Company "D" commanded by Captain James Proebsting, won the highest honors in military maneuvering in the twenty-eighth annual competitive drill staged on the University campus yesterday afternoon. Company "G," in command of Captain S. A. Lewis, took second place.

A. M. Daniels of "D" Company won the individual competitive drill in an elimination contest between representatives of each R. O. T. C. unit and the Pershing Rifles. Max Greenberg of "F" Company took second place and Lysle Abbot of "G" Company succeeded in taking third place. Abbot is a member of the Pershing Rifles.

At one-thirty eight companies of the reserved officers training corps assembled on the new drill ground north of Social Science hall, and passed in review before Colonel Moses, commandant of cadets, and Dr. Hall, president of the board of regents. Chancellor Avery who had planned to review the regiment was unable to be present. Following the review of the regiment each company was inspected by regular army officers and given a rating according to the condition of their guns and personal appearance.

Immediately after the inspection, the units proceeded according to their order of drill to the athletic field where they were given orders to execute before the judges.

The grandstand of the athletic field was decorated in red, white and blue bunting and draped with American flags. Music for the occasion was furnished by the University band. Boxes were reserved for the sponsors and the wives of the officers of the military department, the president of the board of regents, field officers, deans of colleges and the captains of the cadet regiment. The sponsors were in the boxes assigned to field officers and captains.

Individual Compet.

The individual competitive drill followed immediately after the "compet" by companies. Two cadets were chosen through competition by the captain of the company they were to represent. The first prize to the individual "compet" winner was a tie pin contributed by Tucker-Shean, Jewelers. The second prize was a Gillette safety razor offered by Harley Drug company. The Awgwan staff presented the winner of third place with a year's subscription of the Awgwan. Company "D" who took first place in the "compet" by companies was awarded the "Omaha Cup."

The rating of each company as decided by the judges is as follows:

1. Company D—Captain J. Proebsting, commanding.
2. Company G—Captain S. A. Lewis, commanding.
3. Company H—Captain R. E. Dearmont, commanding.
4. Company F—Captain J. L. Ryons, commanding.
5. Company E—Captain F. H. Richards, commanding.
6. Company B—Captain A. M. Wilson, commanding.
7. Company A—Captain C. B. Nelson, commanding.
8. Company C—Captain J. G. Noh, commanding.

The last scene of the competitive drill was a parade with all majors and captains with their sponsors in the reviewing stand. After the review the prizes were presented to the winners.

Colonel Moses stated that he was well pleased with the conduct of each unit and that they are to be congratulated.

In the evening about two thousand "wild eyes" cadets and other students in the University assembled at the armory for the traditional "shirt-tail" parade. B. V. D.'s, night gowns of all descriptions and pajamas were the chief costumes of the participants. Every man received a quantity of red paint on the face just before the molley crowd started on their rampage through the down-town district of Lincoln. Company "D," the winning unit in the "compet" had the honor of leading the parade through

PROFESSOR GRUMANN RETURNS TO NEBRASKA

He Tells of Convention of the American Federation of Art at Washington.

Prof. Paul H. Grumann, head of the department of fine arts of the state university, returned Tuesday from Washington, D. C., where he attended the convention of the American Federation of Art.

Between 800 and 1,000 people were present at the meetings. Included in this number were museum directors, famous artists, art directors, and others of high rank in the world of art. The meetings were held at the Corcoran Art Gallery for the most part, although one session congregated in the National Gallery, Smithsonian Institution.

On Thursday morning, by special invitation, President Harding reviewed the artists in front of the white house and on Thursday afternoon a reception was held in the white house.

The convention closed Friday with dinner at Rauschers and very distinguished delegates were heard at that meeting, including the head of the Pan American Union. All phases of art work were discussed. In addition to the set papers there were a great many very valuable informal discussions and many round table gatherings were held on important topics. The convention devoted a considerable amount of time to arts and crafts and mural painting.

Various collections were especially thrown open to the visitors. A collection at the Smithsonian Institution, of work done by American artists during the war and on war subjects was very interesting. At this institution there was also a collection of drawings exhibited by the American Institution of Architects and in that exhibition Messrs. J. H. and Allan McDonald of Omaha were represented by the drawing that they had submitted in the state house competition.

On Thursday evening the convention were special guests of the division of prints in the Library of Congress, where they viewed a collection of Whistleriana recently presented to the Library of Congress by Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Pennell, famous sketcher. Mr. and Mrs. Pennell were present at the reception and added a great deal to the interest of the occasion. Considerable interest was manifested in the western office at Lincoln and the directors have decided to continue that office here and have added to our territory Washington and Oregon, so that all of the territory west of the Missouri, except California and Texas is now included in this territory.

A strong movement is being made to hold the next convention at St. Louis. The directors considered the matter very carefully and finally entrusted the next meeting place to the executive committee. The president of the association is Mr. Robert De Frost, president of the Metropolitan Museum in New York. Mr. Charles L. Hutchinson, president of the Chicago Art Institute, is first vice-president, and Miss Lella Meehlin is secretary.

Professor Grumann represented the University of Nebraska and was in charge of the western office of the American Federation of Art.

The streets. The merry-makers did a snake dance down R street to Sixteenth and then over to O where several of the confectionery stores have "hand-outs" of punch and cigars. All traffic was blocked for nearly an hour while the snake dance continued. Every theatre in town was visited.

This event in years past has been a source of constant worry to street car conductors and confectionery store proprietors. This year it was left totally in the hands of the students and was conducted in as orderly fashion as possible.

After the parade the "shirt-tailers" proceeded to the drill campus where a bon-fire was built and about twenty "student life" sections of the Cornhusker were thrown in as a protest of the student body against its libelous articles and questionable pictures.

FARMERS ASK FOR HELP OF AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE

They Want Assistance in Designing Modern Homesteads—Chore Reduction Their Object.

Scores of Nebraska farmers are asking the state college of agriculture to assist them design modern farmsteads, their intention being to construct permanent farm plants, instead of moving to town. More than 100 special plans have been made by the college's extensions service for men who wish to build up a lasting farmstead, and an average of one call a week is received for the regular stock plans carried by the college.

In many instances farmers ask for farmstead plans providing for two houses as they desire to eventually turn over the active management of the place to a son and retire to a modern home on the farm. In fact so many calls of this kind have been received that some of the college men believe there is now a definite sentiment among farmers to stay on the farm after they quit work.

In the designing of farmstead plans which include all building and their location the college emphasizes modern equipment and economy of labor in doing chores. In the location of the different buildings, most farmers are interested first of all in reducing their chores.

Reduce Chores.

"Farmers consider chores the dead end of the day's work," says I. D. Wood, extension engineer. "They are more interested in arranging buildings so as to reduce the chores than they are in the economy of the buildings. A good many consider chores of no profit; they are something that have to be done, and the farmers want them done as easily and quickly as possible."

In order to obtain ideas on reducing the labor of chores the extension service sent out a man with a pedometer to tag farmers around. In one instance he found a farmer walking a mile a day farther than necessary in doing his chores. This meant an extra 365 miles of walking a year, or more than 10,000 miles in thirty years.

The college, in making farmstead plans, attempts to place the buildings according to the order of doing the chores. For instance, if the farmer feeds his horses the first thing in the morning the barn should be the first reached on his rounds. If he feeds the hogs next the hog house should follow the barn. The buildings are arranged around a rectangle so the farmer will be back near the house at breakfast time, and there is no retracing nor crossing of paths.

UNIVERSITY TO CLOSE ON DECORATION DAY

The University announces that all offices and class rooms will be closed on Decoration day with the exception that examinations will be held for those students, who recte at 8 o'clock and at 1 o'clock. The major portion of the students have their classes at other hours. It was found to be absolutely impossible to arrange a working schedule of examinations leaving Decoration day absolutely free without postponing commencement one day.

Hereafter the schedule committee will endeavor to arrange such a schedule that every activity of the University can be closed on Decoration day.

English 1 and 2.

Examinations for Mr. Forward's sections will be held Saturday at 1:15 in M. E. 206.

Above is the composer and authors of the ten musical numbers which featured the Kosmet Klub's production, "The Most Prime Minister." Howard C. Adamson, '24, and Kathleen Doyle Hadigan, '10, wrote the lyrics, and Wilbur C. Chenoweth, one of Lincoln's most promising young musicians composed the beautiful melodies which have been said to surpass anything of their kind in previous productions.

Every one of the ten musical numbers of the play were well received, and two or three scored a tremendous success. The numbers "Kaloa" and "Its Your Wonderful Smile" have been published and are on sale at Walts, Ross P. Curtice, and Crancers. The sale of these songs have far surpassed all expectations, and it is very probable that they will be old to one of the leading publishers of the country in the near future.

Following is a list of the songs, in the order in which they were rendered in "The Most Prime Minister":

ACT 1.

1. Keep Your Eye on the Ball.
2. They all Fall for Me.
3. My Protector.
4. Kaloa—South Sea Isle.

ACT 2.

1. Maid of the Southern Isle.
2. Its Your Wonderful Smile.
3. Loyalty.

ACT 3.

1. Welcome to the Sultan of Kaloa.
2. Could You Know.
3. Finale.

REV. DEAN R. LELAND WILL REMAIN IN LINCOLN

Rev. Dean R. Leland, student pastor of the Presbyterian church at the University of Nebraska, has decided not to accept the offer of a similar position with much higher salary at the University of Pennsylvania.

Dr. Leland returned Thursday morning from Winona lake, Wis., where he has been attending the general assembly of the Presbyterian church. While there he consulted with the members of the general board of education, under which his work in Nebraska is conducted. It was the opinion of Dr. Leland and his advisers that it would be doubtful wisdom for him to leave a work where he had established close relations with student and church life.

In considering the two positions Dr. Leland found striking contrasts. In so large a city as Philadelphia, the intimate contact would be lost in personal work with students. The close relations with the church in a city like Lincoln was also a deciding factor with Dr. Leland.

JUNIOR-ALUMNI BASEBALL GAME IS POSTPONED

The junior-alumni baseball game at the W. A. A. picnic was called on account of darkness with a score of 9-9. The juniors were at bat and were knocking hard, when the umpire, Miss Louise Pound, called a stop. The alumni team took the lead and at the beginning of the third inning the score was 9-2. The juniors picked up and tied in the semi-darkness, and were playing good ball. Ruby Damme who was filling out on the alumni team was the only slugger in the game who made a home run.

ARTHUR HACKETT TO BE COMMENCEMENT SINGER

Arthur Hackett, the noted tenor, will be the commencement day singer. The University has brought Mr. Hackett to Lincoln and he will sing at 8 o'clock Sunday evening, June 5, and Monday morning at 10 o'clock. There will be no admission fee at either of these recitals.

DR. NEWBOLD TO SPEAK TO HONORARY SOCIETIES

Address to Be Given Before Members of Sigma Xi and Phi Beta Kappa.

Dr. William Romaine Newbold of the University of Pennsylvania, decipherer of a newly discovered Roger Bacon manuscript and a lecturer of much prominence, will give the Phi Beta Kappa and Sigma Xi lectures at the University of Nebraska, Friday and Saturday, May 27 and 28, at the Temple theatre at 8 p. m.

The discoveries of Dr. Newbold have the highest significance, and in his two lectures he will tell many interesting and instructive points in connection with his findings. The first lecture will be on the "History of the Cipher," illustrated with about twenty slides. The second will have to do with the discoveries in astronomy and biology which are recorded in the Bacon manuscript and will be illustrated with a large number of slides in color.

Interesting to note, in connection with Prof. W. R. Newbold, is the fact that the University of Nebraska library contains a special library gathered by Professor Newbold. This is a collection of philosophical classics numbering about 150 volumes. It is largely the first or early editions and includes works of Aristotle, Bruno, Descartes and others.

AMERICAN LEGION PLANS MEMORIAL DAY ACTIVITIES

The executive committee of Lincoln Post, No. 3, the American Legion, met Wednesday evening at the office of Commander Fawell.

Among other matters of business considered by the committee was the program for Memorial day and the part to be taken by the American Legion. It was proposed by several members to have airplanes fly over the cemetery and drop flowers upon the graves of veterans as a part of the day's ceremonies. In view of the settled policy of the Legion not to take the initiative in Memorial day exercises but to follow and co-operate with the G. A. R. the proposal was negatived.

It was considered by the committee that to drop flowers from airplanes as proposed would be a departure from the program arranged by the G. A. R. and an encroachment upon the right of Civil war veterans to determine the nature and character of exercises to be held on the day established and preserved by them as Memorial day.

It was voted by the committee to use whatever funds were necessary to insure the success of the Pershing banquet on June 3, tickets for which are being reserved by letters and telegrams from ex-service men in every part of the state.

Any student in the University is eligible to try for the prize offered. The script must be submitted to the Kosmet Klub before November 15, 1921.

"Schiss" will go to Hastings early next week and get on the job of arranging a schedule of summer games to be staged on a diamond laid out at a new amusement park in the metropolis of Adams county.

Schissler's American Legions will operate strictly as an amateur aggregation, yet he has lined up a roster of players possessing sufficient talent to make a showing against the strongest ball teams in the state. He has arranged to procure employment for his Legion players with several Hastings business men, and he announced today that he will have Ernest Hubka, Earl Carr, Joe Pizer, Peterson and Hollingsworth, all well known in baseball circles at the University of Nebraska on his Hastings team.
