DEBATERS OFF TO IOWA CITY

Affirmative Team Remains in City to Prepare for Clash Friday Night.

"THINK-SHOP" IS BUSY

Nebraska's debating team that locks logical horns with the Iowans at Iowa City this evening, arguing against the adoption of the League of Nations Covenant with the Lodge reservation in Article X, left Wednesday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. They stayed in Omaha over night and left at six o'clock this morning for the fray. They expect to reach Iowa City at two o'clock this afternoon.

Miles Hildreth, '21, W. C. Cull, law '20, and O. A. Drake, law '21, the negative team, were escorted to the train by the affirmative team and Professor Fogg and were cheered as they pulled out. Fred C. Campbell, '22, as alternate, left on the six o'clock train.

Iowa Team Arrives Today

The Iowa negative team will arrive in Lincoln this afternoon for a day and a half rest before their battle Friday evening in the Temple Theater with Louis Finkelstein, law '22, Cecil C. Strimple, law '22, and Robert Van Pelt, law '22.

Nebraska's affirmative team was grinding away late last night in the "Think Shop" of the debaters.

Because it has been said that of late Nebraska's primary interests have been in things social and things athletic in nature, the revival of interstate debating at the Cornhusker school is an important event. The question that will be discussed Friday night is one of universal interest, particularly in America, and especially in this year when a President of the United States will be chosen.

For Serious-Minded Students

The debate is, of course, not for those who would rather attend a matinee dance than an interesting lecture. Serious-minded Nebraska students, who also have time for a limited amount of social activity, will find the discussion worth far more.

ALL-UNIVERSITY DINNER PLANNED FOR EARLY DAY

Ex-Students from Colleges Throughout Country Back of Big Get-Together.

Every man in the city of Lincoln who has been connected with any university or college at any time is invited to attend the All-University Dinner, which is to be held at the Commercial Club the evening of Thursday, May 6. It is expected that nearly five hundred ex-university students will gather around the "banquet board."

The entertainment will be pulsing with life and Husker cheer leaders have been asked to furnish part of the "pep." A vocal quartet and a string quartet will furnish music during the feast. The University Play, under the direction of Prof. H. Alice Howell will present an amusing farce.

The affair will be informal, and the purpose of the dinner is to further the acquaintance of University men. A group of Lincoln business men who are ex-students of the University and have been actively interested in Nebraska's new problems are behind the celebration.

It is emphasized by those in charge of the affair that all ex-students, whether graduates or not, of all universities and colleges are urged to be present at this All-University Get-together. Ex-students now residing in Lincoln, but formerly of Michigan University, Northwestern and Illinois, have organized and letters have been sent out to their numbers requesting them to be on hand May 6.

The committee in charge of arrangements for the dinner is D. W. Miller, Gene Holland and Sam Waugh.

HASKELL INDIANS OUT AFTER SCALPS

Kansas Aggregation Coming Friday for Clashes With Schissler's Diamond-Hounds.

TEAM ROUNDING INTO SHAPE

The Haskell Indian baseball team is coming from the Kansas state Friday with the intention of scalping Coach Schissler's ball tossers, but if the inside dope is correct there will probably be a sad disappointment. Coach Schissler has had his men out on the M street lot working hard every afternoon this week and they are a much different looking bunch of athletes today than they were when they ran up against the Oklahoma schools.

The Oklahoma trip was beneficial to the Huskers in several ways. It showed Coach Schissler where the team's weak spots were during a crucial stage of the game. It showed that the pitching staff needs some bolstering, and it also proved that for a college team the Cornhuskers had some heavy hitters in their camp. Thus far this season the Nebraska outfit has not had any real favorable weather for diamond practice. The pitching staff has been harried by the cold spells and as a consequence the members are laid up with stiffness and sore arms. Schissler is scouting for another heater and it is expected that a "dark horse" will start against the Haskell Friday afternoon. Both the infield and the outfield are due for a shaking up and the Coach will send a very different lineup onto the diamond to face the Redmen than that which worked out against the men of the Sooner state.

Coach Makes Statement

"Some of the ball fans of the school have the wrong impression concerning the Oklahoma trip. They believe that Nebraska did not play good ball and that we haven't a first class college club," said Coach Schissler yesterday afternoon, "but they have not been following the work of the men closely or they would know differently."

Even Professors Would Rather Say "Book-Hound" Than "Book-worm"

New campus words have been springing up lately in the language of University students. These words are either hyphenated or written as two distinct words. The reason for this is because the originator of these new expressions is not sure himself how they are spelled. These words are brand new; they have not been coined long. And, perhaps, the University of Nebraska has been responsible for their appearance, their nurture while they were yet young, and their spontaneous and unbelievable growth.

These words are now on the lips of every campus luminary. Professors even refer to students who spend every hour out of the twenty-four over a musty book as "book-hounds" rather than the conventional, and exceedingly hackneyed and prosaic "book-worm." "Book-worm" has almost become a bromide now. Its successor is far more emphatic and full of meaning.

The word "hound" originally meant a large dog. The word "hound" on the University of Nebraska campus is rarely ever used alone. Dogs are referred to as dogs at this University, but when a hyphen is stuck in between the "hound" and something else, the University student knows immediately what is meant.

The first "hound" that appeared on the campus was the "lunch-hound." Since he—or rather she—appeared co-eds have been ordering coca colas in large quantities instead of the large thirty-five-cent "home styles." Then followed the "rail-hound," a worthless being who leans on the railing in front of University Hall and passes dark remarks about those fleeing before his deadened vision.

The latest "hounds" have included "car-hounds," "book-hounds," "ball-hounds," "Piller-hounds," "tea-hounds," "formal-hounds," and "pill-hounds." Pretty soon there will be a kennel full of them, and "pound" will also become an important and useful word. But the line is drawn when a very young Freshmen co-ed is heard speaking of the "Bevo-hound." There is no such animal.

ATHLETES LEAVE FOR PENN MEET

Husker Stars Accompany Schulte to Take Part in American Classic at Quaker City.

FOREMOST TEAMS ENTERED

Coach Henry F. Schulte and his team of track athletes left for Philadelphia last evening for the Penn meet, the American classic, Friday and Saturday. This trip is not only being made in attempt to stick Nebraska's "N" in the Hall of Fame among the great schools of the country but also as a "schooling" trip for the men. It will afford the men an opportunity to compete with the greatest athletes America has known and show them how they stand in comparison with these stars.

The American Olympic Committee is depending upon the colleges throughout the country to develop and furnish sixty to seventy per cent of the men who will make the trip to Antwerp on the American team. The foremost college athletes of the country are entered in the Penn meet and each will go into his event with the determination of doing his best before the eyes of the critics who will pick the American team. The men who place in the events at Philadelphia Friday and Saturday will be given due consideration by this committee and if a Nebraskan places he will stand a good chance of making the All-American team. America is short of good three millers and a first class Pentathlon man and Coach Schulte has been requested by the American committee to send at least one man for each of these events. Graf is entered in the three mile and will be pitted against a Britisher who claims to be the champ of the British Isles. Dale is entered in the Pentathlon and is expected to make a good showing.

Wright and Dale in First Events

Wright and Dale will be the first men to carry Nebraska's colors onto the Penn field. Friday afternoon Wright will run the quarter mile low hurdles and Dale will compete in the Pentathlon. Saturday the remainder of the team is due to show its colors. Wright and Finney will run the high hurdles, the mile relay

REVISED STUDY COURSES ADOPTED FOR ENGINEERS

Committee Sanctions New Plan Whereby Students May Take Work in Other Colleges.

The Engineering faculty has approved the revised course of study for Engineering students as arranged by the Course of Study Committee and has submitted it to the Board of Regents for action. The new plan of study provides for the remodeling of the mechanical engineering shop courses upon a factory basis. All Engineers will be required to take the course in Principles of Economics and the course in Accounting. A new introductory course is provided in Electrical Engineering in order to give the second semester Sophomores work in alternating current and direct current study. By this method work will start one semester earlier than under the present system. An option will be given to first year Civil Engineers to take construction methods instead of shop work. The committee recommended the outlining of a fifth year's work in Engineering which would require twenty hours work in the College of Business Administration, eight hours in the College of Engineering and four hours' elective work. This work, with any four year engineering course, would confer the degrees of Bachelor of Sciences and Commercial Engineering.

The Course of Study Committee is composed of Professor Chatburn, chairman; Dean Stout and the chairman of the various departments of the Engineering College.
