Nebraska Editors Want Extension of Courses—Campaign for Printing Department.

Students Under Competent Instructors Would Put Out Campus Publications.

Nebraska University may have a printing establishment of its own, if plans under way at present are completed.

Shortage of printers, linotype operators and make-up men throughout the state have led Nebraska newspaper men to heartily endorse the movement and promise their support in the effort to induce the legislature to make the necessary appropriation.

Recognition of the fact that the university may perform a valuable service to the state and at the same time cut down on the expense of publishing student papers by the establishment of such a department have led the university authorities to view the proposition with favor.

Mr. O. O. Buck of Harvard, Neb., has been particularly interested in the movement to establish a printing department at the university and has made a recommendation to the board of regents. "Nebraska printers are enthusiastically supporting the program," Mr. Buck says, "and it is their hope that the new department will be opened by next fall."

Chancellor Avery and members of the board of regents have as yet made no statement as to the action which

UNIVERSITY STUDENTS WILL BUILD AIRPLANES

Harding, Zook and Bahl Plan to Manufacture A Pleasure Machine.

Economical operation and a low landing speed are the two outstanding features embodied in "The Lark," a commercial airplane to be produced at the airship plant of Harding, Zook and Bahl, a local firm, composed of university students. The fact that a light model craft for passenger service and general commercial use is the coming plane has led the firm to design several improvements on the original as designed by the Marlin-Rockwell corporation of New Jersey. Lieutenant Bahl has made a special study of the new plane and has given a great deal of time and work to improving on the original. It is his idea that the new plane will be a safe and sane machine for the average man, thus eliminating need of special training or an excessive amount of work in learning the trade of a birdman.

A special school of instruction will be set up to teach the purchasers the new art of aviation. This school will be maintained by the local airship firm and will be under the supervision of Lieutenant Bahl. Lieutenant Bahl was a pilot in the army and served as an instructor at Richfield, Texas, for over a year. Besides this he has over 500 hours commercial flying during the past year, qualifying him well for instruction of civilians.

"The Lark" is a monoplane, width over all 28 feet, 11 inches, weight with pilot, passenger and fuel for three hours flight, 850 pounds. It has a range of speed from 25 to 85 miles per hour and a landing speed of 20 to 25 miles. It will climb 4000 feet in ten minutes. "The Lark" will be on exhibit in the lobby of the Charlton Hotel, north of the auditorium on fifteenth street, at Omaha, during the Omaha Automobile show which will be held March 1-6.

Y. M. C. A. TO SECURE WORK FOR STUDENTS

George Driver, employment secretary of the university Y. M. C. A. is asking all citizens who have work which students can do to let him know. A considerable part of the student body either puts itself thru school wholly or entirely. Both men and women are eager to get part time work which will make it possible for them to continue in school. Mr. Driver says he can provide workers for almost any sort of honorable job. There are many students who can do office work and will welcome either irregular or regular part time in this line. Mr. Driver can be reached thru the Y. M. C. A. room in the Temple building or by Tel. L5599.

ALUMNUS ORGANIZES WOMEN FOR PERSHING

Miss Edna Perrin, '11, Takes Over Important Part of Campaign in Nebraska.

Nebraska University's candidate for president, John J. Pershing, '93 is now being boosted by a woman's organization in Nebraska in charge of another alumna, Miss Edna Perrin, of Lincoln, according to announcement made by the Pershing for President National headquarters here late last week.

Miss Perrin, who is well known among Nebraska women, spent over a year with the A. E. F. with the International Hospital League and was in constant touch with the American organization over there.

Miss Perrin will work especially with the women of Nebraska and will perfect a special women's organization headed by a state executive committee.

In announcing her affiliation with the Pershing Campaign, Miss Perrin said:

"I am confident that Nebraska will welcome the opportunity of proposing the nomination for president of our most distinguished fellow citizen. I am sure if I could tell the mothers, wives and sisters of the splendid part Pershing played in maintaining the high standard of morals and in perpetuating the high ideals of our boys overseas they would agree unanimously that he was above all, the man America needs in the presidency.

"If they could know of his fine, kindly heart, hidden during the war by the mask of army discipline, if they only knew of the judgment he displayed in handling men and affairs, and of his capacity as a great lovable leader, firm and courageous, but

A. A. REED DIRECTOR OF RELIGIOUS CENSUS

A thoroughgoing survey is being made by the inter-church movement of the state university field. A. A. Reed has been designated to act as director of the religious census of the university. The census will cover all religious work being done by the Lincoln churches and other organizations. The census will include a statement of the religious affiliation of faculty and students and a careful analysis of all the facts that relate to the whole student community. The university pastors and others are assisting Professor Reed. A preliminary report was sent to the national headquarters last week but the census is still in progress. Mr. Leland reports that forty-one denominations are united in this census movement which will embrace all possible activities of religious work. That among students is only one feature.

A number of former University of Nebraska students had the opportunity to greet General Pershing, also a graduate of the Cornhusker institution, on his recent visit to Seattle, Wash., according to a statement in the Seattle Post Intelligencer. Among these former students was Dr. J. H. Sayer who was with General Pershing at the university and who was commanding officer of the camp hospital No. 93 in France.

"Other former students in the line that greeted Pershing," the statement says, "were Ralph O. Saxton, Otis G. Whipple, Alvin A. Miller, George S. Porter and J. L. Shankland."

DAILY NEBRASKAN REPORTERS

The Daily Nebraskan offers an excellent opportunity for university students who wish to secure practical experience in reportorial work. There are a number of vacancies on the staff and students who wish to try out for places should confer with the managing editor at The Daily Nebraskan office from 3 to 5 daily.

SIGMA XI FRATERNITY HOLDS FIRST MEETING

The state university chapter of Sigma Xi met Wednesday evening in Chemistry hall. The paper of the evening was presented by Dr. Leunis Van Es. A committee was appointed to make a thorough examination of Sigma Xi Quarterly to determine the qualifications demanded by various institutions for membership. The committee consists of Dr. H. H. Waite, M. G. Gaba and H. G. Deming. The next meeting will be held in union session with Phi Beta Kappa when Doctor Mouton, on February 13th, will speak.

Y. W. WORKER SAYS GIRLS THINK MORE

Miss Wygal, District Student Secretary, Confers with Local Heads Friday.

That the thinking girls of the universities are more serious than ever before and the thoughtless girls are more frivolous was the declaration of Miss Winifred Wygal, Student Secretary for the North Central Field of the Y. W. C. A., when she was in Lincoln, Friday.

Miss Wygal was here to confer with the Y. W. C. A. secretaries of the city about questions for discussion to be brought up at the conference at Cleveland, Ohio, next April. She took this opportunity to interview the members of the University Y. W. C. A. cabinet. During the war she had charge of the Y. W. C. A. work at Camp Funston prior to the war, she was a local secretary in Nevada. In her present office her special duty is to visit universities.

"Will you tell me what the girls are thinking about," she was asked. Perhaps the question was stated rather bluntly, for she laughed in amusement and replied that she would be glad to do so.

Interest in Public Questions

"The girls are thinking more now than ever before," she said. Then she told of their interest in vocations, not just the old ones, but many new ones. She described their activity along the line of social and economic problems showing that girls not only are thinking about and discussing these subjects, but are taking college courses along this line. She attributed the growing interest in public questions largely to a realization, on the part of women, of the responsibilities that go hand in hand with the ballot.

The question was asked, "Has the war made a difference in the thinking of the girls?"

SENNING OFFERS COURSE IN STATE POLICE POWER

Professor J. P. Senning will give a course this semester dealing with the constitutional aspects of society and economic legislation. It is an attempt to study the public policy with reference to various types of legislation that benefit society in every possible respect, as regulating the hours of labor, improving general conditions of labor, public health and social welfare. The class will study what Prof. Senning terms the state police power, seeking to find what principle is involved in each problem. He thinks that the world has come to a different viewpoint in political philosophy. The whole structure of government is based on the idea of individual liberty but we now think of the right of the group. A law may even encroach upon the rights of an individual and yet be good. No individual can engage in a business harmful to the general welfare.

STUDENTS SHOULD PURCHASE "RAGS"

W. A. A. Solicitors to Scour Campus for Daily Nebraskan Subscriptions.

Phi Delta Theta and Sigma Alpha Epsilon First to Report 100 Per Cent.

The second battle in the Daily Nebraskan subscription campaign will be waged today on the city and farm campuses between fifty W. A. A. solicitors and about 4,000 university students. The W. A. A. forces are confident they can capture a majority of the students and hold each person for a ransom of $1.25 which will entitle them to a semester's subscription to the Daily Nebraskan.

The campaign will be continued this week by co-ed solicitors until the subscription list will warrant a cessation of hostilities between the workers and the students. Reports indicate that the campaign is favorably progressing but the Nebraskan officials state every effort must be made by the workers until the desired goal is reached.

Fraternities and sororities have been asked to assist in the subscription drive. Phi Delta Theta was the first fraternity to report 100 per cent and Sigma Alpha Epsilon was second to announce 100 per cent. Each fraternity is expected to take action at their weekly meetings. Last year nearly every Greek letter society unanimously subscribed to the sheet. The circulation has been exceedingly low during the last few semesters and it is hoped that this week's drive will boast the subscription well above the desired goal. The price of the paper is $1.25 this year. The high cost of print paper, ink and labor has necessitated the increase. Newspaper men assert the subscription price does not compare with the cost of production.

PROF. FOGG ISSUES CALL TO DEBATERS

University of Nebraska will Choose Two Intercollegiate Teams Soon.

The revival of intercollegiate debating at the University of Nebraska is one of the important events welcomed by many university students interested in platform work. Professor Fogg of the English department sounded the call last week to all persons interested in collegiate debating to report to him. A number of responses were received.

Two simultaneous debates will be held some time in April, according to the report made by Professor Fogg last week. Two teams representing the affirmative and negative sides will be chosen shortly from the list of applicants and preparation of the question to be decided later will begin with full impetus. Students winning berths on the teams will be elected into Delta Sigma Rho, national honorary debating fraternity.

Word has been received from Iowa City that two Iowa State University debating teams have been chosen to meet the University of Nebraska's two teams.

The winners are Clarence Fackler, Des Moines; Frank Shuttleworth, Sibley; Max Conard, Burlington; Harold Merry, Iowa City; Willard P. Berghuis, Sioux City and David W. Hopkins, Lemoni.

Three of these Hawkeyes will debate on the affirmative side of whatever question is selected, and the other three on the negative.
