REESE MEMORIAL TABLET ARRIVES AT UNIVERSITY

Work of Sculptural Art Ready for Installation Ceremonies to Be Held Soon.

The Reese memorial tablet to be placed in the Law building in honor of the late M. B. Reese, dean of the College of Law from 1894 to 1904, has arrived and will be installed with appropriate ceremonies under the direction of the present dean, Warren A. Seavey. It is a bronze tablet showing the head and shoulders of the late dean.

The sculpture is the work of Elizabeth Tuttle Holsman of Chicago, a sister of Mrs. George L. Towne of Lincoln and a former student of the University of Nebraska. Mrs. Holsman worked only from photographs and had no distinct personal recollection of Dean Reese. Her work was inspected by Harry Reese, son of Dean Reese, before it was molded in bronze and he expressed satisfaction.

The cost of the tablet is $750 and is to be met entirely through gifts of former students of Dean Reese. The idea of the tablet was first suggested nearly three years ago by two Seattle lawyers, E. A. Wright and Daniel Landon, who offered substantial contributions in case the plan was adopted. L. R. Stonecker of Omaha has been state chairman of the committee. The alumni secretary, Miss Annis Chaiken, has been active in bringing the plan to the attention of those who were graduated from the College of Law during the period Mr. Reese was dean.

STUDENTS REGISTER HIT IN SHRINER FOLLIES

First Production of Shows Draws Big Crowd Monday Evening.

The first production of the Shriners' "Jollies of 1920," in which a large number of University students are taking part, was presented before a large audience at the Orpheum theater Monday night and will be repeated again this evening. The proceeds of the entertainment will be used to furnish a ward in the city hospital.

Mrs. George E. Condra has been directing the University students who are participating in the skits. Several University men have prominent parts in the minstrel act. The group under Mrs. Condra's direction contains nineteen girls and eight men. Another division, called the Red Cross group, is composed of other students in the city schools.

Practiced Thanksgiving. University students in the production risked missing part of their Thanksgiving dinner and the first quarter of the big Thursday game and attended a rehearsal Thanksgiving morning.

Lois Melton, '22, Frances Whitmore, '19, and True Jack, '20, have leading roles in the "Jollies."

Other students who take part in the production are: Gwendolyn McCoy, '22, Eleanor Talbot, '23, Tori Hoekenburger, '24, Elnora Bierkamp, Dorothy Rogers, Helen Burkett, '23, Isabel Pearsall, '22, Myrtle Carpenter, Vivian Hanson, '22, Ruth Lindsay, '21, Lurene Boone, '23, Clarice Green, Fae Breese, '20, Marguerite Smith, '21, Elizabeth Scribner, '22, Madeline Haecker, '24, Joe Iverson, '23, Gaylord Wilcox, Arnott Folsom, '23, Waldon Howey, '23, John Dawson, Richard Kimball, '23, Bayless Spain, '22, and Bill Alleman, '22.

LEGION MINUTES.

The minutes of the second annual convention held at Hastings last August is about ready for distribution. These books are to be kept in the Post Library. An effort will be made this winter to have these minutes published hereafter at the expense of the state, as is done for the G. A. R., and the Spanish War Veterans. The state printer publishes enough of these to furnish one for each chapter and one for each library in the state, and it does not cost the veterans a single dollar.—The Mid-West Veteran.

Girls' Soccer

The third season of soccer as a sport for University of Nebraska women ended two weeks ago with the Senior girls' team winners of the tournament and the Juniors runners-up. Since its introduction in the fall of 1916, soccer has become one of the most popular sports among Nebraska co-eds. No tournament was held in 1918 because of the S. A. T. C. and war conditions.

Upper and lower class teams were organized the first season and after learning the science of the game the girls entered into it with great enthusiasm.

The next year another upper class-lower class tournament was held. In that year, 1917-1918, the Women's Athletic Association was organized and interest in sports increased among the co-eds.

Interest in the sport was manifest in 1918-1919, but it was impossible to organize and play because of the S. A. T. C. and war conditions.

Sophomores' Names on Trophy.

In the fall of 1919 a large enough number of girls were playing soccer to warrant class teams instead of only two teams. The class of 1922,—the Sophomores of last year,—won the tournament and their numerals will be the first to be engraved on the soccer trophy.

The tournament this year, under the direction of the W. A. A., with Ruth Fickes, W. A. A., soccer leader in charge, was unusually successful. Although several times bad weather interfered with scheduled games, the players did not allow the delays to dampen their enthusiasm.

In the preliminaries the Junior team carried off the honors in the Junior-Freshman clash. The Seniors and Sophomores played two games before either side scored. In the second contest the Seniors defeated the Sophomores when they scored one goal against them. The finals between the Juniors and Seniors was declared by those who have watched the development of soccer in Nebraska to be perhaps the best games ever played here. The two evenly matched upper class teams fought with the outcome in doubt until the final whistle. The game resulted in a Senior victory.

"The Football of England." Soccer is called the football of England. It is played on the entire football field with the same goals as in football. Eleven players make up a

GOLD STRIPES MAY JOIN VETERANS OF FOREIGN WARS

Plans are under consideration for the incorporation of the Gold Stripe Club, an organization of men who saw overseas service in the World War, in the national organization of Veterans of Foreign Wars. This association, branches of which have been established at a number of colleges, includes all branches of the service. It is thought that this organization would be more helpful to the University than the Gold Stripe Club.—The Vermont Cynic.

Federal Board students at the University of Washington have organized a house club. It bears the distinctive name of "Apres la Guerre Club."

PROFESSOR WEAVER WRITES ABOUT ROOT DEVELOPMENT

Nebraska Instructor Discusses Correlation of Root Systems of Plants.

"Root Development in the Grassland Formation" is the title of a book written by John E. Weaver, professor of Plant Ecology, on the correlation of the root systems of native vegetation and crop plants, and recently published by the Carnegie Institution of Washington.

The book is intended to be a companion volume to "Ecological Relations of Roots." The latter is considered a pioneer work of rather extensive nature giving results of investigations in local areas in many widely separated plant communities. A knowledge of root development and distribution under different natural and cultural conditions is of great practical value to agriculturists, since it is an indicator of the value of lands for crop production.

Professor Weaver's book is profusely illustrated with photographs of roots and plants in various stages of development and is said to be one of the best works of its kind that has ever been published in the botanical department of the University of Nebraska. The book is taken as a result of actual work in the field. The trench or pit method was used in excavating roots, the soil about the root systems being removed with appropriate apparatus from the face of the trench and the roots photographed either in place or against a suitable background. In many cases, drawings of the root systems were made to scale as they were uncovered. The quadrat-bisect method was also employed to show root systems of communities and of crop plants in place and thus to exhibit their interrelations in detail.

THE KREMLIN, MOSCOW
Most of the famous buildings of the world are equipped with Otis Elevators
THE KREMLIN is the citadel of Moscow. The walls of the triangular enclosure were built in the year that Columbus discovered America. Much of the history of Russia—a dark tale of intrigue, mystery and bloodshed—was enacted in the Kremlin buildings.
 The present Great Palace dates back only to Napoleon's day, for his soldiers burned the old palace. There are two Otis Automatic Push Button Elevators in the Great Palace. There is another Otis Elevator in the Nicholas Palace.
 This is significant of the world-wide scope of Otis activities. From the first crude hydraulic elevators to the modern miracle of automatic vertical transportation, Otis has led the way and even now is continually developing new and better methods and machinery.
