ATTEND THE MASS MEETING.

Tonight at Woman's Hall will be held the annual girls' mass meeting for the nomination of members for the 1920-21 W. S. G. A. Board. Every year after the acting board has nominated a certain number of candidates for the various places, this meeting is held so that any girl in the University may be nominated from the floor. In this way, opportunity is given for individual recognition by general public opinion. This is one of the features which marks the W. S. G. A. as an all-girls' organization, and preserves the feeling of true democracy.

It is to be hoped that in the annual elections of this particular organization, petty politics will never gain a foothold for that would be the beginning of the end for a real all-girls' club. It is a well-known fact that "wire-pulling" has become too much of a fine art at Nebraska, but there is no necessity for that factor entering into W. S. G. A. affairs, for in those offices it should be the girl for the place rather than the place for the particular girl. Let's see to it that faithful work and true interest do not go unrewarded.

THE SHUN.

Are you ready for the Shun? From all the rumors and from whispered conferences spied in dark corners, it is suspected that the editors of that dread sheet are plotting well for some unfortunate individuals. More than one person has been heard to regret some rash deed committed before remembering the "Shun." The day of reckoning is close at hand. Treat your friends—and enemies well, for they may take out that spite on you yet. And above all, do not fail to be there to get the paper. It will be worth all your trouble.

"THE RAGGER."

At the monthly meeting of the Nebraskan staff last evening was issued the first number of the "Ragger," the Daily Nebraskan "Shun" sheet. This paper was started with the hopes that it might become an annual affair for those connected with the Daily. The purpose of the paper is to give suggestions and hints on the work of the staff members and to unveil some of the humorous bits of scandal to which only seekers of the campus news hold the key. The Daily Nebraskan staff is doing all in its power to make that paper as modern, interesting and "newy" as possible to act as a real medium between the student readers and campus happenings.

DON'T BE ONE SIDED.

There is nothing worse that could happen to a man or woman and especially of those people who may be accused of being one sided; of passing up opportunities to gain a broad knowledge. You who are in the University are the ones that the people of your home town and your state look to to bring before them some new idea or some better way of doing the things that are necessary, than is now being practiced.

Time and again you'll hear students say: "Aw, what's the use of taking that course I'll never use it," or, "Let's go to a concert instead of the lecture." Sometime that student will want the points brought out in that class or that lecture, and will want them badly, in order to add force and character to what he wants to say.

There is an exhibit of art and noted pictures now in the art department in the Administration Building, and newspaper stories and editorials have been written upon it, and yet the students of the University refuse to go. The old saying is "A little knowledge is worse than none at all" so broaden yourselves, get another side to your lives than the one in which you are specializing, so that you may, if nothing else, be able to carry on an interesting conversation on more than one topic. The opinion of many people concerning your personality and your intelligence is formed by your ability to be a good conversationalist.—Daily Kansan.
