

Sunday Night
Date Is Most Thrilling of All

Add up all the thrills you have ever had and even take those you could ever hope to have, and I would be willing to wager that the greatest of all these taken together cannot compare with the most supreme and surpassing of all—a Sunday night date.

I get a most heart-rending feeling whenever I think of one. There is always such a lot for you to do. You never have to attempt to invent conversation—it just flows forth spontaneously, you feel vivacious on all such occasions.

There is a variety of pleasant ways to pass away the time. One of the chief amusements is to sit on the sofa and converse fluently on the first subject you can grasp at, and when you have talked about it from every angle you make your date think of the next topic of current interest. While this gentle play of words progresses you are exquisitely entertained by a piano solo accompanied by poor bass.

There is always a mob out in the kitchen making candy. Some times, when things drag too much, you suggest a little excursion to the kitchen where you hope to rate a piece of fudge for yourself and one for your date. If you succeed in looking very hungry you can usually work it.

This done, you go back to hold down the sofa again if it is still vacant. If not, you sit on the steps or the floor or any available place. The piano is being banged to pieces in the meantime. They are playing the song, "It's All Over," and you yawningly wish there was more truth than poetry to the selection. All the time these thoughts run through your head, you are forced to smile and laugh as if you wished it would never be "al over."

On special and rare occasions you are invited to dinner by a man who owns a car and isn't afraid to drive it. Those are landmarks in your history, however—at least in the case of most girls. Most of us have only a speaking acquaintance with such men.

Now, girls, admit this is your candid opinion. Or are you too much the affirmed Policy Queens to commit yourselves?

Helter—"I know of a place where you can get 4 per cent."
Skelter (cautiously)—"Where?"
Helter—"At the bank."

DEAN HEPNER LEAVES FOR EXTENDED TRIP EAST

Miss Amanda Hepner, dean of women, left Friday for Ames, Iowa, where she will inspect the new dormitory completed at the Iowa State Agricultural College in October. From there she will go to New York City to attend a conference on vocational activities. Following this there is to be a conference of deans of women of universities held in connection with the mid-winter meeting of the National Educational Association at Atlantic City.

Miss Hepner will return by way of Washington, D. C., in order to attend the inaugural ceremonies on March 4. She will be absent from her office about two weeks. During this time, her assistant, Miss Sellock will be in charge of her duties.

CAMP FIRE GIRLS START TRAINING COURSE

Wolohe Camp Fire met Monday afternoon in Ellen Smith Hall for the first of the series of twelve talks in the guardians training course given under the direction of Mrs. F. F. Teal. Over twenty-five girls were present. Mrs. Teal briefly outlined the work to be taken up this semester. Regular meetings this semester will be held every Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock. At the end of the course the girls will make out a four months Camp Fire program and write a count of a ceremonial meeting. They will then be given certificates by the national headquarters.

SUNDAY IS PRAYER DAY FOR STUDENTS

Sufferings in Europe Make This Fitting and Urgent at This Time.

Sunday, February 27, has been designated by the World's Student Christian Federation as a universal day of prayer for students and will be observed at the University. The student pastors and the Y. M. C. A. are conducting a series of meetings from Monday to Friday, inclusive, of this week in preparation for next Sunday.

St. Luke's church at Thirteenth and R streets, will be open for private prayer from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m. each day.

On Thursday and Friday from 12 to 12:30 and from 12:40 to 1 o'clock there will be prayer services under student leadership. Special prayer on Thursday for American students and on Friday for European and Asiatic students will be offered.

The needs of the students of Europe and the near east and the sufferings which so many of them are undergoing, make this appeal especially fitting and urgent at the present time, is the statement of Dr. D. E. Thomas, Congregational University pastor.

MONTE CARLO TOURNAMENT STARTS NEXT WEDNESDAY

The first round in girls' basketball will start Wednesday with the Monte Carlo tournament. There will be eight teams captained by representative girls in the sport who will draw their teams from a hat. Last year this system for the preliminary tournament was tried with success as far as evenly matched teams were concerned.

The players will be watched in this tournament for material for championship teams, which will be chosen early next week.

The complete list of the players and the times of the different games will be published tomorrow.
