

SOIL SURVEY NEWS

Mr. Ray Lindsay, formerly an employee of the Department of Conservation and Soil Survey, has been visiting the department for the last few days. Mr. Lindsay had very much to do with the preparation of the many thousands of feet of motion picture films owned by the state. He is now managing an ice plant at Sidney, Iowa.

Mr. Frank Shoemaker, the photographer for the Department of Conservation and Soil Survey, is making a complete set of slides illustrating the wild life and resources of Nebraska. These slides have been prepared in addition to the many others which are to be used by the schools and churches of Nebraska for educational purposes.

The Department of Conservation and Soil Survey has received assurance from the National Bureau of Soil Survey at Washington that Mr. Frank A. Hays and Mr. L. A. Wolfanger will be returned to Nebraska for soil survey work this summer.

The Department of Conservation and Soil Survey is being flooded with specimens of soil and requests relating to the probabilities of finding oil and gas in this land.

The test for oil at Chadron, Nebraska, is shut down for a few days. They are now drilling very near sand which may contain oil.

THE COLLEGE WORLD

Fifty-nine members of the Ohio State University faculty have resigned in the last year. Low salaries are given as the cause.

The subject of the adoption of the honor system is being discussed at Columbia at special class meetings. The plan is to use the honor system at midyear and final examination time. An attempt is being made to learn the campus sentiment upon this subject.

HUSKERS SLATE SEVEN GAMES

The Morningside Maroons at Sioux City and with the South Dakota Coyotes at Vermillion. The Coyote team boasts of a pitcher to whom many tempting big league contracts have been offered. It is such prodigies as this that wreck opposing ball teams and the work of this star may subdue the invading Huskers.

Daily Workouts

Daily workouts are progressing favorably in the Husker camp. All candidates, pitchers, catchers, infielders, and outfielders, are now at work on the athletic field getting the kinks out of their muscles and endeavoring to get into top form when the squad starts work at the M street park.

While there are no particular shining lights, no stars of big-league caliber, on the Husker squad, Coach Schissler has a very creditable bunch of ball tossers and will doubtless develop a team of which Nebraska need not be ashamed. The majority of the candidates are green and inexperienced, however, and some time will be required to round them into shape. When the Huskers bump into such teams as South Dakota and California they may be due for defeat, but the old-time Husker fighting spirit will be present in baseball just as it has been in other athletics.

mentioning no names, (3) the professors or instructors shall leave the room at times or may stay away all the time and at no time police the room. He must be near enough for conference, however, (4) the penalties for dishonesty shall be under the jurisdiction of the Student Council and shall vary according to the number of offenses. The Daily Nebraskan will print articles containing the student opinion on this subject and everyone is invited to contribute.

Various Opinions

One man, who was against the Honor Spirit, stated that any man who was dishonest enough to cheat during an examination would be dishonest enough to write on the paper he did not cheat. Another in agreement with this statement said that, as far as he could see, the only thing this system would raise would be the University grades. A few examples of the effects of this system where it has been tried were told by students. One man said that at one state university the system was tried and when the professor left the room one girl who was exceedingly brilliant in her work got up and read the questions and answers to the class. Another said that it just lasted one day in another university. He thought that it needed discussion and it was the duty of the believers to convince the unbelievers. A girl told of the success of the movement in Lincoln High School. University exchanges show the general success of the movement in other schools and it is indeed worthy of our careful consideration.

CALIFORNIA CO-ED CAUGHT SPEEDING

San Francisco, Cal.—The first jail sentence ever given to a woman speeder in Berkeley was pronounced by Police Judge Robert Edgar, who sent Miss Lucille Krause, freshman student of the University of California, and daughter of the president of the First National Bank of Fullerton, to the Alameda county jail for three days. She entered a plea of guilty to a thirty-five miles an hour on College Avenue, near the corner of Alcatraz Avenue.
