FOURTH GAME OF SOONER SERIES WAS POSTPONED

Due to the bad rains and muddy condition of the field Saturday the fourth game of the baseball series in the Sooner State was called off. Diamond fans were wondering if the Oklahomans would find Pickett a barrage of strikes if he had been saved for the final game in the South. The next games will be with the Haskell Indians and will be played on the home grounds this week.

$600,000 STADIUM FOR WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY

A huge U shaped concrete and steel stadium matched only in seating capacity by the Yale Bowl, is to be built in Seattle on the University of Washington campus on the edge of Lake Washington on a spot where Siwash Indians held full sway less than fifty years ago, as a result of the whirlwind campaign in which $500,000 was raised in less than one week. The day the last dollar was subscribed, earth was turned and a record in stadia construction will have been made when the stadium is opened for the Dartmouth game November 20.

The stadium will cost approximately $600,000, and will seat more than 60,000 people. It will be the last word in stadium construction, a combination of the Yale and Harvard plans. There are two outstanding and unique features in connection with the stadium. First, its location, and second the manner in which it was financed. When the campaign for funds was started, there was $100,000 already available from the funds of the associated students of the University. The remaining $500,000 was raised by a sales campaign conducted throughout the state, and it was carried on with the support of the Washington State Chamber of Commerce, alumni and students of the University.

LIFE INSURANCE AS A PROFESSION

Life Insurance, already an honorable business, is rapidly becoming an honorable profession. Many schools and colleges have established courses for the study of this profession. Statistics from several of the leading colleges and universities of the country show that the earnings of their graduates covering a five-year period, are greater in the field of Life Insurance Salesmanship than in any other line of endeavor. To the man of education Life Insurance Salesmanship affords unlimited opportunities for making a substantial income. The government has placed its stamp of approval on Life Insurance as an absolute essential in our social and economical life. The past year has been a wonderful one for the business and the future looks even brighter. If you have the qualifications and desire to make Life Insurance your profession we can offer you an attractive proposition. SPORT BRIEFS

The University of Oregon has raised the standard for the football letter award. The requirement now is one full half in the first lineup of a Pacific Coast conference game, or the taking part in any inter-sectional game. Under this change Northwest conference games or practice games with non-conference schools would not count.

Wabash College has withdrawn from the Indiana Collegiate Athletic League, giving as a reason that Wabash has scheduled games for the coming year with larger schools and therefore could not play teams in the I. C. A. L. This move on Wabash's part has aroused some speculation as to whether a new collegiate league might be formed to include such schools as DePauw, Butler, Wabash, Miami, Wittenberg, Michigan Aggies, Marquette and others.

The athletic letter men at the University of North Dakota have organized a "N. D." Club, to foster school spirit, and to co-operate with those in charge of athletics.

PROFESSORS VOICE BELIEFS ON WORTH OF HONOR SYSTEM

students who influence others in the class to practice dishonesty in examinations by showing them that they can get good grades by "cribbing." Another important phase, perhaps little thought of, is the character building purpose of a university. "The college man or woman is supposed to be the 'cream' of his community, and if given a chance to prove his or her honor would undoubtedly do so. Our universities are falling short in character building by having to apply kindergarten principles in their work. I have enough faith in the university man to trust him when he knows that he is being placed absolutely upon his own honor and will be looked down upon by others if seen to be dishonest."

Professor Cole

On the other hand, Professor Dana F. Cole, of the Department of Economics says, "Too many people are trying to get something for nothing today. If the Honor System would develop honor, I would certainly be for it, but I do not believe it would do it, especially among the underclassmen."
