UNIVERSITY WILL REMAIN OPEN IS THE LATEST RULING

Chicago Fuel Administration to Furnish Enough Coal to Continue Limited Schedule

Volunteers Will Pose for Film News Service Camera This Morning

The University of Nebraska will remain open. The fuel administration at Chicago telephoned yesterday to the Lincoln Coal Conservation committee that coal would be furnished to keep the school open for some time. Chancellor Avery interprets this to mean at least a week with a possibility that there will be school until December 19th.

With Nebraska's coal allotment raised from 1,000 to 1,500 cars a day the situation that has rapidly been becoming so serious that immediate suffering was resulting, takes on a brighter aspect. This increase of fifty per cent affects not only Nebraska, but its neighboring states, Missouri, South Dakota and Kansas.

Pictures of Volunteers

Friday morning, December 5th, a New York film man will take pictures of men who have volunteered to dig coal. These men should meet at U hall at 11:20 or 12:15 o'clock to repeat their signing for the camera man. These pictures will be shown all over the country and are considered a splendid advertisement for the University of Nebraska. Women who have volunteered to assist should be present for the pictures. These pictures will be a part of a series, showing General Pershing in his home. The general will be in Lincoln, Friday, leaving the city late in the evening. Conservation is being carried to the limit and while no new rulings have been adopted, the committee has been centering its activity on the rigid enforcement of rules already laid down. Up to this time there has been a general compliance with the rules and only a few violations have been reported.

University students in large numbers are supporting the volunteer movement and in a number of cases entire fraternities have pledged to go to the mines. A powerful organization is being built up and the committee in charge is greatly pleased with the promising results. Up until Thursday noon the known enlistments from Omaha and Lincoln totaled nearly 1,000 men available for immediate duty. Approximately 600 of these men come from the University of Nebraska. Both in Omaha and Lincoln volunteers are being recruited rapidly and by Friday evening nearly 2,000 men are expected to be enrolled in these two cities alone.

With no letup in the strike situation and conditions growing more serious in Nebraska it is probable that the volunteers may be called within a short time. Governor McKelvie is in communication with the governors of surrounding states and with the federal government and expects to have definite announcement to make upon his return from Denver today.

The state committee handling the volunteer work announces that men will be sent from Nebraska only in case Nebraska is to receive a part of the coal mined and if transportation, good wages, and thorough protection is afforded. Men who sign to volunteer will go only under those terms.

Transportation for the men, if they are called, will be provided for through some agreement reached by the mine officials and the public officials. The exact wages to be paid cannot be ascertained until it is learned where the men are to be sent, but protection is assured.

Headquarters for the registration in the city of Lincoln have been moved from the Lincoln Commercial club to the office of the adjutant general in the Nebraska State bank building, Fifteenth and O streets. Volunteers may also leave their names by calling B2776.

With the prospect for a closing of the university in the next few days, registration of students was given an added impetus Thursday morning. Jack D. Beacom, who in cooperation with Leonard W. Kline is handling the registration in the city of Omaha with headquarters at the Omaha chamber of commerce, announces that students from Omaha and the Nebraska State bank building, Fifteenth and O streets. Volunteers may also leave their names by calling B2776.

DIRECTORIES ON SALE TODAY FOR LAST TIME

The University Directory is being offered for sale on the campus for the last time today.

Additional copies were delivered immediately after the close of the sale before Thanksgiving vacation. Since that time many inquiries have been received as to possibility of securing copies of the book. It has been decided to place the directory on sale once more at various places about the campus.

As heretofore, distribution will be by the Y. W. C. A., at the Library, U-Hall, and Social Science Hall. Copies may also be secured at the College Book Store and at the Y. M. C. A. in the Temple and the City Y. M. C. A., while they last.

All Freshmen are requested to turn in their football equipment as soon as possible. The playing season is now over and the department wants to check up on the equipment.

INTER-CLASS SOCCER TOURNAMENT WILL BE SATURDAY MORNING

The girls' inter-class soccer tournament will be held Saturday morning, December 6, 1919. The senior team will play the freshmen team, and the sophomore team will play the junior team, beginning at 10:15 o'clock. In the afternoon the winners of the morning games will mix at 1:00 o'clock for the school championship. Fifty extra W. A. A. points will be given to members of the winning team in addition to the regular points given for participation in this sport.

The two losers in the morning games will meet to decide which is the better team and the winner will play the second freshmen team in the afternoon. All games will be 30 minutes long.

Class and team spirit is waxing high and a peppy bunch of rooters are expected to be present both Saturday morning and afternoon.

THETA SIGMA PHI HONORS TWO NOTED WOMEN WRITERS

The members of Theta Sigma Phi, women's honorary journalistic fraternity, held a banquet Thursday evening at the Lincoln hotel in honor of Mrs. Effie Leese Scott, a former Lincoln woman who is now publicity agent for the new Interchurch World Movement, and Mrs. Bees Streeter of Elmwood, Nebraska, a noted magazine writer. Covers were laid for twenty one.

Mrs. Scott has been engaged in publicity work in New York for the last four years. She told of her work in that connection, saying that anyone who undertakes publicity work must be thoroughly informed upon the subject which they undertake to put before the public. Before she started on her recent assignment she read and studied about it for more than two weeks, before writing a single word.

Mrs. Aldrich told of her history in writing for magazines. She said that writing the story was only half of the work; marketing it is the other half. She urged that would-be fiction writers confine themselves to depicting things within the range of experience. A successful fiction writer must have three qualities, she said, sympathy or imagination, which she thinks are practically synonymous, a good foundation in English, and energy to write the things which come into the mind. One cannot be successful as a writer without these three qualities, she believes. Mrs. Aldrich has just completed a contract of ten stories for the American magazine. Her next piece of work is to be a scenario for Norma Talmage.

"Oh-wad some powe the giftie gie us To see ourselves as ithers see us; Methinks 'twould so reduce our guests That we could have our little vests Wrapped thrice around, and still so slack That they could button in the bacy." —California University Poetess.

VOLUNTEERS POSE FOR FILMS

Students who have registered for work in the coal mines meet in front of University Hall at either 11:20 or 12:15 today to have moving pictures taken of signing up.

ORCHESTRA RENDERS RECENT COMPOSITION BY PROFESSOR DANN

Prof. William F. Dann's recent composition "Quintet in F Major" received an excellent rendition before quite a large audience of music lovers in Memorial hall Thursday morning at 11:30. The university orchestra composed of four pieces accompanied by the organ most ably interpreted this most pleasing work and succeeded in emphasizing the pleasing but more subtle harmonies.

Mrs. Raymond at the organ gave skillful accompaniment to the orchestra which was composed of first and second violins played by Edward J. Walt and Ernest Harrison, viola and cello played by William T. Quick and Miss Lillian Eiche, respectively.

The presence in the audience of quite a large number of Lincoln people, many of whom had heard this composition when it was presented at the Matinee Musicale last Monday afternoon, was a fine tribute to Prof. Dann's musicianship. The absence of a larger number of faculty members was emphasized perhaps, by a few members of the faculty who were there.

The only disappointing feature of the program was due perhaps, to the shortened lunch hour which prevented many from attending and caused others to leave before the program was concluded.

DR. FLING TELLS OF PEACE CONFERENCE

Dr. Fling spoke at Hardy, Nebr., last night on America at the Peace Conference. Dr. Fling is head of the Department of European History in the university and was appointed to go to the Peace Conference and have complete charge of keeping the records of the Diplomatic History of the war. He is, therefore, very capable of giving the people the best information, as he has it first-hand.

UNION SERVICES SCHEDULED DURING FUEL SHORTAGE

Lincoln Churches Will Hold Meetings in Four Denominational Groups

Because of the coal shortage, the Fuel Conservation Commission has decreed that union church services be held until conditions become normal again. There has been some misunderstanding and the report has gone around that only one service would be held, but on the contrary the city has been divided geographically into four groups and St. Paul's Methodist, the Roman Catholic Cathedral, the Jewish Synagogue and the Grace Methodist church will be open during the period of coal shortage.

The Federation of Church Workers announces the schedule of Sunday services and Student Bible classes for Sunday, December 7 as follows:

THOMAS DELEGATE TO CONVENTION OF SIGMA DELTA CHI

Herman H. Thomas has gone to Champaign-Urbana, Illinois, where he will act as a delegate from the University of Nebraska to the national convention of Sigma Delta Chi, honorary journalistic fraternity, which meets there Friday and Saturday, December 5th and 6th.

The Illinois towns will be a Mecca for journalists from colleges situated in every corner of the United States. Delegates began to arrive Thursday afternoon, according to word received here yesterday. Distant chapters on the Pacific Coast will send representatives to the convention. There are three chapters of the society and all of them have promised to co-operate with the work of the conference.

To provide for the early arrivals changes were made in the program of the convention so that the reception and registration would be held Thursday afternoon. Business sessions will commence Friday morning instead of Friday afternoon as originally planned. Friday's schedule also includes an inspection of the editorial, business and press rooms of the Daily Illini, official student publication of the University of Illinois.

The chapter banquet will be held at 6:30 o'clock Friday evening at the Inman Hotel. A reception for the fraternity will be given by Theta Sigma Phi, honorary journalistic fraternity for women at 5:50 o'clock on the afternoon of the same day.

An Orpheum party followed by a smoker at the Sigma Chi house Saturday evening will close the convention. Among the distinguished guests will be Paul Scott Mowrer, famous war correspondent of the Chicago Daily News, who will be the principal speaker, and also the national officers of the organization: Lee A. White, editor of the Quill; Robert C. Lowry, president; and Kenneth Hogsie, secretary.

HUSKERS AND JAYHAWKS WILL MIX ON GRIDIRON NEXT FALL

CAROLYN REED ELECTED NEW ASSOCIATE EDITOR

At a meeting of the student publication board, Thursday, Miss Carolyn Reed was appointed to fill the position of associate editor on the Nebraska staff. The resignation of Carlisle Jones as news editor of the daily was accepted.

Miss Reed has been very active in student affairs. She is connected with the Awgwan and Cornhusker staffs and is president of the senior class. She is a member of the Pi Phi sorority and lives in Lincoln.

Carlisle Jones was connected with both the Nebraskan and the Lincoln Daily Star, which made it impossible to continue his work as news editor.

APPLICATIONS FOR NEWS EDITORS

Applications will be received for news editor not later than noon Saturday, at the Student Activities office.

Leakage of the heart has caused the loss of Gilly's valuable service to Coach Schissler's basketball team. The affliction was first apparent last year in track work and now physicians prohibit Gillilan from participating in athletics of any form. A star forward on the team last year, he was practically assured a berth on the 1920 quint. This a serious blow to Schissler's otherwise rosy prospects.

During the period of coal shortage necessitating an abridgement of the length of class periods it is more than ever important that all classes be dismissed promptly, in order that the students may reach their next classes on time, and that justice may be done by all the teachers to all their colleagues. Both teachers and students are urged to co-operate to bring about this highly desirable result. (Signed) Jas. T. Lees, Provost.

THE COLLEGE WORLD

The University of Illinois seems to be "strong" for the theatre, and for the moving picture.

In each edition one entire inside page is devoted exclusively to the art of the "talkies" or the cinema. Under the general headline of "Theatres" a discussion of current plays now appearing in the Twin Cities is written not entirely in the language of a hardened critic, but in a more interesting and expressive way.

The University of Illinois is fortunate in having access to the best things in music, drama and screen production. Madame Matzenauer, famous coloratura soprano, will appear there during the month of December, and Valeska Surraat, and other famous artists will play at Champaign-Urbana theatres.

That the Illinois college appreciates these attractions is evidenced by the fact that a whole page of an edition of eight pages is devoted to their criticism and discussion. For university "movie" critics, the page "winds up" with one or two interviews with famous stars of the silver-sheet.

Practically every church in Hancock County, Ohio, was visited by prohibition deputations teams from Findlay College just before the Ohio election.

Kansas Athletic Authorities Decide to Keep Contract With Nebraska for Football

Word is Anticipated from Ames and Missouri Regarding Intentions for Coming Year

In spite of the fact that Kansas recently broke off athletic relations with the Cornhuskers, the two schools will meet next year on the gridiron. After Nebraska had withdrawn from the Missouri Valley conference, Kansas athletic authorities announced that a continuation of athletic relations with the Huskers would be undesirable until Nebraska should return to the Conference. A telegram was received yesterday, however, from the Jayhawk authorities stating that Kansas desired to retain the annual game with Nebraska and mentioned November 13 as a possible date, the game to be played in Lawrence, as the contract provides. Provost Lees wired his acceptance of the proposal and once more the Cornhuskers will clash with the ancient foe, the Kansas Jayhawkers.

Last spring a two-year contract was drawn up by the two schools, calling for games in 1919 and 1920. The announcement that Kansas had severed relations with Nebraska led many to believe that the Kansas would not recognize the contract as binding. The decision to play the Huskers again in 1920, however, is proof that the Kansas authorities intend to live up to their contract. Nebraska also has contracts with Ames and Missouri and it is thought the near future will bring statements from these schools announcing their intentions to observe their contracts.

When Kansas broke athletic relations with Nebraska, as fall, it came as a distinct surprise, not only to the athletic authorities at this school but also to the student body. The unpopularity of the move at the Kansas institution was soon reflected in the school paper, it being apparent that many students there were opposed to leaving out on one of the biggest games of the season.

Rivalry between the two schools has been keen in all sports, and particularly in football. Nothing has done the Jayhawk rooters more good than to come out a scrimmage with the Cornhuskers at the long end of the score, and even in years when school spirit at Nebraska has been inclined to lag, the Kansas game has ever been the greatest possible stimulus in reviving pep and enthusiasm.

With the fact apparent that the Kansas-Nebraska game of this year was to be the last for an indefinite length of time, Kansas put every ounce of strength behind her team in a final effort to wallop Nebraska. Several hundred students accompanied the team to Lincoln, and when the Cornhuskers proceeded to pull the tail feathers out of the Jayhawk and bury it with the remains of the Tiger from Missouri, it was a sad crowd that returned. For Nebraska had held the majority of games prior to the 1919 contest, and the backers from the south were anxious to at least have the relations end favorably to them. It has been suggested on the Nebraska campus that the unfavorable outcome to Kansas University of this year's game may have been some influence towards the decision recently reached by Kansas athletic authorities.

ATHLETIC DIRECTORS GO TO "BIG TEN" MEETING

Dr. James T. Lees, state university provost and acting director of athletics, and Henry F. Schulte, head football and track coach, departed from Lincoln Thursday afternoon for Chicago, where the "Big Ten" conference delegates, coaches and managers are to hold their annual winter meeting. The "Big Ten" representatives will schedule most of their 1920 football bookings during the Chicago pow-wow and the two Nebraska delegates will seek to establish football relations with two or three of the "Big Ten" teams.

The governing boards and faculty delegates of the Missouri Valley conference are scheduled to assemble next Saturday in Kansas City, Nebraska, which withdrew from the Valley conference late last summer. It will be represented by Paul J. Schissler, assistant director of athletics, at the Kansas City gathering, according to a Thursday morning statement
