THE COURAGE OF PREJUDICES VS. CONVICTIONS.

An interesting remark came to our attention recently and we would like to ask your opinion of it. A lady remarked that too often we had the courage of our prejudices rather than our convictions. Isn't it true? If we hear of a new idea which does not quite agree with former customs, we immediately taboo it as wholly impossible. And not after having analyzed the proposition, but on the first hearing. It is like the case of the man, who when asked if he liked a certain other business man, said, "No, I hate him." "But do you know him at all?" "No, if I did, I couldn't hate him." In this same way, we all react to a new institution. Thomas Edison struggled years to have his plan of electricity accepted; Bell had the same fight with his telephone and Marconi almost gave up experimenting because of discouragement and lack of support.

One can find extreme cases of this in the types of people who say, when urged to send their children away to school for further education, "Well, I didn't even have an eighth grade schooling and I guess what's good enough for their Pa and Ma is good enough for them." Of course, as University students, we do not agree with this statement, but just as narrow opinions are expressed here at Nebraska. In discussing the honor system, they have been heard to say, "Why, it never has worked. Therefore, it can't." We wonder if students stop to think that they are confining themselves to most narrow premises when they make such remarks on any subject without pretty careful consideration. If we were to hold a "truth meeting," would they actually say the same things then?

MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP.

The Department of Construction, Grounds and Buildings are doing a splendid thing in installing the several local municipally owned systems of transmission. The new telephone system, which is not only unusually more economical, but also more widely distributed since the low cost enables practically all departments to have a phone, is working out very successfully. In addition, the office is now laying a light and power line from the city campus to the state farm campus. This is the service line for use for twenty-five years.

The question of municipal ownership is a universally interesting one and is admitted very successful in most places. So it seems a most feasible plan for the University to operate their own lights, telephones, transportation and printing offices. This is only the beginning of the plan of ownership extension and it is hoped that it will grow rapidly.

VOCATIONAL GUIDANCE.

Vocational Guidance is a high-sounding term but one which has been vague hitherto. Within the last few months, however, Vocational Guidance at Washington has become a reality, and for the past week or two it has begun to show itself no negligible agent in solving the post-college questions for women.

A lack of knowledge of the fields open to them has in the past led women to be placed in positions entirely unsuited to them and often down-right distasteful. Teaching has appeared to be the only profession which offers board and lodging and a little over to the holder of a degree. As a consequence women whom Heaven never intended to be teachers have imposed upon themselves the difficult task of making themselves into schoolmams. The results have been unsatisfactory to the novice and her profession alike.

There has been a great deal of talk about woman's place in the new industrial order of things. We have heard many times the commonplace saying that a woman can do anything a man can do. Many of us have laughed at it as expressing the views of the ultra-new New Woman. The exponents of Vocational Guidance make no such extravagant claim. They maintain merely that there are things a woman can do which very likely she never thought of doing and that a University woman endowed with intelligence plus enthusiasm has good reason to believe that she can accomplish the unusual. They plan to bring the unusual in the way of business to her attention.

The woman in charge of the work here departed last week for a convention at Cornell which will formulate plans for increasing efficiency in placing women in professions. The suggestions which she will bring back should be of great value to Washington women—Student Life.

CAMPAIGN FOR GIFT TO FRANCE WELL UNDER WAY

Money Will Be Used to Erect Handsome Statue by American Sculptor.

The campaign for America's Gift to France is progressing nicely under the able direction of Professor Conklin. Boxes are placed at various points on the campus for contributions to this cause. This gift will be a colossal statue in commemoration of the victory of the French forces in 1914, and will be located at the very end of the drive to Paris.

The distinguished American sculptor, Frederick MacMonnies, is now working on sketches for the statue. When completed it will constitute the embodiment of the feeling which all Americans have for France. MacMonnies, whose work is exceptionally well known in both France and America, is especially well fitted to carve this statue. During the war he remained in France and turned over his studio near the Marne as a hospital for French soldiers whom he aided in every way. He is thoroughly in sympathy with, and is peculiarly able to interpret, the friendship of America and her admiration for the heroic spirit of France.

It is estimated that $250,000 will be required to design and construct this statue, transport it to France and to erect it.

own confession. He also did a clever black-and-white drawing.

Albert Stewart of the Dartmouth "Jack 'O Lantern" staff won premier honors on his "Sans Reproche" for the best text contribution. The Judge editors regretted that there was no prize offered for the best text-and-picture contribution, for the work of L. J. Kavava of Cornell made a decided hit with the contest judges, with a full page drawing, two headings and several text contributions.

Forty-one college comic publications were entered in the contest. The silver cup must be won three times for permanent possession.

JAZZ AND BOXING WILL FEATURE NOVEL PROGRAM

Pershing Club to Give Entertainment for Ex-Soldiers, Sailors and Marines.

All ex-service men in the University, including soldiers, sailors and marines, are invited to attend an athletic entertainment, jazz band musical and smoker at Fraternity Hall, fourth floor, Thursday evening at eight o'clock. The entertainment is being staged under the auspices of the Lancaster County Soldiers' and Sailors' Pershing for President Club and is free of charge to all ex-service men.

Ralph J. Doyle, president of the Club, announced that he had arranged for three fast boxing bouts, a twenty-minute wrestling bout and a battle royal by local colored talent. Included in the list of boxing matches is "Kid" Strayer, overseas veteran, who fought fifty-two bouts in the A. E. F. A local jazz band will furnish music for the meeting.

The first meeting of the Club was held last week, at which time over 100 ex-service men joined the movement to nominate Nebraska's alumnus for president. Since that time a large number of new members have been secured throughout the county and in the University. A delegation of fifty men in Omaha has written the Club to reserve places. The meetings of the Club are held every week.
