

PROFESSOR FOGG TELLS OF FRANCE

Took Pictures of Battlefields in France Where Nebraska Boys Fought.

LAST CALL IS SOUNDED.

Professor M. M. Fogg gave an address at convocation Tuesday illustrated with views of the battlefields where Nebraska boys fought and died. The pictures were those taken by Professor Fogg when he made a four-days' trip with General Pershing over the war-torn regions of France.

"The world went crazy so we had to come over here and do this," were the words that a soldier greeted Professor Fogg with at Brest. The pictures that were shown clearly illustrated what the soldier meant when he said, "do this," for vast regions were shown in devastated conditions and great cathedrals in ruins, and then the simple graves where the heroes were laid.

Pictures were also shown of General Pershing's office and some of the A. E. F. university. Others varied in nature and scope from lovely French roads lined with beautiful trees, up which the Huns wished to force a way to Paris, to the grim specters of cemeteries laid out with symmetrical precision where the soldiers underwent their last dress parade, but among the most interesting were those of the woods where some of the most severe battles of the war were fought.

Professor Fogg paid special respect to three Nebraska men—Baatz of Western, MeEul of Emerson and Wasinger of Minden—whose graves he found while on his tour.

He then proceeded in chronological order to follow the great events of the war. The address contained much valuable historical information. Countless figures of dates, wounded and other statistics were at the speaker's command.

His presentation of the straits into which France had fallen when America jumped in was effective. The German watch-tower from which a German official watched by means of a periscope in the cellar, thirty feet long, and the picture of Prince Ruprecht's underground home in the Meuse-Arzonne forest gave touches of German psychology of thinking. The last digout was four stories deep with a passage half a mile long to the front and another of similar length to serve as a get-away at the rear.

Professor Fogg showed how the 11,000 dead and the 100,000 wounded Americans at the battle of the Meuse Arzonne were taken care of. Trains equipped to carry 360 wounded had to take 650 men.

GIRLS CORNHUSKER PARTY JANUARY 16

Costs Will Don Many Festive Costumes for Annual Event.

The Girls' Cornhusker Party will be held in the armory Friday evening, January 16. This annual festivity for university women, which is a costume affair, was scheduled for December but the coal ban which restricted university functions and society in general, made postponement necessary. An admission fee of twenty-five cents will be charged.

The committee is already at work preparing for the evening's merriment. Booths have been a feature of the evening's entertainment in the past, and for several years refreshments were served by the Silver Serpents and other university organizations.

Both rooms in the armory will be used for the party—one for dancing, and the other for the "stunts" and other amusements. All organizations who wish to prepare skits for the evening are requested to see either Katherine Willis or Martha Hellner. Some of the "stunts" had already neared completion when the ban was clamped down on December parties.

Many and varied have been the costumes worn at this annual party, and keen rivalry is often exhibited among university women in choosing their "make-ups."

January 16 will be a closed night for university purposes because of the Cornhusker Banquet for men which will also be held that evening at the Lincoln. All parties which were previously scheduled but which were postponed on account of the coal shortage, will be given, however, on that evening. This includes several downtown fraternity parties, and the Sophomore Hop at the Commercial Club.

HAVE NEW SENIOR CLASS PIN YEAR

The class of 1920 has decided to depart from the traditional Senior pin of the past, which was a large "N," above the figures representing the date of the graduating class, both engraved upon a plain background.

The new pins, which have arrived and which will be voted on by the Senior Pin Committee soon, will display conspicuously an ear of corn and the year.

The pins are now on sale at the College Book Store for $2.75. The rings, which have also been received, may be obtained for $6.00.

The newly designed pin will be presented at a meeting which has been called by Orville Ellerbrock, chairman of the Senior Pin Committee, to standardize the pin as changed.

ALUMNI ACTIVE IN BOOMING PERSHING FOR NEXT PRESIDENT

Will the University of Nebraska see its son General John J. Pershing, chief of the nation? Can Pershing, Nebraska's own product and the beneficiary of Nebraska's educational institutions, land the Republican nomination for president of the United States and so win his way to the nation's chief executive office?

These are questions that are commanding the earnest attention of chiefs in all the political camps of the country and ones that will create no little amount of turmoil before a final disposition of them can be made.

That Pershing will make a mighty bid for recognition in Republican presidential circles is to be conceded. There can be no doubting that the announcement from Lincoln Nebraska headquarters stating that General Pershing will be drafted for the presidential nominations is a foreboding is bound to be taken seriously enough by other candidates, announced and prospective, bidding for the Republican endorsement for the presidential elections.

Woods Heads Campaign
The Pershing boom launched less than three weeks ago by local friends and actively directed by Mark W. Woods of Lincoln, has already assumed very promising proportions for those concerned in his candidacy. It is interesting to the university student body to observe that among the chief Pershing-for-President proponents are alumni of the University of Nebraska.

Immediately upon the announcement made by Mark W. Woods that his friends would conduct a campaign to draft the Nebraska hero for the republican nomination, alumni associates in Lincoln and Lancaster county announced their support of the movement and organized a campaign committee which is taking a very active part in promoting the Pershing-for-President program.

Executive Committee Appointed
Mr. Frank D. Eager of Lincoln, president of the Lincoln association, is active in conducting this program. The association likewise appointed an executive committee of which Mr. Harvey Rathbone was made chairman, and this committee has launched a very formidable drive proposing General Pershing for the presidency.

Mr. Eager former his first acquaintance of the general during the time the latter was commandant of the university army post, and was a sergeant in the crack drill squad here that was coached by the general, and which won the prize at the national drill contest held at Omaha in 1893.

Many Pledge Support
Word from local alumni headquarters to alumni associations throughout the United States telling of the Pershing-for-President movement has been taken up enthusiastically, and reports are being received daily from associations in the various sections pledging earnest support to the move.

Telegrams and letters from graduates who came into Pershing's acquaintance and association during his stay at the university betray the fine qualities of his character as his friends came to know him. Pershing graduated from the law college in 1893 while commanding the university cadets and was thus brought into closer contact with the student body than he otherwise might have been, and he stands in relation to the graduates of this university as a fellow alumnus, while those who attended the university in his day speak of him now as a class-mate and friend, instead of merely a commander of the army organization here.

STUDENT VOLUNTEER DELEGATES REPORT AT VESPERS TUESDAY

Delegates who attended the Student Volunteer Convention at Des Moines gave brief reports to a large and attentive audience at Vespers Tuesday.

This program was announced as a mere introduction to the rally to be held in the Temple Theatre 7 o'clock Wednesday evening when both men and women will speak.

Miss Alice Allen was the leader at vespers. She and four other delegates spoke.

Miss Ruth Sheldon spoke of the various steps in the one great motive in life, service. She emphasized the value of sacrifice and said that service cannot be complete unless it is consecrated.

"Russia needs America," was the theme of Miss Mary Sheldon's talk in which she told of the many ways in which Russia is turning to America idealized.

The various colleges and universities represented were giving their own yells, for a time the Chinese remained silent. Then they burst out with the locomotive for Nebraska.

The relation of this incident preface Miss Allen's report of the Chinese at the convention. She said that the Chinese speakers emphasized the need of Christianity in the place of Confucianism, Buddhism and Taoism.

Miss Ruth Hutton said that Sherwood Eddy gave these questions as the test of Christianity, "Are you pure?" "Are you surrendered?" "Are you going to lead the sacrificial life of love?"

Miss Olive Hartley gave statistics showing the need of foreign missionaries, especially with medical training.

The convention was attended by foreign delegates from Mexico, Cuba, Porto Rico, Costa Rico, Salvador, Venezuela, Columbia, Brazil, Uruguay, Argentina, Chili, Peru, England, Scotland, France, Holland, Switzerland, Spain, Portugal, Italy, Scandinavia, Poland, Czech Slovakia, Greece, Bulgaria, Roumania, Russia, Japan, Korea, Siberia, China, The Philippines, India, Ceylon, America, Syria, Africa and Australia.

FAMOUS "Y" QUARTET SINGS AT CONVENTION

The now famous International Association Quartet that has gone around the world, rendered numbers at the Eighth International Student Volunteer Convention which closed Sunday at Des Moines, Iowa. The clear and harmonious voices of the four men were heard distinctively in all parts of the great Coliseum where the meetings were held. Many students were touched and inspired almost as much by their music as by the speakers.

Two of the original members of the quartet were present.

C. M. Keeler, now religious director of the Y. M. C. A. at St. Paul and E. W. Peck of the Minneapolis "Y" are still the baritone and bass of the organization.

Two new recruits are Rev. P. J. Gilbert, first tenor, pastor of the First Presbyterian church at Monticello, Ill. who joined the quartet in 1897; and Rev. P. H. Metcalf, pastor of the First Congregational church at Madison, Ohio, formerly of Des Moines, who became second tenor of the quartet in 1896.

The quartet has sung at every student volunteer convention since 1898, has toured the world in the interests of the Men and Religion Forward Movement, and has sung at practically every convention of modern religious movements.

Rev. Gilbert is a graduate of De Pauw University, Ind., and is at present religious director of the Elgin Y.

C. M.
Metcalf is a graduate of Oberlin College and was for two years a member of the famous Moody quartet.

C. M. Keeler was for a number of years the head of a large printing establishment. He is now religious director of the Y. M. C. A. at St. Paul. Peck was at one time superintendent of the Des Moines schools, then became general secretary of the Y. M. C. A., and after holding that position for twelve years became state secretary of Minnesota "Y" work.

The man who has been regretting that the war ended before he could get in should take courage; the struggle for social justice, civic righteousness, and world prohibition offers a challenge to every red-blooded man who has conscience, a heart, and a brain, as well as red blood.

STOCKMEN TO MEET AT THE FARM DURING WEEK OF JANUARY 19

Cattle, swine, horse, and sheep breeders' associations have each been accorded a day on the program of organized agriculture, which meets here the week of January 19. The sheep breeders will meet Tuesday, the horse breeders Wednesday, the swine breeders Thursday and the cattle breeders Friday. The four associations make up the one big state organization known as the Nebraska Improved Livestock Breeders' association. Charles Graff of Bancroft is president and M. B. Posson of the college of agriculture secretary of this association. All the meetings will be in the judging pavilion at the university farm.

Dr. W. E. Hewitt of David City is president and Prof. H. B. Pier of the college of agriculture secretary of the sheep breeders' association. It will meet Tuesday with the following program:

Care and management of a farm flock, Judge John Reese, Broken Bow. The kind of feeders sheep to buy, George Parker, Knollin Sheep Commission Co., Omaha.

Present needs of Nebraska sheep men, W. H. Savin, University Farm, Lincoln.

Feeding lambs, Spencer Butterfield, Osmond.

Eat more lamb, Walter Boireau, Swift & Company.

Caring for the wool clip, Elmer Lohse, Omaha Hide & Fur company.

Wool pools, A. R. Hecht, Lexington. Annual business meeting of the Nebraska sheep breeders and wool growers.

H. J. McLoughlin of Doniphan is president and DeLoss P. Moulton of Lincoln secretary of the horse breeders. The program follows:

Judging demonstration, DeLoss P. Moulton, high man in horse judging at International show.

The importance of the draft horse, Wayne Dinsmore, Chicago.

Tractor-drawn versus horse-drawn farm machinery, L. W. Chase, Lincoln. Profits in horse raising, John Dalton, Lincoln.

PROFESSOR COCHRAN TO LEAD "Y" FORUM

Professor Roy E. Cochran of the American History department will lead the "Y" Forum this week Thursday at 5 o'clock on the topic of the League of Nations. Following the custom that has prevailed in these meetings, the leader will not give a lecture, but will simply ask leading questions and guide discussion concerning the topic. This method of conducting the Forum has met with the hearty approval of the men as it gives everyone a chance to express his views on various questions and also to learn how other men look upon these same propositions.

Some of the questions that will be raised are:

1. Will the League prevent war?
2. What danger has Article 10?
3. What objections to the Shantung clause?
4. Is the League American?
5. Does it deny the Monroe Doctrine?
6. Is it fair to give Great Britain six votes?

The Y. M. C. A. reading room has almost proven inadequate to hold the number that have been attending. If the meetings continue to grow in size a new room will need to be provided.

PROFESSOR BARKER PREPARES PAPER FOR HARVARD PUBLICATION

Dr. F. D. Barker of the Department of Botany has just completed a paper that is a partial report of the work he did in Bermuda last summer. It is to be published by the Harvard Museum of Comparative Zoology.

Professor Barker spent six weeks in Bermuda this summer in research in the Bermuda Biological Station which is maintained there by Harvard University. His work was a continuation of the work which he began in 1913. It involved the study of the parasites of the Bermuda fish. He was able to bring back a large amount of material which will be studied during the next two or three years.

The paper which he has just finished is the first of several which will be published from time to time at Harvard.

NEBRASKA STOCK PLEASES THE SOUTH

Texas who recently purchased purebred hogs in Nebraska are so well pleased they may be back for more this month, according to word received from the south by the Nebraska College of Agriculture. Four carloads of hogs were sent south from this state in December. The southern delegation of farmers, stock raisers and college professors which purchased the hogs expressed surprise at the farming and stock raising opportunities here and asked why Nebraska was not better advertised. The College of Agriculture is attempting to open up markets in other states for Nebraska pure bred stock. Texas is so well pleased that it is expected other southern states will soon be added to the list.

DELEGATES TO TELL OF INTERNATIONAL STUDENT CONVENTION

Members of the Nebraska delegation to the student convention will report to the student body at a mass meeting to be held this evening at 7 o'clock. They will endeavor to transmit to their fellow-students the inspiring message of the convention and its call to Christian leadership.

The forty-seven delegates who represented the 4,700 students of the university strongly feel their obligations to the student body. At a meeting held before the end of the convention the delegation decided that the challenge of the great gathering must be passed on to the students who were unable to go; that the dynamic force of the convention should make itself felt on the campus at once, later to be given to the world in the form of leaders of men.

The speakers of the evening's meeting will be:

Lawrence Slater—Needs of the New World.

Alice Allen—What Nebraska is Doing.

Jack Virtue—Inadequacy of the Non-Christian Religions.

Mary Sheldon—Adequacy of the Christian Religion.

Ray Cowen—What Kind of Lives Does the World Need?

MASS MEETING TONIGHT

A mass meeting will be held at 7 o'clock tonight in the Temple for the purpose of presenting to the students the message brought back by their delegates to the Des Moines Student Convention. No student can afford to neglect this opportunity.

STUDENT VOLUNTEERS PLAN TO ORGANIZE

Student volunteers plan to hold a meeting of the University of Nebraska Delegation to the Student Volunteer Convention last night. It was decided to organize the delegates to perpetuate the message of the convention. The delegation plans to support all campus movements such as the coming series of address by Bishop Stunts and the big men of the Des Moines convention. The first step in the achievement of this program will be taken in the mass meeting tonight when several of the delegates will speak to the student body.

HONEY PRODUCERS WILL MEET AT STATE FARM

The third annual meeting of the Nebraska Honey Producers' association will be held at the state farm January 19 and 20. R. W. Livers of Hardy is president and M. H. Swenk of Lincoln secretary of the association. The meetings will be held in the plant industry building, university farm campus. Bee men of national repute are on the program, which is as follows:

Rearing of queen bees, Kenneth Hawkins, specialist in beekeeping, Watertown, Wis.

Commercial beekeeping in the west and southwest (illustrated), F. C. Pelett, American Bee Journal, Hamilton, Ill.

Getting the maximum yield, Kenneth Hawkins, Watertown, Wis.

The value of more research in apiculture, F. B. Paddock, Iowa state apiarist, Ames, Ia.

Organization and cooperative efforts among beekeepers, F. B. Paddock.

A dinner of the members of the association and their friends in honor of visiting speakers will be held the evening of the first day, Monday.

SEASON TICKETS MUST GO FASTER

Committee Urges Students to Support Team for Heaviest of all Schedules.

GOAL IS ONE THOUSAND.

The sale of basketball season tickets started off yesterday with a boom but the amount sold is still far short of the desired goal. According to the athletic department, at least one thousand season tickets must be sold, if the season is to be a financial success. While the exact number already sold is not known, the officials in charge have indicated that the number of sales must make a decided advance during the remainder of the week if the campaign succeeds.

The W. A. A. girls and the Vikings have charge of the sales on the campus and are making every effort to reach the entire student body. With four thousand students attending the university, it should be a matter of comparative ease to dispose of at least one thousand tickets. This would be a record of only twenty-five per cent loyalty. The entire thousand tickets could have been sold in one day. Cornhusker students seemingly do not realize the necessity of financial backing to the success of the basketball season.

Greatest Schedule Ever
More than ever before is it now necessary to establish a record sale of tickets. The athletic department is attempting something entirely strange to the University of Nebraska in the way of a basketball schedule. The best teams of the country will be seen in action on the local floor. The Nebraska team will be one of the greatest that has ever worn the Scarlet and Cream. This new schedule naturally brings about an enormous increase in financially. The athletic department has estimated the cost of the 1920 season at $4000. It is stated that if one thousand season tickets at three dollars each are sold, the season will pay out.

Only three dollars for twelve basketball games of the highest class! Cornhusker basketball fans will be given the privilege of seeing twelve exhibitions of the best basketball in the country at the small cost of only twenty-five cents per game. It is the duty of every loyal Nebraskan to make every effort to help the team to a successful season. By buying a season ticket and thus helping to reach the goal of one thousand, each student can do his share.

PICTURES MUST BE TAKEN THIS MONTH

Individual and Organization Photographs Should be in Before January 31.

Final summons for students and organizations to have pictures taken for the 1920 Cornhusker were sounded by the editor Tuesday. The last date for pictures to be accepted is set as January 31st. Townsend's studio is ready to take pictures of individuals and groups at any time now.

Probably one-fourth of the individual pictures have not yet been taken and the Cornhusker management is desirous of having photographs of all juniors and seniors appear in the annual book this year.

Arrangements have just been completed for a twenty or twenty-five page section devoted entirely to the medical college in Omaha. Dean Irving Cutter, of the medical school, has agreed to take over the responsibility for this section and will appoint a medical editor.

More than fifty organizations in school have yet not had pictures taken for the Cornhusker, and as many more have not paid for their pictures. Group pictures will not be accepted by the Cornhusker until they have been paid for. The rate for organizations is $12 for one page, or $20 for two pages.

The following organizations have not yet had pictures taken:

- Ag Club
- A. I. E. E.
- All University Party
- A. S. M. C.
- Band
- Black Masque
- Blue Print
- N Club
- Camp Fire Girls
- Christianity Club
- Chemistry Science Club
- Chorus
