THE DAIRY HABIT.

Many newspapers print columns under headings, "In Years Gone By" or "A Year Ago Today" which are devoted to items quoted from newspapers of earlier years. These items are always interesting, and it often makes one smile to recall the incidents mentioned. How many of us there are that, upon reading such a column, sit down and indulge in retrospection. Our minds dwell fondly on the few shreds of remembrance that we cherish.

Since we enjoy these columns so much and find it pleasant to live over "ye good old days," why not develop the diary habit and keep trace of occurrences for yourself? Begin by writing just a few lines a day and the daily entrances will soon grow until you find yourself recording not only events of interest, but your thoughts and reactions. After a year you will have a little volume that nothing could induce you to part with. It will grow infinitely more precious as the years pass for, while it may not be much of a work of art, it is very personal and sure to be treasured.

There is another advantage gained by the habit besides the intrinsic value of the diary itself. You may not notice it, but it is a fact nevertheless, that it promotes ease in expression. The practice of expressing yourself in your diary makes it easier to express yourself to others.

There is everything to gain and nothing to lose so develop the habit and write your own life history.

PATRONIZE RAG ADVERTISERS.

To the students at Nebraska the advertisements in the Daily Nebraskan serve as a guide to the reliable shopping places in Lincoln. It is reasonable that the business houses that cater to our students advertise in this publication. Therefore, these stores seeking the patronage of Nebraskans will do their best to keep patrons once they begin purchasing goods.

Our advertisements support this paper. The subscription charge does not pay for the printing. The Rag is essentially an affair of the student body. It deserves the active support of all undergraduates. There is no more effective way in which this support may be given than by investigating the advertisements we publish.

We offer a safeguard to Nebraskans. The business manager of the paper sends its representatives to solicit business only from reputable firms. Preference is given stores which deal in articles of particular interest to college men. Questionable advertising is not considered.

All Nebraska men and women are urged to watch the daily announcements we print. In the first place, the business men of Lincoln are interested in securing their business—they have made the first overture—they have advertised where they were sure it would be read. In the second place, effective support is given your college paper by doing so.

DEPARTMENT RECEIVES BUSINESS LITERATURE

The correct economic literature of the leading banks of New York city are being received regular by the department of geography. These reports constitute value in summaries of the present business situation in the United States. Any university student interested in reading them will find them in the geography reading room, Nebraska hall, 201.

"Bizad" Caps.

"Bizad" caps may be secured at the men's department of Miller & Paine's. Business administration students are requested to secure caps in time for Saturday's game, where a special section will be reserved for them.

The Exhaust

'Tis a kind giver that expects no return.

Putting one over on your professors may not be as easy as it might appear. One student told his professor that he always spent an hour and ten minutes on his lesson. Later, he very unfortunately boasted that he spent the hour in class and ten minutes in preparation. All might have been well if his professor hadn't overheard this. Shakespeare reminds us that "The fool doth think he is wise, but the wise man knows himself to be a fool."

Recent reports from the weather bureau indicates disturbances not unlike earthquakes in this vicinity. In all probability it was only a truck load of pledge buttons enroute to the Sig Alph house.

Freshman Have You?

One set excuses. These will come in handy after missing your eight o'clocks.
One pair dice. For social and financial use.

One line, extra heavy for use on chaperones.

One line, your very best for use on girls at the dances at the Lincoln.

A Young Man's Taste in Clothes

GOOD taste in clothes is no longer considered an affectation—rather it is regarded as a proper appreciation of the value of good dress as a personality asset. For this reason so many of the better dressed young men are wearing Stratford Clothes. Be guided by Stratford styles.

It pays to buy the best.
