UNIVERSITY POST OF AMERICAN LEGION WILL OPPOSE RED FLAG

Post Commander, Cobbe Calls Meeting to Adopt Resolutions Against Aliens and I. W. W.

The University Post of the American Legion will take its stand against bolshevism and radicalism. A committee is now working on resolutions to be presented at the next meeting of the Legion Tuesday evening December 2.

The Post commander, Luther W. Cobbe, announces that the first task that the Legion will undertake is to help the government rid the country of the I. W. W. and elements supporting the red flag.

At the last meeting of the University Post, a motion was passed to refer to a committee the matter of the recent outbreak at Centralia, Washington in which several participants in the Armistice day parade were killed. The committee has drawn up a resolution, to be presented, covering the following points to which the university post shall go on record as favoring:

1. The deportation of the I. W. W. and those responsible for the Centralia outbreak.
2. The deportation of all aliens interned during the war.
3. The deportation of all aliens who renounced their first naturalization papers at the beginning of the war.

For All Members

The meeting Tuesday is open to all members of the Legion whether of the Lincoln Post or the University Post. All ex-soldiers are urged to attend and join the Legion in order that they may have a vote on the pending resolutions and other matters. Only paid up members will be entitled to vote. Only on matters of sending delegates and matters relating to the individual post will any distinction be made between members of the different posts.

In a short time it is planned to have permanent quarters for the Legion provided by the university. Though it is not a university organization a place will be made for them according to Dean P. M. Buck who was at the time of the organization, chairman of the executive committee.

A lone motorcyclist, hot, goggled, dusty, and hatless, stopped at a wayside inn for refreshments and ordered doughnuts and iced tea. "Two washers for a nut!" cried the waiter on his way to the kitchen for the tea.

"What does she say?"
"Says her face is her fortune."
"Now I understand what they mean by involuntary bankruptcy."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Father of Husker Captain Has Been Faithful Football Fan

George Dobson, Almost as Well Known on Campus as Son, Misses No Games

Followers of the gridiron game at Nebraska the past four years have learned to know the towering figure of George Dobson, father of the 1919 captain, who has been perhaps the most constant football enthusiast in all of Nebraska's long list of alumni. Since the days in the fall of 1915 when the present captain was playing on the freshman team, Mr. Dobson has missed scarcely a game that Nebraska has played, on the home field or in the enemy's territory.

Compared to his father, Captain Paul Dobson still looks like a small boy and it might be difficult to decide which one is more often seen on the field, in the gymnasium or at the games. Mr. Dobson was a student back in the days when football was a much rougher game than it is now, played then and has never lost his enthusiasm for the greatest of college sports. Every member of the team for the past five years has known Mr. Dobson personally—and he has known them all by their first names. They have come to look as certainly for him at the games in other states as they do at the home games.

BASKETBALL NOTICE

All freshmen who have applied for suits meet Monday at twelve o'clock in the athletic office.

MEMBERS OF QUARTET FURNISH NUMBERS AT GAMES AND PARTIES

The University Quartet this year has been faithfully on the job. They have furnished numbers between the halves at the football games and at the university party. They will sing at the Cornhusker banquet. The quartet is made up of experienced men, all of whom play instruments. Two have been on Chautauque circuits, one was on the Orpheum, and one was in the quartet last year. The members are: Paul Porschee, Floyd Painter, D. Parsell and C. Banson Samuelson.

The university quartet was started in Nebraska university thirty-three years ago. Some of the great American singers of today are on its roll of members. Frank Farmer, Colorado's leading concert singer formerly belonged to the quartet. The first quartet, composed of David Reavis, Anson Bigelow, Harry Reese and F. D. Sharmon, was organized in 1886 and lasted until 1890. In 1890 a new quartet, called the Delian quartet was started until 1890. It gave concerts in connection with the Delian society in the old chapel in University hall and later, under the name of the "Telyn Quartet," gave concerts over Nebraska. This quartet was composed of R. O. Williams, Charles Alexander, J. P. Williams and J. C. Porterfield.

FORMER STUDENT MAKES TABLET HONORING REESE

Mrs. Elizabeth Tuttle Holsman, a former student of the university, now resident of Chicago, is making a bronze memorial tablet in honor of the late Judge M. B. Reese who was dean of the law school from 1894 to 1904. She writes the alumni office that she has worked with great concentration and trusts that the tablet is about completed. It was recently viewed by Dean Reese's daughter, Mrs. C. W. Sanford who found the tablet very satisfactory. The memorial will be the gift of the students of Dean Reese while he served the university.

Missed Only One Game

Away back in 1916 when Dobbie was playing his first year on the varsity and none too sure himself that he might get to play in the Oregon Aggie game, Mr. Dobson decided that he would not sacrifice business long enough to accompany the team on that long trip. He has always regretted that he did not make the trip, for his son played almost the entire game and one of the best games of his life. As it was, Mr. Dobson, who lived then at Ulysses, kept the telephones hot from there to Lincoln for reports of the contest.

Later Mr. Dobson moved to Lincoln, retiring from active business and since then he has not only followed all the games but all the practices and the interest of all the players. When Paul Dobson at the Great Lakes training station played with that team against Illinois, Mr. Dobson was on hand to see the game. Yet with all his interest has been by no means entirely selfish, by no means bound up only in his captain son. He is a lover of the greatest college sport and as faithful an alumnus as the school has and the future will probably see him almost as well known on the campus as has the past, even though today he will watch Dobbie play his last game of college football.

Syracuse Will Play Nebraska for Second Time On Turkey Day

Syracuse University at Lincoln. It is this line on the Cornhusker schedule that adds weight and prestige throughout the nation to Nebraska athletics. The cream of eastern schools, Syracuse comes to Lincoln to battle the Huskers. This is the second time Nebraska has clashed with the upper strata of eastern football. In 1917 the New Yorkers invaded the Husker camp and returned to their far-away home victors by the narrow margin of one point.

Nebraska was not outplayed in the Syracuse game in 1917. All critics agree that the score should have rightfully been a tie, and only the failure of Captain Ed Shaw to register the goal after a touchdown allowed Syracuse to hold her lead. The game was nip and tuck from start to finish the Huskers not trailing the Easterners at any time. Western football proved as good as the eastern brand on that day and only a slight swerve of a Husker boot prevented a draw.

The Syracuse team of today is a greater machine than the one which faced Nebraska two years ago. The average weight is four pounds per man heavier. There will be six familiar faces and five new ones on the Orange squad that makes the westward journey this year. Cobb, Mehan, Brown, Fensteryald, and Malone,

SIGMA CHI DEFEATS PHI KAPPA PSI IN CLOSE GRID CONTEST

Sigma Chi defeated the Phi Psi in the annual football game by a score of 7 to 0, on the Lincoln High School football field, Wednesday afternoon. Good clean football was displayed throughout the game. The Sigma Chi showed a superior brand of football, and outplayed their opponents throughout the contest.

Sigma Chi won the toss, and chose to kick off. The first half ended with neither side able to score. The game was fast and both sides were on their toes from start to finish. The score came in the last quarter, when Sigma Chi recovered a fumble, which netted them a touchdown. Goal was kicked and the score stood, 7 to 0.

RESEARCH FELLOWSHIP FUND WELL STARTED

Endowment of $10,000 in Memory of Dr. Harry Kirk Wolfe

The university has started its first research fellowship fund of $10,000. It is to be in memory of Dr. Harry Kirk Wolfe who formerly was head of the department of philosophy.

Last spring through the initiative of the Palladian Literary society, of which Dr. H. K. Wolfe was an active member, a suitable memorial was planned by the society members in consultation with the faculty. A research fellowship, to be called the Harry Kirk Wolfe Research Fellowship in Philosophy was decided upon as the most expressive memorial which the University of Nebraska could dedicate to its great teacher and student companion.

Such a fellowship will not only be a memorial to the great work which Dr. Wolfe founded and was personally interested in, but also to his interest in students and their careers. If Dr. Wolfe could help a student to success in the future, he was the happier for it.

Probably no teacher in the university had more personal relationships with the men and women whom he had trained than did Dr. Wolfe. He was the first teacher of philosophy at the University of Nebraska, and was especially interested in psychology. He was the founder of the Department of Philosophy at the University. A greater number who came under his influences will always remember and love him.

The University of Nebraska has had as one of its greatest needs the establishment of research fellowships for the higher work which it does. Such fellowships mean for a university a greater interest, not merely in the art of teaching, but in the science of investigation, upon which the art of teaching rests.

Even without the formal request which was sent out from the members of the graduate council to the chancellor encouraging contributions for the fellowship, a considerable amount has been raised toward the $10,000 which is necessary to endow such a fund. The Palladian society itself has pledged to raise $3,000 of the total amount which is needed. Several contributions of $50 and $100 have been received from alumni who were interested in the movement.

It is believed that many who have received the benefit of the university's training, and who, perhaps had the privilege to sit under the instruction of Dr. Wolfe, will be glad to have the opportunity to pass these benefits on.

SCHOLARSHIP AWARDS ARE MADE TO GIRLS

Three of Those Averaging Over 95 Per Cent Given Special Distinction

Three co-eds, Esther Allen, Janet Maitland, and Eleanor Seymour were awarded scholarship badges by the women's pan-Hellenic council at Convocation Tuesday. Esther Allen, with the splendid average of 95 percent plus, led the freshman class of last year, Janet Maitland, was given the award for the sophomore class and Eleanor Seymour, for the Junior class.

Miss Louise Pound who made the scholarship announcements stated that Helen Norris had an average of 98 per cent, but was ineligible for the sophomore prize because she had been the winner for the year before. This was also true of Frances Streibek for the junior prize, who had a similar average.

The custom of awarding the scholarship badges is an annual one. These Pan-Hellenic prizes are open to competition by all women in the university, in the freshman, sophomore and junior classes.

ALUMNI ASSOCIATION MET HOME-COMING DAY

The board of directors and executive committee of the general alumni association met Home-Coming day. The main purpose of the session was to devise ways and means of promoting county organizations thru the state. The following were present: Leo Siuhr, formerly of Hall county, now state secretary of agriculture; Fred Laird of Dodge county; Ruth Cheney of Frontier; Mrs. Alice T. Dewese of Richardson; Mrs. Huffman of Custer county; R. A. Van Orsdel of Omaha, president of the association; Lincoln members, Mrs. Louise Allen Good, C. L. Clark, Harry Rathbone.

Officers of the general alumni association report that this has been one of its most successful years. Many activities of local organizations have been recorded. Individual members of the association are coming into the light as members of the legislature and leaders of many professional lines.

Committees have been organized, not only from the Palladian society with F. A. Williams as chairman, but from other organizations in the student body and faculty. A general committee has been formed to carry on this work among the students and alumni with Miss Nelle Drake as secretary.

Provost James T. Lees Is 1919 Athletic Director

PROVOST JAMES T. LEES
Provost James T. Lees, for the past thirty-one years with the university, is in charge of the 1919-20 athletic program. Although this is a big task, five stalwart defenders of the Orange in 1917, are no longer members of O'Neill's squad but their places are ably filled by Gulick, Ackley, Abbott, Fallon, and Erwig. O'Neill is bringing to Lincoln the greatest Orange eleven of all tie. The Huskers are clashing with one of the strongest gridiron aggregations that ever performed on an American field.

And what about the Nebraska team? Have the Cornhuskers a ghost of a chance against the formidable array of Easterners? These are questions that can be settled only by actual test and the true answer will not be known until the final whistle has blown this afternoon. It is true that the performance of Schulte's team in the early part of the season was not encouraging. Losing to Iowa, Notre Dame, and then Ames, prospects were anything but bright. Cornhusker fans asked themselves, "What will Syracuse do to us?" and the answer was shrouded in the deepest gloom.

But, suddenly the Huskers rallied, emerged from the exasperating slump and slapped the Tigers in the face with a 12-5 victory. Not content with this display of fight, they returned to Lincoln, and a week later played the powerful Jayhawkers off their feet, winning 19-7. Joy once more reigned in the camp of the Cornhusker. The team was not hopeless, the coach was not rotten, the entire schedule was not lost. "If we can only beat Syracuse," said Nebraska students, "the season may well be called a successful one."

It is a terribly big "if," there is no doubt, but the Huskers have not lost hope and believe they can hold the Easterners at bay. If the outcome of the game at Indiana Saturday was a fair comparison of the Hoosiers and the Orange, then Nebraska has more than an even chance to defeat the New Yorkers. But Syracuse adherents are claiming that the Indiana game did not do justice to the New York team. Graduate Manager Smith, who is in charge of the Syracuse party, says, "The Syracuse players feel they should have defeated Indiana by a margin of thirty or forty points." Whether they should or not, it is most certain that the Orange gridgers are still smarting from the defeat by the lowly Hoosiers and will meet the Huskers with the determination that the return home must find them with at least one victory to their credit.

The Syracuse team is adept at both straight and open football. It was the smashing backs that defeated Colgate while in other games the Orange attack has consisted of a wonderful aerial game. But clever passes that worked against the best teams of the East, failed against Indiana and it is sincerely hoped that dismal failure will be the result when they are uncocked today. Schulte believes he has the team at the zenith of its fighting power and is ready to line his men up against the Orangers.

Provost Lees' work of caring for the six hundred faculty members is the biggest thing and athletics only a sideline.

"The good of physical exercise" said Provost Lees, "comes from the element of rivalry in the sport." He feels that a spirit of rivalry is good and cited, as an example, the fact only five of the sixty to seventy-five men on the varsity football squad are down in their studies.

A new, well-equipped gymnasium with adequate facilities is the ambition of Provost Lees, and when such equipment is available he thinks hundreds will be participating in every branch of sport where there are only dozens now.

Eventually he hopes every man and woman in the university will be active in some line of sport and a start is being made this year, with the inter-college basketball. He wants a team in every college, in each fraternity, and class and have them vie with each other for university supremacy. The school is proud to have, as director of athletics, a man with such a broad vision.
