGE GUESTS

Pan-Hellenic Council Discusses Interchange of Dinner Guests

November 15 is Named as Mid-Semester Pledge Day for Sororities

The exchange of dinner guests between sororities one night of each week to increase the friendliness and number of acquaintances among university women, was discussed at the meeting of the Pan-Hellenic council held Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock. It is believed that this exchange of guests will aid greatly toward making this university democratic in the true sense of the word.

It will not only add to the list of acquaintances of each girl, but will increase her appreciation of the worth of girls who do not happen to wear the same sorority pin that she does. For the arranging of a system for the operation of such a scheme a committee was appointed with powers to formulate a plan upon which the association will act. This committee consists of five members, with Rachel Trester as chairman.

The other business of the association was the setting of a pledge day. Saturday, November 15, from 5 to 6 in the evening will be the time at which the groups may pledge.

Y. W. C. A. ANNOUNCES FRESHMAN COMMISSION

The Y. W. C. A. cabinet announces the girls chosen for the freshman commission. Their duty will be to interest the girls of their class in the various activities of the Y. W. C. A.

The following names are announced: Florence Price, Edith Olds, Frances Graham, Nelle Bates, Margaret Bueol, Florence Sherman, Sharlet Wolford, Mary Temple, Margaret St.worthy, Esther Lyman, Marjory Harrison, Julia Sheedon, Lucile Turtleot, Wilma Costes, Ruth Norton, Mary Birnson, Verna Bawden, Louise Tucker, Dorothy Williams, Josephine Gund, Zella Owens, Elizabeth Schling, Muriel Allen, Gladys Kent, Elizabeth Jones.

"BABY INTERNATIONAL"

A "Baby International" stock show will be held at the College of Agriculture the evening of November 14, just before the Nebraska stock show, to Chicago for the big show.

The college has captured the "Baby International" title. It will be a strong competitor again this year. Fancy steeds, logs and sheep will make up the Chicago exhibit. These will be on show at the "Baby International" together with some horses. The stock will be on exhibition Saturday evening, November 15, when the college will entertain the Omaha contingent to the Kansas-Nebraska line coming game. The public is cordially invited to attend this show. It is a miniature of the big show at Chicago.

ALL SERVICE MEN WILL BE GUESTS OF LINCOLN TO-NIGHT

EX-SERVICE MEN

All ex-service men, who are students in the university, may be excused from classes Tuesday afternoon and evening, November 11, to participate in the Homecoming entertainments furnished by the citizens of Lancaster county. For further information call at the Commercial club. Carl C. Engberg.

HUSKERS ARE HOME AGAIN DETERMINED TO WHIP JAYHAWKS

The victorious Cornhuskers are home from their journey to the land of the Tiger. They found the Tiger eagerly waiting and they promptly proceeded to give his tail a mighty twist and walked home with a decisive victory. Schulte's men came out of the Missouri scrap unscratched and will be in prime shape for the coming battle with Kansas on home-coming day. Day, who was previously thought to be laid up for the season, played part of the game against Missouri and will be ready for this week's game. Captain Dobson and Schellenberg are expecting to be ready to tear up the Jayhawk line Saturday.

The Cornhuskers are now filled with the zest of victory and are preparing for the Kansas fray with great expectations of winning. Nebraska handed the Jayhawks a 29-0 defeat last year and the boys are confident they will repeat the performance this year. In 1917 the Kansas walked over the Huskers to the tune of 7-3 and the Jayhawks believe they will make this year's game another victory for the sunflower state. It must be admitted that Kansas has a team of rare ability. They battled the Oklahoma Sooners to a scoreless tie Saturday and a draw was also the best Nebraska could accomplish against the Oklahomans. The Jayhawks conquered the Kansas Aggies by a good score and in turn the Aggies held Missouri to a tie.

It will be interesting to note the personnel of the lineup that will start the game against the Jayhawks Saturday. Will Schulte again play the substitutes who shattered the Missouri defense or will he use the first string veterans who were defeated by the Ames Cyclones? It must be remembered that the Varsity was in a very poor condition when they entered the Ames encounter and the game was not really a fair test of the ability of the two teams. Again the question comes, could the Cornhusker second string men have defeated Ames? However, all these matters are of small moment now. Ames won and Missouri was defeated and it is too late to change the count. Nebraska is preparing to give Kansas the fight of her life and Cornhusker students are predicting victory.

THREE HUNDRED PICTURES ALREADY TAKEN FOR ANNUAL

Three hundred individual pictures for the 1920 Cornhusker have already been taken and other sittings are being arranged for as fast as possible. The way the students are responding to the request of the staff that pictures be taken before Thanksgiving is a great source of satisfaction. In previous years there has been a tendency to delay this work until well into the second semester.

It is urgent that pictures be taken before Thanksgiving for the Townsend studio will be unable to take care of Cornhusker pictures during December, due to the heavy work of the holidays. Also, the contract with the engraver requires an extra charge on all pictures sent in after Thanksgiving, and at the same time these late pictures will not be guaranteed as to quality of cuts produced.

The Cornhusker staff appreciates highly the spirit of co-operation indicated by students and organizations in connection with this very important part of the preparation of the year book. Juniors and seniors, and also organizations who have not yet made arrangements for a sitting, should do so at once.

Students to Whom November 11 Meant the Return to Civil Life, Will Celebrate Today

Dinner, Dancing and Theaters Free to All Ex-Service Men on Armistice Day

Tuesday, November 11, 1919, the first anniversary of the signing of the armistice by the Germans, will be a day of celebration for all service men. All manner of amusement has been provided for the ex-soldiers, and Lincoln is preparing in every way possible to open her arms to them.

The university will have school as usual, but in the afternoon service men will not be required to attend the classes. Professor Fling will speak at convocation at 11 o'clock, and will have interesting things to tell of the peace conference at Paris.

The city of Lincoln has arranged for a series of amusements that will keep the most spirited participant busy to take them all in. The first thing on the program is a banquet at the Masonic Temple, followed by addresses and personal reminiscences of men actively engaged in France. The banquet will be followed by the theater and dancing. Every service man may get cards from the Commercial club admitting him to the auditorium to dance or to any of the Lincoln theaters as well as the banquet.

November 11, 1918, will always be a red-letter day in the history of the United States and men and women now attending school look back at that day with a sense of jubilation, whether they were attending school here or actively engaged in the terrific struggle in France. One enthusiastic senior, an overseas veteran of four big drives, was heard to gleefully remark, "Well, November 11th will always be a holiday with me as long as I live." It is truly a memorable day. It demonstrated most conclusively the Titanic power of America. When the tide of battle turned against the hosts fighting for democracy and freedom, America took up the fight that was so successfully terminated that historic day.

"Just exactly a year ago I was at ——" "Do you remember this night just a year ago?" such conversations will run riot on the campus today. To most ex-soldiers the year has passed quickly and the return to civilian life has been so recent that Tuesday is the first time they have had a chance to think back to the past.

Over 300 ex-soldiers had registered Monday at the Lincoln Commercial club for the three cards that entitle them to the day's events—admission to the theaters, to the city auditorium dance and to the banquet in the evening at the cottish Rite cathedral.

An added feature attraction, in the presentation of "It Pays to Advertise," by the University Players stock company, at the Orpheum matinee, was arranged by the general entertainment committee Monday afternoon following a volunteer offer from the company, made up largely of ex-soldiers, to put the show on that was presented to thank contact houses at the Temple Theater last week.

The committee announces that the show is an added event on the entertainment program, open to soldiers and their ladies on the showing of their theater cards, which will also be collected but will remain good for any matinee or evening theater in the city.

Each registrant gets three cards, one good for exchange for a theater ticket, another for five dance tickets at the auditorium and the third for the soldier himself at the banquet. (Continued on Page Four.)

DR. CONDRA MAKES AN IMPORTANT DISCOVERY

Doctor Condra, of the Department of Conservation and Soil Survey, recently made an important discovery in the geology of Nebraska. In the course of several trips to the northwestern part of the state in connection with directing the work of the department, he found a bed of Greenhorn limestone to outcrop and be exposed over an area of one square mile, about seven miles northeast of Chadron. The formation occurs in a well-defined dome.

This discovery adds about 600 feet of beds to the geological section of that part of the state over what has been described in government reports. Doctor Condra states that oil may be found there. The dome has been named by Chadron people and drilling started.
