ALUMNI NOTES

Mr. Allen Weaver, who received his B. S. in electrical engineering in 1921, is now in the employ of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., in the department of development and research. Mr. Weaver has just completed an eighteen-week observation course conducted by the company for about forty-five recent engineering graduates. In this course an attempt is made to give the young man recently graduated from college a bird's-eye view of the telephone business. Particularly from the point of view of development. Mr. Weaver is the only Nebraska representative who took the course. Practically all of the leading institutions received representation including Harvard, Cornell, Princeton, Penn State, University of Pennsylvania and others in the east, and University of Kansas, Kansas State Agricultural school and Nebraska in the west.

Dean O. J. Ferguson of the college of engineering at Nebraska has received a letter from the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., which conveys the fact that Mr. Weaver ranked well among the first men out of a group of forty-two. The young men were rated under five general propositions, namely, physical qualities, personal qualities, mental qualities, ability to direct the work of others, and general value to the company, by nine engineers under whose direction they have been given instruction.

Herbert R. Grummann, son of Professor Paul H. Grummann of the school of fine arts, has arrived in Lincoln and will spend the holidays with his parents. For the past two years, Mr. Grummann has been in the employ of the Carnegie Institution of Washington and has been engaged in taking the magnetic readings of the globe. In his cruise, he encircled the southern hemisphere and spent a year in the Pacific ocean. Previously he was connected with the Carnegie institution of Washington, a member of the staff of the United States geodetic and coast survey, which work he gave up in order to enter the service. During the war, he served in the coast defenses as executive officer of the "Minc Planter". Mr. Grummann will remain in Lincoln until the end of January.

The writer states "Mr. Weaver's scholarship and open-heartedness have made many friends for him. He has been assigned to work under Mr. R. D. Parker, of the Equipment Development Division, who directs the telegraph phases of the American Telephone and Telegraph company. Mr. Weaver's particular job is in connection with high frequency carrier currents and multiplex telegraphy. He seems to be much pleased with his assignment and is starting very promisingly in his new job."

Mr. Weaver's home is at Columbus, Nebraska.

A cage containing four alligators, owned by K. W. Gillespie, which has been stored in the basement of Bessey hall for the winter has been attracting considerable attention. The alligators range in size from twenty-two to forty-six inches in length, and Dr. Wolcott of the department of zoology estimates their age at about six years, although such an estimate is quite conservative when contrasted with the beliefs held by southern negroes of the region from which these animals were secured.

Although the alligators appear to have no intelligence, they seem to recognize people to whom they are accustomed and will sometimes make a peculiar noise or sort of bark when they recognize anyone. They are very regular in their habits and do not partake of any food from the latter part of August until the first of the following June. Beginning with the first of June, they are fed raw beef once in ten days to two weeks. They do not chew the food but slime it over and swallow it very slowly. Alligators are not ferocious, but will quickly resent any attack made.

PROF. WHYMAN SECURES MASTER'S DEGREE HERE

Prof. L. O. Whyman, '20, has passed his examination for the degree of master of arts. Mr. Whyman was graduated from the Enid, Okla., high school and received his bachelor of arts degree from the University of Nebraska in 1920. He has been employed as field geologist at Tulsa and the Kanoka Petroleum company. Following work with these companies he joined the service of the United States geological survey to aid in the preparation of bulletin 686, relative to the revaluation of the petroleum lands owned by the Osage nations. He was then employed by an oil company at Billings, Mont.

Prof. Wyman served in the United States army in France during the war for a year and upon his return was appointed assistant in the department of geology and geography where he served two years, until his retirement the first of the year from the faculty roll of the University of Nebraska in order to assume duties with offices at Tulsa. Prof. Wyman is a member of Alpha Sigma Phi fraternity.

JOURNALISM FRAT TO HOLD CONTEST

 probably from the English department of the University of Nebraska, will be appointed to supervise the contest at the University of Nebraska. They will act as a committee in selecting local judges and will forward the winning editorial, by special delivery, to the fraternity's contest committee, care of P. C. Pack, 6415 Greenview Ave., Chicago, Ill. This editorial will, then automatically identify the winner of a certificate of merit and will represent that particular institution in the intercollegiate contest.

Contest Rules.
 Contest will open December 3, 1921, and will close February 15, 1922, at midnight.
 Editorials submitted may not exceed 500 words.

Type, or write legibly on one side of sheet only.
 Write an assumed name in upper left corner of each sheet.
 On the face of an envelope, write this assumed name, enclosing a sheet of paper on which is written your own name, age, home city, class and local address and telephone number, and seal envelope, pinning or clipping it to your editorial.
 The local committee will number each editorial, upon receipt, as an additional check on the identity of its author.
