YEARBOOK PRINTS WELL UNDER WAY

Cornhusker Pictures to Cost the Same as Last Year—Townsend Doing Work.

Closing Date for Groups and Individuals January 31—Want Spicy Snapshots for Student Section.

Fifty students have already taken advantage of the opportunity to get their pictures taken early for the Cornhusker Junior and Senior sections. Several organizations have had their photos taken for the annual also and Townsend's studio reports that many more have made appointments for this week.

The Cornhusker staff decided definitely on the prices for pictures this year. The price of individual pictures will remain at $3.50 although the prices of engraving work have gone up considerably over last year. It was decided that on account of the tightness of money that the Cornhusker management could afford to take a small loss on this section in order to give all students a chance to get their pictures in the book.

Last year between 600 and 700 students had their pictures in the Junior and Senior sections. It is expected that the 1921 Cornhusker will include at least as many pictures. The $3.50 will include the price of the photograph and the cost of the cut for the Cornhusker.

Townsend Does Work.

Honor cards have been supplied to Townsends for students to fill out at the time they have their pictures taken. On these cards, the students should write their full name, home addresses, college and honors. The honors are divided into two sections, organizations and other honors. Any activities which the students have participated in should be included in this list.

It is desired that specific activities, such as football, basketball, Nebraska staff and the like, should be followed by the year, (1), (2), (3), or (4), enclosed in parenthesis after it. These letters will designate the years in the school in which the students took part in these activities.

It is absolutely necessary that all students get in for pictures as soon as possible because the closing date is January 31. The price of the picture and the cut, $3.50 must be paid at Townsend's before the picture is taken. Townsend's studio is on South Eleventh street.

Ruth Kadel, '23, has been appointed to take charge of sorority pictures. Certain dates will be assigned to certain sororities and if the pictures are not taken at these times, they will be omitted from the sorority groups. Caps and gowns have been supplied to Townsend's in order that Senior girls might have their pictures taken (Continued on Page Four)

WATERS DISCUSSES FARMERS PROBLEMS

Talks on Present Day Problems and Their Solution—Meeting Held in Auditorium.

Dr. Henry Waters, editor of the Kansas City Weekly Star, and formerly dean of the Missouri Agricultural College and President of the Kansas College of Agriculture, addressed 500 farmers at the City Auditorium yesterday afternoon on the subject of "The Present Day Farm Problems and Their Solution." The problems confronting the farmer today are financial stringencies, surplus production and under consumption. Farmers can best solve these problems themselves, through their own organizations, but it cannot be done over night. Such bodies as the committee of seventeen of the American Farm Bureau Federation can do much toward solving the farmers' problems.

Dr. Waters urged co-operation and organization of the farmers and the marketing of farm products in a scientific way. The farmers products are the only products marketed in an unscientific way.

Corey Names Relief Plans.

The freedom of money and the granting of too much credit by city and country banks and farmers borrowing too much brought about the present economic depression, according to M. L. Corey, counsellor of the Omaha Federal Farm Loan Bank. He expressed the belief that farmers should share with the banker in taking losses and urged everyone to forget selfish interest and co-operate in the present crisis as we did during the war.

Among the many plans for relief for the farmer, Mr. Corey mentioned the American Foreign Trade Finance Corporation formed at Chicago with a capital of $100,000,000 to finance foreign trade. He cited the revival of the War Finance Corporation by Congress to finance foreign trade. Both these plans strike at the real root of the problem in that it aids the rehabilitation of foreign industries.

He urged, forcibly, the Federal Farm Loan Bank as a key to the solution in that it can float loans to farmers at a lower rate of interest. The Farm Loan Bank is now inoperative because of the suit brought by the American Mortgage Bankers' National Association, testing the validity of the act in the United States supreme court.

Farmer-Owned Elevators.

Farmers were cautioned to not patronize promoters selling blue sky stocks by C. H. Gustafson, president of the farmers' union and chairman of the committee of seventeen, at the Crop Growers' meetings. He urged farmer-owned and controlled machinery and modern business methods should be adopted by all co-operative business.

H. D. Lute, secretary of the Nebraska Farm Bureau, stated that the farmer's greatest need now was co-operation and the marketing of farm products in a steady stream.

J. D. Harris of Scottsbluff, who is in charge of the Scottsbluff Agricultural Experiment Station, has arrived in Lincoln, where he will do demonstration work at the State Farm for a week.

HUSKER SQUAD BACK FROM EASTERN TRIP

Victors in Two Contests and Lost One—Play Grinnell in First Home Game.

Coach Schissler and the Cornhusker basketball squad returned from their Eastern trip last night. The team is in pretty fair shape considering the three hard games participated in during the trip.

The Husker five has two wins to their credit and one defeat marked up against them. Coach Schissler seemed well pleased with the showing made by the team on the trip.

The Huskers were scheduled to meet the Bloomington A. C. tonight but owing to the ruling of the Missouri Valley Conference that only eighteen games can be played, the Husker officials canceled the contest.

The rest of the week will be spent in practice. The Huskers will start practice at the Coliseum as soon as possible. Coach Schissler has not made known his plans for the coming week but the Varsity will more than likely receive some stiff work.

The Y. M. C. A. will be the scene of a fast game tonight when the Armstrong Clothing company team of this city will meet the Oakland Junior Golds of Oakland, Calif.

VETERAN TELLS OF WAR EXPERIENCES

Young Soldier of World War Addressed Special Convocation—Professor Stepanek is Interpreter.

On One Occasion Forced to Dig Own Grave—Nearly Killed by Bolsheviki When Trying to Escape.

His capture by the Bolsheviki forces with all its harrowing details was related by Misoslav Marek, 17, youngest veteran of the World War, at convocation Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock. He described how the offices of the most cruel regiment of the Red army forced him to dig his own grave when they suspected him of being a spy for Czechoslovakia—which he really was. He also told how he was nearly choked to death by the Bolsheviki after he had been thrown out of an enemy building because those outside thought he was attempting to escape. The speaker spoke in his native tongue. Professor Stepanek acted as interpreter.

He spoke in a combined language of Czech and Russian. Young Marek appeared in the uniform of the Czech army.

Became Spy at 11.

Misoslav at the age of 11 became a full-fledged spy in the Russian army. He described one of his experiences which resulted almost fatally. After gaining much information from the enemy which he obtained during the several weeks he spent in a Bolsheviki camp, he stuffed the papers inside the lining of his trousers. He then set out to join the Czech forces more than two hundred miles away. By a clever strategy he successfully traced the direction of his journey.

He heard the cry of "Water, water, Cossack," at night after walking a number of miles to the scene of battle where men and horses were lying in great numbers in pools of blood. In his fright he had enough presence of mind to take a canteen of tea from the saddle of a dead horse and to carry it to the place from which the cries for help came, but it was too late. He man died soon afterward. Marek was lying on the bank of a river and his destination was the opposite side.

The bridge had been burned and the current was so swift that swimming was impossible. While debating how to cross the stream, a Bolsheviki armored car drove up and several officers got out. The young boy was ordered to surrender and was taken to the Bolsheviki headquarters where he was given the "third degree" in an attempt to make him confess to being a spy.

Refuses to Confess.

Marek refused to confess and told the men that he was a Russian school boy who was going to a nearby town to visit his mother. Not believing (Continued on Page 3.)
