Care of Uniforms

Par. 37. Articles of clothing will, except when purchased under authority especially given, remain the property of the United States. When articles of clothing become unfit for use at regular drills and ceremonies, the Professor of Military Science and Tactics will furnish a certificate to that effect and a new article will be furnished the institution, except that no more than one outfit of uniform clothing per each R. O. T. C. student will be furnished any educational institution in one year nor more than two of any article of clothing per member of the R. O. T. C. unit will be in possession of any institution at one time.

Par. 38. To this end Professor of Military Science and Tactics will arrange with the institution to place in storage during the summer months uniforms which have been issued. At the close of each school year the members of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps will return to the storerooms indicated by the accountable officer of the institution, all property which has been loaned to them for their use in connection with the Reserve Officers' Training Corps. Rifles will be carefully cleaned and well oiled with heavy cosmic oil so that all metal parts are thoroughly protected. Canvas equipment will be thoroughly cleaned with stiff brushes and otherwise placed in proper condition before being turned in. All articles of uniforms of those who expect to return next year will be thoroughly brushed and carefully tagged to show the student's name and other means of identification. Uniforms of the students who do not expect to return to the institution will be carefully brushed and packed separately without being tagged.

Par. 40. All shoes turned in will be thoroughly dried, cleaned and well oiled. The shoes of those students who will return next year will be tagged with the student's name and other means of identification.

The above extracts from Special Regulations No. 44, War Department, are hereby published for the information and guidance of all students in the Department of Military Science and Tactics.
