NOTRE DAME AUTHORITIES BAR TWO GRIDIRON STARS

NOTRE DAME, Ind., Sept. 22.—Football prospects at Notre Dame University were given a nasty backspin today when the University faculty declared George Gipp and Leonard Bahan, stellar members of the champion 1919 team, ineligible for further competition.
 Gipp was an all-western halfback last season and his sensational forward passing figured prominently in winning the western title for Notre Dame. Bahan was captain and quarter back of the same team.
 The loss of Gipp and Bahan will be a severe blow to the Notre Dame team. Followers of the Nebraska Cornhuskers are well acquainted with the prowess of Gipp and Bahan, both of whom were in the lineup against the Cornhuskers in the Nebraska-Notre Dame games of 1917, 1918 and 1919 on the Lincoln gridiron. Rockne, the Notre Dame coach, is a resourceful football strategist and Cornhusker supporters will scarcely question his ability to develop new players to fill the shoes of Gipp and Bahan. During the past two years, Gipp was the kicker and passer for the Notre Dame team and it was generally conceded that he has few equals in intercollegiate football—Lincoln Star.

GREEN EYES POPULAR IN HEROINE OF TODAY

LONDON.—Why have green eyes blinked their way into sudden popularity?
 The question is put by the Daily Express, which falls to find an answer.
 The Daily Express finds that the red-haired, green-eyed girl, who a few years ago, was considered plain, now ranks as a beauty and that every "best seller" has one for a heroine.
 For a census of the red-haired, green-eyed girls go to the jade stores, for all red-haired, green-eyed girls wear Chinese jade and the man behind the counter, sooner or later, see 'em all.
 Their number is legion, and as regards the green eyes at least they must be the real thing, for the beauty parlors as yet have found no way of changing the tint of an eye, though they can do many interesting things with feminine looks.

BUY BARRACKS FOR PUPILS

Landladies Raise Rent 300 Per Cent at Michigan University.

ANN ARBOR, Mich.—Because at least 12,000 students are expected at the University of Michigan this fall landladies have boosted their prices for rooms sometimes as high as 300 per cent.

As a result the Board of Regents of the University authorized that army barracks be purchased from Camp Custer, which is being dismantled and that they be fitted to meet the need of the male students.

BURGLARS GET 70 CENTS FROM PANTS OF THREE PROFESSORS

Second-Story Men Discover That Pilfering From Educators Bears Little Fruit.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo.—Burglarizing the apartments of professors is not a very lucrative undertaking, a couple of second-story men learned to their chagrin one night this week when the total amount they secured from the trousers of three educators in a local fraternity house netted them exactly 70 cents. The men who were robbed are three high school professors, Lowry A. Doran, principal; John K. Bear and Raymond Clouse.

They make their home in Kappa Alpha Fraternity House, where, in the spirit of hospitality, the key was thrown away years ago and the door of the house has not been locked since. In light of recent developments it is likely that this custom will be changed. In the trousers of Doran the burglars found 40 cents, while those of Bear produced 30 cents. In Clouse's pockets nothing was found. In other rooms the burglars got a little more loot and the pocketbook of a real plutocrat, in the eyes of many of the lodgers, in which there was $75, was overlooked by the burglars.

"OLD TIMER" PAYS VISIT TO CORNHUSKER CAMPUS

An old-time University of Nebraska student—Captain Luther M. Overstreet of the United States Navy—was in Lincoln Tuesday renewing acquaintances on the campus. Captain Overstreet still officially resides at York, where he had been visiting before he came to Lincoln for a short stay. He left yesterday for New York City.

Captain Overstreet left the University in 1893, after spending two years in the preparatory department and one as a Freshman. Under the advice of General Pershing, then commandant at the University, he entered the Naval Academy at Annapolis and was graduated in 1897.

During the Spanish-American War in 1898, he was a midshipman on the "Oregon" and participated in the fight in Santiago harbor. He has remained continuously in the service. At the beginning of the war with Germany he was in charge of the Bureau of Navigation, but during the latter part was captain of the transport DeKalb, which carried troops across. The DeKalb was the Americanized Prince Frederick, taken from the Germans.

Captain Overstreet has just returned from an extended cruise. He expects next to enter the Naval College of which Admiral Sims is head. Among his interesting post-war experiences was crossing the Atlantic during the international aviation contest, as captain of the United States cruiser "Rochester," which carried the admiral in charge of all the torpedo boats protecting the aviators. He was at Lisbon when the aviator flew in and got to Plymouth in time to see the NC-4 welcomed on British soil.

Captain Overstreet had just come from a visit to Jack Best when found on the University campus. "I wanted to see Jack Best among the first," he said. "I am still rated as a Nebraskan, for a naval officer is expected to have an official home somewhere. I make my headquarters in New York when on land, and there I often meet Canfield, Dixon and Tom Wing and some others of the old timers, who keep me a little in touch with Nebraska."
