LARGE NUMBERS OUT

FOR FROSH PRACTICE Between sixty and seventy-five men turned out for the freshman basketball squad at the first practice, which was held Monday evening at seven o'clock in the armory. The squad is spent the first practice in teaching the candidates for the yearly crew a few of the fundamentals of the cage game. The prospects for a fast team are exceedingly bright, due to the large number out for the yearling

First year squad will practice in the armory on Monday and Wednesday at seven o'clock, and on Tuesday and Thursday at 3:30. The time for practce on Friday has not been decided yet. All those who have not turned out yet and wish to join the squad should report at one of the practice

Due to the large number of promising athletes out fo rthe first year cage crew, a fast team is expected. A number of former high school stars were out for practice yesterday and exceedingly keen competition will undoubtedly develop among the candidates. Coach Pickett was surprised at the large number of men out and is optimistic over the outlook.

Inside Information About the Dormitories And Their Occupants

"Dormitories!" "Are those good ooking houses dormitories-and are those dormitory girls?"

The speaker was a visitor at the University of Nebraska. The buildings in question were the row of houses on the north side of R street; and the girls were a group of girls who had just come from one of the

"Certainly, those are 'dorms' and those are girls from the different houses" was the response of a Nebraska girl to whom she was speaking. Have you no dormitories at your school?"

"No, we haven't" responded the visitor, "but do tell me about them, I am interested." "Perhaps you would like to go thru one of them and I can talk as we inspect, how will that be?" "Delightful!" exclaimed the other, so they started toward one of the cot-

They were met at the door by the chaperon who gladly piloted them about the house.

"You see," said the Nebraska girl, they are not very old. The system was not instituted until last year, so this is the second year for the sys tem and it has proved highly success-

"Have you organized as a house, or does the matron have full control?" the visitor asked.

"We are organized and each member of the house is as much responsible for the success of the dormitory system as the chaperon or the proctor, for we are self governing,

"At the beginning of each semester we elect a proctor, a vice president for each floor and a house committee to take care of enforcing the rules that the girls have made. It's very interesting to hear the vice president of a floor try to get the girls to study at the beginning of study hour. She reminds one of a mother hen trying to keep the duckling from swimming. She just doesn't. However each girl knows what she is here for, and applies herself accordingly; if she does happen to be mistaken she discovers her mistake by the time mid-semesters are over.

"Oh, it's a lot like home in a good many ways, the girls know each other жининикоминикоминикомиником well and form warm friendships that last thru the years as well as learn to think of others before themselves. "It's wonderful training, and I don t believe there is a girl here who regrets her life in the dormitory. "Dates? Oh yes, every Friday and Saturday night are date nights for everybody. Until 12:30, too. Of couse we are only allowed to have our men friends in the house until 10:30 on any night but the other nights we get to go to parties and we have the extra two hours in which to enjoy ourselves and to get home in proper time.

"Sometimes when the men appear to be forgetting the 10:30 hour; the freshmen take it upon their unsophisticated shoulders to set the alarm clocks of the household all at once as a gentle hint or a mild warning whichever their young minds might determine it to be.

"Compared to the way some fathers give hints for the 'closing hour' of date nights the freshmen are rather mild. Oh yes; it's just like home.

"Socially, the dormitories are active on the campus. We give our house parties and some very clever ones too. The girls from the cottages are very earnest workers in the varnot be highest in price. Cerf's change ious activities of school life and they are successful in whatever they at-orchestra of its own this year. This tempt, ne of the dorms, has an is also used for some of the social affairs of the uni.

"We are proud of our 'dorm' on the Nebraska campus-every one of us." "You have something to be proud under the direction of Coach John of; just see these lovely rooms," re-Pickett, an "N" man. Coach Pickett sponded the visitor. "I'm going home and discuss the problem of dormitories with our dean of women. Do girls ranking in all classes of the university, room here or and just freshmen takes?"

"Chiefly freshmen," was the response. "A few upper classmen to serve as models you know, ahem." This was said with a sly smile at a freshman who stood near by.

The two girls had left the house and were sauntering to the hotel. "How do you distinguish your houses?" asked the visitor with a backward look at the cottages.

But we hope to have a real name for each house some day. "Whenever the executives of the school see fit to bestow upon each National Musical Sorority Entertains Large Audience Wednesday Evening.

A musical which was of special inerest to all music lovers was the evening musical given by Deita Ome cron on Wednesday evening at Ellen Smith hall. The program rendered by the members of the national musical sorority was excellent in its artistic beauty, and each selection revealed good talent. The program comsisted of well-known and much-loved compositions:

Songs My Mother Taught Me, Dvoak; Berceuse from Joslyn, Godard-Rae Challice Lehnhaff.

"We call them cottage A, B, C, etc. With Verdue Glad from Creaton, Hayden; Two Neapolitan Folk Songs. O, Bene Antico, Nutile; Lo Teleone, Denza; Recitative and Ama, Ah, For'se Lui, Verdi-Frances Gettys. domain a dignified name we will be Pastoral with variations, Mozart; Polonaise Op. 26, No. 1, Chopin-Eliza beth Scribner.

Lullaby, Scott; Through the Falterng Dusk, Kramer; Love is the Wind, McFayden-Doris Cole Clapp.

Pleurey Mes Yeur from "Le Cid" Massenet; Only to Thee, Saint Saens; To the Sun, Curran-Lenore Burkett. Duet from "Lakme," Delibes-Miss Burkett and Mrs. Clapp.

Accompanists-Mrs. Carrie B. Raymond, Miss Jane Babcock, Miss Lillian Eiche, cello; Mr. J. D. Sourber.

After the program a reception was held in the hall. The patrons were Miss Louise Pound, Chancellor and Mrs. Samuel Avery, Prof. and Mrs. Paul H. Grumman, Prof. and Mrs. Sidney Silber, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wheatley. The program is the first to be given by Delta Omicron which has just established its chapter at Nebraska, but it is a pleasant indication of the interesting work of the sorority in the future.
