SUBSCRIBE FOR THE DAILY

"Subscribe for the Daily Nebraskan, TODAY!" This is the slogan which is being hurled through the air in every direction, which permeates even the remotest corner of the campus in a call to loyal sons and daughters of Nebraska to show some of the old time "pep." Energetic girls are canvassing the students for subscriptions in an effort to win the prizes that the business staff of the paper have offered. Last night in the regular Monday night business meetings of the fraternal and sororities, many of the organizations voted to support the paper 100 per cent. Later in the week a complete list of all organizations so backing the Rag will be published.

The loyal support of every Cornhusker is what makes the University of Nebraska, and this year the stimulation to do things for our Alma Mater is greater than it has been for some time. The successful athletic campaign that has just been completed is a sample of what Nebraskans can do and will do. The important thing now is for every student registered in the university to boost all worthy undertakings, to put away the hammer and push ahead with the rest.

This year the price of the paper has been lowered 25 cents. The paper will be a twenty inch, six-column paper and contain more news than last semester. Special extra-page papers are to be issued from time to time. Sunday feature papers are to be printed that will make the paper better this semester than ever before. Show that you are real Cornhuskers and subscribe for the Daily Nebraskan today.

THE FIRST DAY.

The day we have been waiting so long for has come and gone. The grind of the classroom has already begun. Assignments have been made, lectures given, and already the professors have begun to estimate the mental capabilities of the students in their classes. Today the class-rooms will not seem so hot, nor the hours so long, because we are beginning to be acclimated.

Now is the time to work! The first six weeks are the most important in the year. If a student gets off on the right foot and gets the real spirit of Nebraska, the year will be a pleasurable one. Lets work hard now and rest on our oars later in the year.

THE "LAW" IDEA.

For years it has been an acknowledged fact that the law college has the best spirit of any college at Nebraska. Do you know why this is so? From the first day a student enters that college the idea of Nebraska is drilled into students. Factional things are looked upon with disfavor, and any movement that will better the school is fostered. When the spirit of the Laws, that of unselfish fellowship toward all associations, is caught by the other colleges, Nebraska will become the most powerful university in the middle west.

Say "Hello."

Lots of first year men and women are mighty lonely right now. Many of them are away from home for the first time, and are working and living under conditions that are new and unusual. Some of them have only a pal or two with them and it is impossible for them to be together all the time. These people pass to and fro over the campus wanting to make friends but not knowing how. Sophomores, Juniors, Seniors—make it easy for them. Say "hello" to them and they'll get the habit. Last year Nebraska had a "hello" day, when everyone spoke to everyone else. Why confine it to one day? If the freshmen get the idea, they'll soon make friends with their classmates and their days will be happier than they are now.

THE ATHLETIC TICKETS.

Season tickets may still be obtained at the students activities offices. Today many students took advantage of the opportunity to obtain these tickets and the sale is nearing eighteen hundred. Two hundred more tickets will put $250 in the pockets of approximately eighteen hundred purchasers of tickets. Lets get the 2,000 sold before the committee closes the sale of tickets.

Here's what it means: twenty-seven athletic contests for $7.50 if we get the 2,000, a $2.00 tennis membership, and the satisfaction of having backed Nebraska and Nebraska athletics.

THE CAMPUS HOUNDS

Some folks may know and some may not,
That part of our great school of thought
Are campus hounds that sport and play
About the grounds day after day.

In summer time they disappear
Until the autumn opening here.
When the students gather, then
They come upon the scene again.

Many times I've laughed to see
Them do their antics filled with glee
To watch them jump and yelp and race
All over the green campus space.

I've envied these same hounds oft-times,
And ridiculed them in my rhymes.
How carelessly they rove about
Where we tread filled with fear and doubt!

It seems, there's something in their ways
That constantly speaks up and says:
"We have solved life, the riddle great
And need not trouble our good pate."

"That's why we can afford to run
And tear about in purest fun;
And nothing in this world can chase
The smile from our complacent face."

LINES

Smiles.

A smile ha sdepths that reach beneath
The surface of the roughest,
Tat pierce the heart and bring returns
From those whose lives are toughest,
From those who otherwise would live
To hate and never to Forgive.

A smile, the wrinkling of the brow
A twinkle in the glimmers,
A happy front that knows just how,
And All the world just simmers
With happiness and joy and each
Without a smile no one could reach.

A smile, denoting that a friend
Is speaking to his brother,
No words are needed, in the end
Smiles become one another
And make "just living" worth one's while
To smile and help make others smile.

"Scientists say that trees contribute the heat of the atmosphere.
"That's so. A birch has warmed me many a time."
