BUBBLES

Students who have 11 and 1 o'clock classes on the same day are trying to obtain the solution of the following problem: If I get out of class at 12:13 and it takes me 15 minutes to get home, 20 minutes to eat lunch, and 15 more minutes to return to the schoolhouse, how late will I be to my 1 o'clock class?

Now that they have cut the length of time for classes, we presume that the students will be permitted to make a suitable reduction in their study hours.

Advertisement in the Nebraskan offers 1 carat diamond ring for sale for $300. We haven't that much money, but being the proud possessor of a half ton of coal, we feel as though we might acquire said diamond by an even exchange.

What will the instructor, who has been holding his classes 7 minutes overtime do now?

Student opinion wonders why the university doesn't have wrestling during September, October, and November, as it is a fall sport.

Several students have volunteered for work in the mines, and if things keep on as they are now, several more of them will do it because of the draft.

Only a few more days for the men to quarrel with their best girl before Christmas.

asked if there was any way in which the men to go would be chosen. According to the committee all of the lists will be compiled together and the men will be taken from the list as they are needed. A number of Lincoln high school students, some of them ex-service men, volunteered on Wednesday.

Co-eds Register
Co-eds continued to register Wednesday to give their time and help to the movement in any way possible. Some of the women students have asked that they be allowed to go to the mines to cook for the men if they are sent. If they cannot be used in this way, it is possible they may be used by the university committee to help in notifying the university volunteers who are called. This committee composed of Harold Gerhart, chairman; Chris. Christensen, Neil T. Chadderdon, Helen Giltner and Helen Howe.

University headquarters will be continued indefinitely at the student activities office and students may register there at any time. Wesleyan university is expected to open a similar office today. Headquarters for the city registration, which have been at the City Commercial Club, will be moved to the state headquarters at the adjacent general's office Thursday.

PROGRESS ON PROHIBITION

"People who thought that prohibition was a freak American notion, which could never take hold in the more enlightened countries of the old world, were not up to date. In the old Europe, their assumption might have been correct. But that old Europe has ceased to exist.

Norway, for instance, by national plebiscite, has voted 'dry' by two to one. Scotland is to vote on prohibition, and while the wets will doubtless win there this time, there is a very strong prohibition movement. It is no more unthinkable that Scotland will go dry than it used to be that Kentucky would. Russia is already dry, and there is a dry movement in Japan and China. The League of Nations Covenants empowers the league to see that the backward people are dry permanently. Canada is all dry but one province, and that is likely to be dry soon. New Zealand and Australia are nearer to prohibition now than America seemed a few years ago, here is even talk of a dry law in Mexico. And it would not be surprising to see even Germany, France and Italy prohibit strong drink, though they will of course cling to their beer and wine. There are even Englishmen who are beginning to doubt that beer is the staff of life."—Fresno Republican, California.

The editorial above is good, but it doesn't tell all. It might have added that Finland, Roumania, Iceland, and Greenland have gone dry, that two states in Mexico are already dry and that two others partially so, that Sweden and Denmark will probably adopt prohibition next year, that the wife of Great Britain's premier is a campaigner for a dry Scotland, that even beer-soaked Germany had to forego its schnapps and cut the strength of its beer down to 1 per cent during the war, that France, Italy, Switzerland, Holland and Belgium have permanently banished absinth, and that Belgium has recently passed strong restrictions on liquor selling.

One woman and six men will contest in the national Oratorical Contest of the I. P. A. at Des Moines, Jan. 5, 1920. Miss Margaret Garrison, Willamette University, Oregon, the only woman in the case, is the third woman orator ever to attain as far as the national contest, although there have been many woman orators in the lower steps. The only woman to win honors in a national was Miss Mamie White, winner of second place in 1904.

"BILL" DAY IS CHOSEN 1920 HUSKER CAPTAIN

ropolis. Playing three years with the Beatrice high school team, Bill established an enviable gridiron reputation.

Entering the university in the fall of 1916, Bill first made his appearance in Cornhusker football with the freshmen team. He played one season on the Yearling team and next year was one of the dependables of Doc Stewart's Varsity. He was not in school last year, but was in the service of Uncle Sam. He entered the naval branch of the service and won the commission of Ensign stationed at Goat Island, near San Francisco, he once more donned his gridiron togs and was elected captain of the navy team at that place. The year of navy football kept Day in touch with the gridiron game and when he returned to school this fall he at once stepped into the pivot position of Coach Schulte's lineup.

A tower of strength in the Cornhusker line, was Day this year. Attacks through the middle of the line seldom brought substantial gains. All critics and coaches agree that Bill is an aggressive offensive player and a demon on the defense. All through the season he has been one of the mainstays of the Nebraska forward wall and more than one enemy formation, has been spilled with a loss by Day. As Coach Schulte says, better centers don't grow. With Day elected as captain, and only two or three men leaving the 1919 squad, prospects are indeed rosy for next year. If the captain has anything to do with it, the 1920 team should be a world beater.

MEMORAH SOCIETY MEETS

It is a wonderful tale of the language in which the Bible was written, a language that has been considered dead and classed with Greek and Latin, but which has recently taken its place among the modern languages. Magazines and dailies are printed in this language. A great modern literature has been developed, a literature as unique and original, and as full of great idealism as the eternal people themselves. The history of its development is wonderful and instructive. No educated person should miss an opportunity to learn about it and hear its fascinating history. Next Sunday the Menorah Society of the University of Nebraska will devote its meeting to a study of Modern Hebrew literature. Everybody is welcome to this meeting, which begins at 7:30 o'clock in Grand hotel, west entrance.

"The Colleges of the World for World Prohibition," is the theme of the Biennial National Convention of the Intecollegiate Prohibition Association at Des Moines, Iowa, January 5, 1920. Student Prohibition Leagues, college Christian Associations and Oratorical Associations are invited to send delegates. All students and professors are invited to attend. The evening of the same day will be turned over to the National Oratorical Contest.
