DAILY NEBRASKAN'S SECOND SEMESTER PLATFORM

1. Clean politics in competitive campus affairs.
2. More paid readers on the campus.
3. A wider scope of news.
4. Realization of the new gymnasium and stadium.
5. Lower prices to University students.
6. Each student an "unofficial" staff member of the Daily Nebraskan.
7. Adoption of the Single Tax System next fall.

QUIZZES THAT ARE SPRUNG.

The reports for the first quarter, containing four weeks of work, are due at the beginning of this week. When students in a number of classes reported for recitation Friday several professors announced that they would be compelled to give quarterly quizzes so that the grades for the first four weeks may be computed.

In a few instances these blind examinations, for which the students had had not chance to prepare, consisted of from five to ten detailed questions. These tests were to count as the basis of the delinquent reports which are due tomorrow in the office of the Executive Dean.

In fairness to the student, when the instructors know by this time exactly when the quarterly reports are due, should they not give them a warning that these examinations are in store for them?

SIGN YOUR STUDENT OPINIONS.

The Daily Nebraskan welcomes student thought on questions and is glad to record this thought in the Student Opinion column. However, a number of student opinions are being received each day without any signatures affixed to them. After this, all student opinions that are submitted to the daily for publication must be signed by the person who writes them. If the writer desires that his name shall be omitted when the article is published, he will also be allowed to affix a nom de plume.

Please sign your student opinions.

THE SUNDAY "RAG."

With the exploitation of the Sunday morning "Rag," a new custom has been instituted at the University of Nebraska. News will be served hot to University students. The happenings of Saturday which are all cold when they appear in the Monday morning Nebraskan will be real news when they make their debuts in the Sunday morning paper.

Perhaps this system will aid Sunday morning sleepers to forsake their couches. Perhaps it will make the paper seem more cosmopolitan, with its six or eight pages. We think the students will co-operate with the staff in making the Sunday morning paper a success.

EDITORIAL OF THE DAY

THE BUSINESS WORLD AND BETTER ENGLISH.
(University Daily Kansan.)

Many a man has lost an opportunity to secure a position because his collar was dirty, or his shoes were unshined, and many a woman has lost her chances because her dress was untidy or her hair noticeably fussy. Sometimes a man's manners have left him seeking a position. Likewise, the way a person talks, the effectiveness of his speech, is a deciding factor in the success of any one who goes into the business world. The ability to speak good English is no little asset for the young man or woman who goes out from college, and attempts to get a position. And effectiveness of speech requires first of all, a vocabulary and the ability to use it correctly.

UNI NOTICES

Counselors at Kiwanis Camp.

Women who want to be counselors at Kiwanis camp next summer call for application blanks at women's gymnasium office this week.

University Chorus.

Our Inquiring Reporter

Five persons picked at random are asked a question each day.

Today's question: How do you like the idea of a Sunday paper?

1. "Sago" Ross, 345 No. 14th St. The paper is going to be good. It'll work out to be a great idea.
2. Ruth Brown, 1544 Q St. It's going to be mighty good. It'll be glad when the first issue comes out.
3. "Bill" Wright, 1548 S St. I like it fine. The people who don't subscribe are going to miss out on a good paper.
4. Gertrude Miller, 405 No. 25th. I've been hearing a lot about the paper that's coming out Sunday and I think it's going to be good.
5. Helen Gries, 1548 R St. Oh, it'll be wonderful. It's a peach of an idea I'm so glad they are putting one out.

CAMP POSITIONS OPEN TO UNIVERSITY WOMEN

Positions as counselors at the Kiwanis Club camp for girls at Milford on the Blue River next summer are open to University women. Application blanks may be obtained at the women's gymnasium office this week. This camp, sponsored by the Kiwanis Club, was founded last summer. Girls of all ages over twelve go there for an outing, some staying all summer, others not more than a week. The camp can accommodate fifty girls. The counselors, all of whom were University women last summer, have charge of the girls and teach them swimming, nature lore, art work, hiking, rowing, folk dancing and horseback riding.

The camp next summer will be run from June 15 to September 1. All counselors must agree to stay either all the time or half of the time.

The counselors last summer were Mary Herzling, Ruth King, Frances Colton, Faith Murfin, Norma Clark, Bessie Epstein, Marianna Cummings, Helen Black, Margaret Baldwin, Ruth McKenney and Carrie King.

BUBBLES

By Ima Cuckoo.

Two masculine members of the senior class were discussing the possible age of one of the sweet young things whom they both have known for four years.

"It beats me," said one.

"Now I have been through these four years of college with her and when she enrolled in the freshman class she wore her skirts long, in fact down to her ankles, and her hair done on top of her head. Now look at her, she's a senior and wears her hair bobbed. She looks like sweet sixteen. I give up. You never can tell."

Some people are born bores, others acquire turgidity, still others tell Ford stories. —Daily Kansan.

A lawyer must observing be. And see all that there is to see, And stand upon a lofty stair, And lok quite wise while standing there.

Prof.—"When you have finished a course in chemistry, what have you?" Experienced stude—"A flunk." —Daily Kansan.

"My hands are so cold," said the sweet young thing after they had emerged from the theater. "Give me my gloves. I put them in your coat pocket."

"But these gloves are so thin," he remonstrated. "They don't keep your hands warm, do they?"

"No," she admitted, "but they keep other people from seeing how cold my hands are." —Teaser.

He—"In bad again. Guess I struck the wrong chord." Second Ditto—"Yes, discord."

Jack—"What kind of a fellow is Blinks?"

Bill—"Well, he's one of those fellows who always grab the stool when there is a piano to be moved." —Oregon Lemon Punch.

Time and Again.

He—"May I hold your hand for a second?"

She—"How will you know when the second is up?"

He—"Oh, I'll need a second hand for that." —Brown Jug.

All's Well.

The man at the wheel—"The engine seems to be missing, dear."

The girl—"Never mind, darling, it doesn't show." —Wisconsin Octopus.

He—"Where you come from are all the girls as pretty as you are?"

She—"I don't know, sir; I only notice the boys." —Sans-Gene.
