Those invited as chaperons were: Mr. and Mrs. Edward Westering, and Mr. and Mrs. Arnold North.

Society

While the shiny black straw hat may be first hint of spring, the formal party is surely the conclusive fact. Later may come the picnics, the wine roasts, but just now the formal season, is here, in its revived glory that the last two years of war, influenza, and coal famine, overshadowed. House dances are more or less in the background and the scene of the week-end revelry is generally the Lincoln Hotel.

Friday, March 5

Gamma Phi Beta held its annual banquet in the Garden room of the Lincoln Hotel. About eighty-five guests were present. In the center of the long table were the Greek letters, Gamma Phi Beta, made with pink carnations, on a background of ferns. Brown and mode candles, tied with tulle bows of the same color, were placed at intervals around the table. Between the courses each of the ten freshmen sang a sorority song of their own composition. Mrs. Leon Decker, acting as toastmistress called upon the following for toasts; Alumni, Marion Tyler; Seniors, Genevieve Addleman; Juniors, Marguerite Smith; Sophomores, Marvel Trojan; Freshmen, Mary McIntosh. Out-of-town alumni who were present were: Viola Kleinke, Cheyenne, Wyoming; Virginia Bahr, Broken Bow; Nell Morrissey, Chadron; Ruth Skoles, Onawa, Iowa; and Ruth Irvine, Arlington.

About seventy-five couples were entertained at the annual spring party of Pi Kappa Phi at the Commercial Club. White and gold, the fraternity colors, were the colors used in the decorations, which were long streamers. White and yellow roses were given as favors. A special feature of the evening was a huge spot-light that played varie-colored lights over the guests. Out-of-town guests and alumni were: Raymond Fonda, St. Edwards; Ralph Park, Adams; Lyle and James Cornish, Oconto; Reuben Claussen, McKinley Clark; Clyde Dempster, Beatrice; Earl Ayers, Morris Bahr, Harold Hays, Kenneth Burk, Broken Bow; Charles Collins, Joe Thomas, Deyo Crane, all of Omaha; E.
