2. More paid readers on the campus.

4. Realization of the new gymnasium and stadium.
5. Lower prices to University students.
6. Each student an "unofficial" staff member of the Daily Nebraskan.

A REMEDY FOR DRIVES.

Early last fall the Daily Nebraskan again revived the proposition of charging students a Single Tax for several of the more important college activities—as basketball and football games, dramatic entertainments, All-University mixers and subscriptions to the daily. This tax which amounts to from three to five dollars a semester in schools where the plan is worked successfully, would be paid by the student registration week as a part of his registration fees. The student would pay this Single Tax with his registration fees, and drives and campaigns that seem to strike the student body when they are in the most dire financial straits would be methods of a by-gone day.

Once not many years ago Nebraska students voted to adopt the Single Tax system. Then in an unexplainable manner it was dropped. A live issue should not be allowed to slip from our consideration.

Single Tax for every student next fall would eliminate drives for football tickets, would do away with Daily Nebraskan drives and with campaigns to sell paste-boards for basketball games. The details of the system could be easily perfected. The students should declare themselves in favor of such a proposition and then the Regents should act on the results of the student vote.

EXTRA! EXTRA! EVENING SHUN: 5 CENTS.

Saturday night when you meander to the High School auditorium to witness the annual University Passing Show, you should provide yourself with a nickel. The Evening Shun will sell gossip heaped upon a silver platter for five cents the scoop. The members of Sigma Delta Chi, who are creating the Shun, and who will distribute it, announce that students must present the exact amount for the scandal-sheet, as the great demand for the publication and the large number of copies to be distributed, make it almost impossible to make change at that time.

Copies of the Shun may be obtained Monday, February 28, at the College Book Store for ten cents each for those who are not fortunate enough to obtain their copies Saturday night.

The Shun this year takes on the aspect of a mammoth metropolitan exponent of the yellowest of yellow journalism. The headlines are more flashy and the stories are more daring than ever before. No bit of campus scandal has been spared from its columns.

Five cents will enable you to wade in University scandal from September until February. You will be able to swim in it if you can't wade. Don't forget your nickel.

THE BUNGALOW MAN.

President Wilson has coined a new word. He has let the "bungalow man" make his debut with the definition "he who has no upper story."

The college men who attend school out of curiosity alone is a good example of "bungalow man." His parents give him the money which will supply his needs at the university he chooses to attend. They probably never inquire whether or not he makes his hours or whether he is taking any particular course. In this case, they too, are "bungalow persons" of the worst type. A "bungalow" student cannot be entirely blamed for the privileges given him by a "bungalow" parent. If curiosity and not education is the channel the student chooses when he comes to college, he should be given an opportunity to realize his mistake, or else his parents should be made to see that this curiosity is the result of their own indifference.

Student Opinion

In reply to the student opinion that appeared in the Daily Nebraskan Monday, I wish to say that the single tax would keep many students out of school. A number of us are forced to work eight hours a day to pay our expenses.

Suppose that through the single tax we buy tickets for the football and basketball games, etc. Some of us fellows enjoy a football game as much as anybody, but we are working all the time and cannot attend the games.

Is it fair to make us, who are struggling to make our way through school, help support these activities?
 LAW, '22.

The idea of publishing a Greater Nebraska Song Book is really a big one and I am strong for it. A university without traditional songs is a University without college spirit. I talked with Ward Randall one evening on the campus in front of old U Hall when he told me how he came to think of collecting Nebraska songs in one big book that would express the spirit of our University and the great state to which its services are dedicated.

He said he heard the Ann Arbor students one night at water fette on Lake Michigan when boys and girls in the canoes and sail boats all over the bay took up song after song in praise of their alma mater. He said that he saw then what it meant for a school to have songs which everyone knew and could sing, songs, which would be handed down year after year; and he resolved then to start a movement at his own alma mater toward collecting a body of songs and ballads representing the life of the school, its traditions and ideals.

This seemed to me a splendid and worthy idea. It is one, I believe, that will do more than anything else to bring our 4,000 students together and make them one greater chorus of loyal Cornhuskers. Song is the inspiration of patriotism, the glow of loyalty and life of traditions; wherever these songs are sung, around the piano, or on fete days, or at athletic games, those Cornhuskers who join in the singing will feel and become a part of the greater Nebraska spirit.

The idea is a splendid one, and it will mean a great deal to our university, in my opinion. I have not seen the songs which are to go into the volume, but if they carry out the ideal which Mr. Randall, and other members of the committee with whom I have come in contact, have expressed as their aim, I am sure they will be of this character, and that the book will not only be worthy of a strong student support in a financial way, but it will also be well worth publishing for the pleasures and benefits it will bring to future Nebraskans and praises it will sing to the honor of the University.

DOCTOR EARHART ADDRESSES FRESHMAN LECTURE CLASS

Teachers' College Instructor Tells First Year Students About Immigration Problems.

Dr. Lida B. Earhart, instructor in the Teachers College addressed the Freshman lecture class Tuesday on "An Intimate View of the Immigration Problem." This was the first of a series of lectures to be given concerning immigration.

Dr. Earhart for several years was closely associated with the education of foreigners in New York. She told of the difficulties rought up y the differences between proleims introduced by different nationalities. The Italians and the Jewish people seem to bring more problems into New York than any other nationality. They have had the least opportunity in their own countries. The good in them must be brought out by the American democratic spirit through the public schools.

The Jewish people from the south east part of Europe have had few things in their lives to endear them to Christians. "Is it any wonder," Dr. Earhart asked that they hold themselves aloof from the people who they think are their persecutors?"

"In the slums where the low classes of these people are found, superstition, ignorance, and filth are abundant." Dr. Earhart said: "These people must be taught in schools that the laws are for their protection and benefit. They must be taught good habits of living and aided in the setting of high ideals."

We Americans must know and appreciate the fact that we are examples to these people. In conclusion she said it is our patriotic duty to give these foreigners all the help in our power toward the road of good American citizenship,—and this can't be done by calling them "Wops," "Shenks," "Bohunks," or "Micks."

Are the first warm days of Spring going to smile on you—or laugh at you? All depends on the state of your wardrobe, don't you think? Just stroll through our apparel sections soon—you'll find things that will make you discard that old plaid plush suit in a hurry!

"Lives there a girl with soul so dead Who never to herself each spring has said Give me something new to top my head?"

Perhaps that isn't the exact quotation, but anyway it's supposed to remind you that you will enjoy prowling about in our millinery section if you are looking for a smart new-season chapeau. You'll find labels like Rawak, Bruck-Weiss, Gage, Landsee, Schwalbe, Cupid, Belnor, and Bluebird in them, too!

And you'll want a suit of course—that constant companion of your spring activities. Perhaps it will be a short box model that will gain the sought-for glances of approval. Or it may be that your particular type of pulchritude will cry for an Eton suit, lined and trimmed in bright red—or a trimly belted model. In any event, we have them all, and they are so moderately priced that the difference between what you expected to pay and what you actually do pay will keep you in marbles and goups for a long time.

The young maidens gamboling so playfully under this weeping willow tree are all smartly attired in frocks made of dotted Swisses and organdies purchased in our piece goods section. The one at the extreme right has chosen a crisp sheer quality of organdie in Mrs. Harding blue. Isn't it chic? Only $1.29 a yard too. Dotted Swiss in a wonderful flame shade has fashioned the frock of the girl with arms arranged in such careless abandon just to the left of the tree. Note: We should be glad to furnish the fabrics for YOUR warm weather dresses too—and you never saw a more dazzling array of fashionable colors from which to choose, $1.29 and $1.98 a yard.
