Chicago 41—Wabash 0.
Chicago, Oct. 16.—Chicago had an easy time with Wabash today, winning 41 to 0. The Maroons used 28 players and apparently were able to score at will. Wabash played a fast game, but was outwitted and outclassed and never got the ball past
Chicago 40-yard line.

Theatre Reviews

"Humoresque"—Paramount.
Is an excellent feature containing both humor and pathos. A series of interwoven laughs and cries which recall to each of us some by-gone experience. It reminds us of "Heart Strings" in which William Farnum stars—like the music each laughter is full of tears.

"Civilian Clothes"—Arctcraft.
Do clothes make the man? They seem to do that when the war hero returns to his wife in brilliant checks. Was she in love with the uniform or the man?—Sam knows.

"Love, Honor and Obey."
"Love, Honor and Obey," which is being shown at the Liberty the first part of this week, is a rather sensational sort of a picture. Wilda Bennett plays the role of a woman for whom a man she loves divorces his wife. But began the divorce is granted, she marries another man. The story of their "trials and tribulations" makes material for an interesting picture. Of the several vaudeville acts, Dilly Dillies, a clever song and dance act, is perhaps the best.

Aggie Football Team To Play Methodists

The State Aggie football team will meet the University Place high school football team Friday afternoon in a game to be played on the University Place field.

This is the only football game to be played in Lincoln or suburbs this Friday. Lincoln high goes to Hastings for a game, Wesleyan meets Morningside at Sioux City and Colner goes to Grand Island to play Grand Island College.

Chancellor and Party Guests in Washington

Chancellor Avery, Mrs. Avery and Regent Landis will be entertained by the U. of N. Alumni Club at Washington, D. C., during the visit of the Chancellor at Washington during the latter part of this month.

Chancellor Avery will go to Washington after the meeting of the land grant colleges association, of which he is president. The party also plans on attending a celebration at Amherst before returning from the east.

Extension Department To Conduct Schools

The league of women voters have asked the extension division of the state university to organize and conduct schools of citizenship for women of the state. A two-day school will be conducted in various Nebraska towns where the women have organized where regular university lectures will be delivered periodically and a course of instruction followed through under the supervision of competent instructors.

The course will be brought thoroughly down to date, taking up every phase of modern political thought and problems of the present day.
Miss Clarissa Delano, of the Department of Political Science, will be field organizer for the league's schools throughout Nebraska and will assist in the instruction. Other members of the faculty and local speakers will be used in the two-day schools. Authorities on political science, history, philosophy and education, will be sent out by the university to address the women's gatherings and that members of these groups will become the most well informed women of their communities upon political and social questions of the day, is the hope of the league of women voters who are sponsoring the movement.

Michigan Aggies 0—Michigan 25.
ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 15.—The defense of the Michigan aggies which held Michigan's football team to one touchdown in the first half of today's game, crumbled in the last half and the Wolverines smashed the former line for 35 to 0 victory. The five touchdowns resulted from straight football.

CHARLOTTE ADAMS GIVES ADDRESS AT Y. W. VESPERS

Unreality in Religious Language
Theme of Message to Girls By New York Worker.

"The penalty of failure to rethink the living God in terms of the living conception of today, is unreality in religious language and anemia in religious living," was the quotation on which Miss Charlotte Adams of New York City, based her lecture given at Y. W. C. A. Vespers last evening.
"Unreality of religious language means absolute death to Christian feeling if persisted in," Miss Adams stated, "and there are many people in the world who are so anemic religiously that they haven't life blood enough to carry them through. The way in which we think about God determines the way in which we think of many other things, the way in which we look on the world. The real acid test of religion, however, is how we think of God."
"When your religion becomes a system, it has ceased to be real, and it was Jesus Christ who took our religion out of the system into which it had fallen, and changed our thinking of God. We have come back to His simple true teachings, where we call God, Father and where power is an inexhaustible resource of character. Think of God as personal, of His taking personal responsibility for you."

"One of the questions which often arises is why does God allow men to fall, catastrophes to come, why is it that people who have lived apparently good lives, must suffer? Behind this question there is a personal relation, a desire for redemption from suffering. God does not prevent disaster from touching any of us, but he does see us through. Remove from your thinking the idea that God has so ordered life that anyone can be protected from things that other people are subjected to.
"God's is a redeeming fatherhood, and forgiveness is the heart of all redeeming. You never can break a relationship when one side is unbroken, and since God has an unbroken fatherhood, you can never entirely break your relation with God. Forgiveness is costly, it calls for pain and suffering, but there's redemption there, to offset the other."

"The question now comes of how we are going to come into a knowledge of God which is not unreal in language and anemic in living? The only way for that is to go into Jesus' conception of the relationship of God. A Christ-like God is a part of our every day, a God who will meet us, forgive us and redeem us all through life."

Miss Adams, who is head of the department of Religious Education at the National Training School of the Y. W. C. A. in New York, will be here today and tomorrow as a guest of the University women. She will give lectures on both days at 11 and 5 o'clock, at Ellen Smith Hall.

Cadet's Association Elects New Officers

The Cadet Officers Association elected officers for the coming year at a recent meeting. Those chosen by the organization were as follows:
President—Arden Godwin.
Vice-President—Joe Ryons.
Secretary-Treasurer—Chauncey Larson.

The association has petitioned "Scabbard and Blade" to install a chapter of that society at the University of Nebraska. "Scabbard and Blade" is a national organization established for those taking military training in universities and colleges throughout the United States. Membership would be placed upon an honorary basis if a chapter is founded at Nebraska, according to Arden Godwin, newly elected president of the association.
