THE NEBRASKA OF NEXT YEAR.
 2. Sportsmanship.

In making Nebraska University better than she has ever been before there are a few essentials that need to be stressed next year. One of these is sportsmanship. This quality can be applied alike to athletics, work in the classroom and to every campus activity in which the student engages. It is a quality directly opposed to factions and politics. It is a quality which makes a good loser popular and makes a poor loser feel the prick of his conscience.

Sportsmanship in inter-mural sports, intra-mural sports and in games between various organizations is necessary to the complete success of all of them. Without the spirit of fair play which is so much admired by outsiders, any game is disappointing. A fiery game minus such a quality on the part of its players loses its interest and its gripping power. It rather becomes a struggle between two teams composed of overgrown children.

Sportsmanship in the classroom, at election time (and especially afterward) and in various other activities which are the backbone of a university is an asset not to be disregarded. The public admires the student who relies upon what he actually knows in an examination and says "he is playing square." Petty squabbles at election time only give the institution sponsoring the election the proverbial "black eye."

When we return next fall, we are determined to bring back with us our ability to stand for fair play—sportsmanship—at all times. It will raise the standing of our college one hundred per cent.

A Nebraska girl has tied the world's record for the 20-yard dash. A Nebraska hurdler has given Thompson of Dartmouth a race for his laurels and another little Cornhusker cinder artist has run the 100-yard dash in 9.4. Our University is in the limelight in the world of sports.

Pictures of the Farmers' Fair were shown the last of the week at a local motion picture theater. They showed the parade as it wended its way down O street, as well as some of the scenes at the Fair campus in the afternoon, including the riding of several unbroken horses. These films are the products of the Nebraska University motion picture studios.

REDUCTION IN PRICE OF COLLEGE COMIC.

It won't cost you as much to laugh next year as it did during the current school year. Sigma Delta Chi has reduced the price of its child, Awgwan. It has slashed the present price of two dollars for nine issues to just half that amount. You will be able to see the penmanship of some of the best University artists and read the wit of Cornhusker humorists for a dollar a year.

Awgwan will sell at news stands next year for fifteen cents a copy. The reduction in price was decided upon in view of the fact that prices of periodicals all over the country are being cut down. Begin saving your dollar now for your next year's subscription to Old Man Awgwan.

STUDENT COUNCIL MEMBERS CHOSEN.

With the stillness of that part of the morning when the owls don't even venture forth, the new members of the Student Council were chosen Thursday. There seemed to be no visible electioneering, although of course we can't tell what happens under the surface. Perhaps one of the reasons for the lack of interest on the part of students was the fact that the members elected do not have the privilege of dividing their spoils later on by committee appointments.

The students who will serve on the Council next year are representative of Cornhusker activities and have energy. We believe that they will make of the Student Council a functioning body.

FOR MEN AND MAGAZINES.

Ellery Sedgwick, editor of the Atlantic Monthly, says editing is an art and its product a work of art; the magazine has a need out of which it is born; it is a living, vital thing, with qualities and "ways" like a human being; it is read and combated or agreed with, appreciated or disliked, as is a man; at all times it must be itself, as a man must be if he is to make any impress; and it dies, like any other living thing, on its appointed day and when the place and need for it have passed.

Some of those who heard Mr. Sedgwick very naturally turned his talk in upon themselves and began to wonder whether men—not to speak of magazines—live up to this idea of the proper place of a human being. How many of us feel that we ought to have a genuine passion in life, and strive to fulfill it? How many try to acquire that character, that individuality, which men—and publications—ought to have? How many refuse to be other than themselves? The world is too full of copyists whose character is not well enough developed, or whose faith in themselves has not been sufficiently reasoned into existence, to let them stand alone—original contributors, whether right or wrong, to the world's thought and action. Too few of us are Emersons, just as too few magazines are Atlantics in this quality.

"Be ourselves" is as good a motto for all men as "Be a living, vital thing" would be as a phrase to set forth the goal of a good magazine.

MARY SHEPHERD WINS INDIVIDUAL HONORS

Captures Athletic Trophy With Total of 1,955 Points—Record Score.

The individual cup for the most points in athletics will go to Mary Shepherd of this year's class. Each year the association awards a cup to the girl who has earned the most points, in her class, for her four years in school.

"Chaucery," as she is known around the "gym," started her athletic career very humbly, and had only 260 points to her credit at the end of her freshman year. Since that time she has accumulated a modest amount—1,955 points in sports. She received her "N" sweater in her junior year. She stands among the highest in sportsmanship, has served on the W. A. A. board two years, is this year's baseball leader, has captained class teams in victory, and has done her bit in flipping hamburgers for football fans.

No girl has ever won this amount of points before. Martha Keogmann, of the 1921 class ranks second with 1,675 points.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Wilken announce the birth of a daughter, Elaine Patricia, recently in New York City. Mr. Wilken was graduated from the College of Law in 1920. He is prominent in University circles and a member of the Innocents society.
