"Passersby"-J. Stuart Blackton Productions.

Real characters of the London streets, interwoven into a simple drama of "love and learn," combined with the most true-to-life settings and fog scenes yet depicted in motion pictures, makes "Passersby," a special production directed under the masterful guidance of J. Stuart Blackton. one of the best pictures of the year.

This is one proof that a plot to be effective does not have to be complicated and contain murder and its consequences. The simplest story imaginable is so gripping in this photoplay as to make a college student-the most skeptical, cold-hearted and frivolous of all beings-sit up and take notice. This is a play that not only makes you think, but makes you feel sure that you have emotions.

Herbert Rawlinson's portraval of the aristocratic, although lovable. English gentleman is an interpretation well worth writing about. His character delineation takes the audi ence with him over his peculiar jour ney on life's boat, and then sits that same audience safely down on the shore when his perplexities and problems have been overcome.

Charles Blackton, son of the producer, showed that a child of tender years can make a character live breathe and act-not pose. Ferguson's interpretation of the old butler who was "brought up in the service," and the character of Nighty. the London cabby, were such delightful delineations that they seemed like real people from the pages of life. "Old Mr. Burns," who slept between newspapers in the city streets in the winter as well as in the summer, was another character masterfully depicted.

Streets, scenes on the Thames and London haunts were true to life. Especial mention should be made of the care which the producers have taken to preserve every detail of the picture, the characters and the set-

Fifty Village Banks as Part in

ASSOCIATION ACTIVE IN

Y. M. C. A. Has Started Hundred Reconstruction.

O. O. Stanchfield, national rural secretary for the Indian Empire, will be on the Farm campus Monday and Tuesday, to speak about rural reconstruction in India. The Y. M. C. A. starts 150 village banks in India. There are 760,000 villages in India. Large sections of the population that live in these rural villages are poverty stricken almost beyond description. Mr. Stanchfield will tell of the emancipation of these people from poverty. His is a story of how some years ago some of these Indian young men came out of their villages up to the metropolis of Madras and there got their first idea of how banks are established and carried the idea back Lions. to their villages. There began the scene of a work which is now halled on every hand by Indian and European officials and business men whether Christian or non-Christian.

Mr. Stanchfield will address the students of the School of Agriculture at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning in Agricultural Hall. He will speak in the same building to the girls in the Home Economics Department at 11 o'clock. Arrangements are being made for him to address the men of the College of Agriculture. This las meeting will be held under the Mr. Stanchfield is here under the auspices of the Committee of Two Hundred.

Easterners Praise Work of Nebraska

'22. Louise Tucker, '23, Edna Schul'z. Penn State Followers Hope Bezdekers and Cornhuskers Meet Next Season.

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Nov. 11 .-The Penn State-Nebraska game which was the feature of the annual Pennsylvania day program last Saturday, proved to be one of the greatest attractions ever seen on New Beaver field. The giant westerners with their flaming jerseys made a big hit with the spectators because of their HARVARD FROSH IN ATHLETICS clean, hard-playing and it is hoped that the Cornhuskers will have a place on the schedule, next fall.

The game itself was one of the WORK OF INDIA EMPIRE most spectacular in years, largely because of the great number of forward passes used by both teams. It was Bezdek's forward passing attack that really defeated the Nebraska eleven, for Killinger' saccurate passing seemed to have them baffled. The visitors were also unable to stop Charlie Way. State's marvelous 140-pound halfback, when he finally entered the game in the fourth period.

All of the Blue and White players came out of the game in good condition and they are ready for another hard game with Lehigh this week. Penn State expects to go through the season with a clean slate, and if the Bezdekers can conquer Pitt on Thanksgiving day, they will rank as the leading team in the east. Their victory over Nebraska, because of the intersectional flavor of the game, will add to the prestige of the Hittany

Captain Day of Nebraska proved to be one of the best centers ever seen here and his playing stood out throughout the game. Hartley and Wright, the two speed merchants in the visiting backfield, also performed well, as did Swanson and Scherer, the ends. "Red" Griffiths and Dick Rausch, the two State guards, were in almost every play; while Hufford, playing his first game at end, looks ike a find. The largest crowd ever assembled on New Beaver field witnessed last Saturday's game.-Omaha World-Herald.
