JACK AUSTIN

To some people the science of playing a good hand well in the game of life is to bluff with it.

The workman who takes an interest in his work does not have to spend much of his time looking for a job.

We have room for but one loyalty at college and that is loyalty to Nebraska University.

DOES IT PAY.

Being courteous is a habit which is likely to develop into a bank account. There have been surely men who succeeded in business perhaps because their employees were not surly, but fortune nevertheless, has preferred to keep steady company with the gentleman. Every business man is looking for good will, because it constitutes added capital. And the employer realizes that good will can never be gained by sour faces in his working staff. The public will not stand for discourteous treatment, it demands good humored sales people who are willing to go out of their way to please their customers.

Courtesy pays in business but it also pays out of it, even though at times the dividends seem to be deferred. But lastly courtesy pays the largest dividends in the form of happiness coupons.

DEMOCRACY ON THE CAMPUS.

Nebraska has no room for the snob. It is our estimation that of all the follies and imperfections of which human nature is capable, the most detestable, the most excusable is the so-called snob. According to the snob one should be very careful to whom one is decent. It smacks of the plebian not to be exclusive. We are unable to fathom the psychology of the snob, but we have come to the conclusion that the manifestations exhibited by a snob are caused by his or her trying to be something they are not. We contend that any student if he is natural or human, he can not be a snob.

The most striking characteristic of the typical Nebraska man or woman should be the ready "Hello" with which every person encountered on the street should be met. To welcome every student effusively does not of course constitute democracy unless the thing is carried deeper than the surface. But everybody will have to admit that a modest greeting goes a long ways toward promoting a feeling of genuine good fellowship.

In the pioneer days of the University it was possible for every student to personally know his classmates. The University has now grown beyond this stage—but we urge and strongly recommend a genial smile or a brief word to all unknown classmates, as an outward manifestation of the democracy at Nebraska.

CROSS-COUNTRY RUNNERS.

Coach McMaster has issued a call for 100 cross-country runners. Men, this makes it 200. Nebraska needs that large a squad. Nebraska's track squads in the past have never compared with those of other large universities as to the amount of material available. Coach Schulte was at a disadvantage last spring in developing his track team because of lack of material. Cross-country running develops distance men and by a large squad out in this sport it will make Schulte's task of developing distance stars much easier.

Cross-country running is second to none of our popular sports and when indulged in with discretion and wisdom is in a class by itself—no other physical activity giving the same returns in improved general health and especially in the beneficial effects upon the vital organs. The element of recreation is now being recognized as of far greater importance in all branches of physical training than was formerly accorded to it. In this regard cross-country running is undoubtedly surpassed by foot-ball, yet it has a fascination which cannot be appreciated by one who has never experienced its thrill.

Stratford Clothes

Treat your money right

STYLE, of course, has much to do with the prestige of Stratford Clothes. But Stratford style is not the only thing your money buys. There are other distinguishing values easily discernible, if you'll only investigate and compare.

And that is what you should do to treat your money right—investigate and compare.

Look around a bit, then let us show you a Stratford suit. You'll see something more than mere surface attractions. You'll see inherent merit of style, fabric and tailoring. You'll see features of inner construction that will be new to you. And perfection of detail that you've never known in other clothes.

You'll see value—value that is as pronounced as the individuality of the clothes themselves.
