Tru, la, la, la, la. Let's write a song for the Cornhusker Song Book.

Big Sisters, don't forget to take your Little Sisters to the Christmas party Saturday. Also drop a quarter into the box in Ellen Smith Hall. Your quarter will help pay for the party.

STUDENT EXTRAVAGANCIAS.

A number of students are just now finding out what it means to be pinched for money. A great many students have received warnings from the folks at home that their allowances will be curtailed soon and that the student must devise some means of getting along with the spending money very carefully.

The latter, however, is getting to be a scarce thing in Lincoln. But students will be able to alleviate their troubles to a great degree if they will only begin to economize. Too many parties, too many "dates," too many dances and too much ice cream, candy and high priced clothes are the chief reasons for the shortage of student finances.

These things can be done away with to a great extent if only the student will make an attempt to break away from the lure of extravagance. If they do not break away from the spending habit it will not be long until they will be forced to stop spending altogether.

Dances can be spaced farther apart and can be held at the chapter houses when it is deemed necessary that they be held. "Dates" also can be held at intervals farther apart and less regular than each and every Sunday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday. Other things can be moderated a great deal and temperance in all things should be the motto of each student during the present financial crisis.

HELLO, CLASSMATE!

Did you ever think what an unnatural custom we have? We see the same people in class several times a week. We hear them recite, and we become acquainted with their personalities. We exchange remarks with them and sometimes carry on conversations with those sitting near us.

And then, outside of class, when we met these people we know so well, what do we do? Why, we walk right past them with an icy glance in their direction and never a thought of giving any sign of recognition. Once in a while we forget ourselves and speak to a classmate. We explain to our friends that we can't remember whom we have met and whom we haven't met and that we have to watch ourselves or we will be speaking to students we see in class every day thinking we have met them. What a terrible calamity that would be! Can you imagine any thing worse?

Of course, there are exceptions to all rules. We all make some acquaintances in class, but we don't make one-tenth the number we should make.

We live in the West where unconventional democracy is the boast. Why hamper ourselves with an unnatural Eastern convention?

PRIZES AND FELLOWSHIPS.

University students and graduates are eligible to compete for a large number of prizes and fellowships which carry with them both honor and material value. Dean Le Resoignol has offered a prize of $100 for the best essay on some subject on economics. William Jennings Bryan offers annually the income from $250 for the best essay on the science of government.

The Association of College Alumnae offers a number of valuable fellowships. The Alice Freeman Palmer Memorial fellowship of $1,000 for research is open to American women holding the Ph. D. degree. Similar eligibility qualifications are required for the Sarah Berliner fellowship in physics, chemistry or biology. Women who have had two years graduate study are eligible to compete for a $750 fellowship for research in Europe. The Anna C. Brackett Memorial Fellowship is offered to American women with degrees in arts, science or literature, who intend to make teaching their profession. Gamma Phi Beta offers a fellowship of $500 to women with one year of graduate study for preparation in the social science profession. Anyone who is interested in these fellowships should contact the Association of Collegiate Alumnae Fellowship Announcement for 1921 from Dean Amanda Heppner.

The Pennsylvania State College offers to men and women graduates of any college of good standing a number of fellowships ranging in value from $650 to $800. Competition for these is open to those intending to make teaching a profession. Applications must be in by May 1. The twenty-five French fellowships offered to American women are open to graduates of American Universities. Each University makes nominations and a central committee selects the twenty-five. The selection is made in July. All who are graduated before that time will be eligible. The Rhodes scholarship is better known than the others. Alfred Rouse who is at Oxford University this year, is the University of Nebraska's last Rhodes scholar. The last one from Nebraska attended Cornell University. Another will not be chosen till next year.

These prizes and fellowships are among the most ambitious students should know about. Information about them is available in the office of the Registrar. Many of these offers are made annually.

SPEAKING OF SCENERY.

The campus could be made to look very neat indeed but for a few of the persistent ones who think that bare signs decorations showing unattractive animals and crooked letters are an added touch of beauty. The signs which are incessantly fastened to the trees, stuck in the lawn or staked on the sides of buildings, to say nothing of the regular bulletin board, are in most cases grotesque, and in practically every case the same message could be carried in a less conspicuous and more commendable manner. Along the Armory it is a common thing to see from one to three huge signs announcing events which every one knows of from notices in the paper and calls from friends and solicitors. The campus bulletins look like totem poles, covered with abnormal looking animals and impossible appearing men and women. Designs of more conservative means of advertising would be an added glory to the achievements of some campus marvel. It is to be hoped that some day the organizations will be able to inform the students on the campus of the different functions which are to take place without distorting the scenery with wild splashes of war paint and canvas.

DOANE FRESHMEN WIN THE ANNUAL CLASS DAY SCRAP

CRETE, Neb., Dec. 10.—The Soph broom Flag Day was held at Doane yesterday. The Freshmen won 314-229. The girls partook in some of the events.

Events consisted of the tug of war, punting, boxing, basketball game, Indian wrestl, cock fighting, baseball throw, chariot race, centipede race, raising from a prostrate position and human burden race. The Freshman girls won the basketball game with a score of 8 to 6. Four seniors and three Juniors acted as judges.

The flag scrap was overruled by unanimous vote of a mass meeting of students last week, and is superseded by an annual affair called Sophrosh Day, which is to take place within two weeks following Thanks giving recess. The winner of the contest leaves the flag up twenty-four hours after the event closes which is at noon. The loser is to take their flag down immediately after. No school is held on this day. The afternoon is given over to class excursions.

Cornell Men Show Feeling Against Women

ITHACA, Dec. 1.—Feeling against co-educational education, smoldering for several months at Cornell University, has burst into fire here with the result that nine men, representing the senior council and senior honorary societies, have presented demands to the Cornell faculty that women students in the Institution be segregated in their own colleges with instruction in separate buildings and that enrollment of co-eds be strictly limited.

Because a gift of $250,000 made in 1873, by Henry W. Sage, bound the University to give women equal privileges with men, it is expected faculty body will not grant the students' demands.—Syracuse Daily Orange.

I Say:

I SAY: Pay King insists that The very latest mode Of arranging one's hair, Allowing the tips of woman's little pink ears To be visible is really Not practical since the Cost of the puffs necessary For the present coiffure is really less than the Soap that th other style Would make advisable. Besides, say we, such A mode would necessitate The formation of some sort Of society for the protection Of homeless cooties. We are Being low-brow to please the Masses. We really know better. Matilda Jane.

Great interest still centers in the Hebrew University on the Mount of Olives. It is planned to make it the world center for Jewish culture and education. A collection of books is being made from all over the world. One collection of 40,000 volumes has been given. Among the world-famous Jewish scholars who have joined the faculty of the university are: Prof. Albert Einstein, author of the new theory of relativity; Prof. August Von Wasserman, discoverer of the blood test which bears his name; and Prof. S. Freud, the psycho-analyst.

Dr. John G. Bowman, director of the American College of Surgeons, has been chosen chancellor of the University of Pittsburgh, which duties he will assume January 1. Dr. Bowman is a graduate of the University of Iowa.

The Nebraska hen is losing her grip on the 8-hour day. Information has reached Prof. F. E. Mussehl of the College of Agriculture that several Nebraska poultrymen are now using artificial light to stimulate egg production. No longer can the pullets sit on the roost until lazy old Sol appears over the eastern horizon. Instead of an alarm clock, electric lights blaze forth at 5 a. m. and the day is on. Likewise, instead of knocking off at 5 p. m., Miss Pullet finds plenty of light in the house for a couple of hours after darkness fails over the land. Nebraska poultrymen have now entered the highly specialized class, heretofore known only to the big eastern poultry states or in a few spots on the west coast.
