

LAWYERS STRONG IN HUSKER ATHLETICS

Every Sport Has Representatives of Law College Among Its Members.

In athletic sports the law college is one of the best represented colleges on the campus. The laws have representatives in the football, basketball, track, baseball, wrestling and tennis teams.

Football, the major university sport, finds more law students enrolled in its ranks than all the other colleges put together. Some of the bright stars on the Cornhusker eleven this fall that are representatives of the law college are: Wright, Preston, Captain-elect Hartley, Lewellen, Addison, Schoepfel, Monte Munn, Berquist, Wenkeland, Woodward, Farley Young, who directed the freshman pigskin team is graduating from the law college this year. The laws had an undefeated football team which was coached by John Pickett, senior law, who is also freshmen basketball coach and served as baseball coach for the yearlings last season.

The law college has contributed its share of stars to the basketball squad during the years of its existence at Nebraska. This year the law college quintet is distinguishing themselves by going into the finals in the inter-college series which is being played this afternoon in the armory. The squad is composed of Davis, MacDonald, Wright, Preston, Anderson, Dunlap, Wyncoop and several others. In the initial round of the tournament the lawyers walked on the engineers by a big score and handed the arts and science quintet a defeat in the semi-finals. Of this year's varsity squad, Spear, Lewellen and Wyncoop are making the best showing.

Coach Schulte has a warm place in his heart for the law school on account of the number of men it has given him. Wright is probably the best known man from the law college in the cinder path sport. "Ortie" is known throughout the country for his ability as a hurdler and sprinter and has brought a great deal of honor to himself, the law college and the university on account of his various performances. McCarthy is another law who is considered one of the fastest sprinters in the university. Schoepfel made a name to himself last spring by his pavelin throwing. Lewellen is an exceptionally good hurdler and holds several high school records in this sport. Stevens is an exceptionally fast man in the short dashes and captured the 100 yard dash in the inter-college meet last spring. Monte Munn is one of the best shot putters in school. There is a large amount of material in the freshman law class that will be eligible for competition this year and are sure to strengthen the team. There are several other men who have gained recognition in track and are certain of helping to make Nebraska's track team one of the greatest in the country.

Baseball finds a large number of lawyers out. Of last year's nine, Anderson, catcher; McCrory, Thomson, and Schoepfel, outfielders and Pizer at second base are all enrolled in the law college. "Bill" McCrory was elected this fall to captain the team next spring. There are several men in the freshmen law class who were ineligible to take part in varsity athletics last spring who intend to get out for the diamond sport as soon as the first call is issued in the spring. John Pickett, star pitcher and captain of the 1915 Cornhusker aggregation is now coaching the Fresh baseball nine.

several other minor university sports have enough laws enrolled to keep up the spirit and let the academy students know who the laws are. Greg McFide is one of the best racquet welders in the university. Munn is the champion heavyweight boxer of the university and has as yet not had much competition for his title.

NEBRASKA REPRESENTED AT CHICAGO MEETING

At the meeting of the association of American law school held recently in Chicago Professor G. H. Robinson was Nebraska's representative. Dean Seavey was a committee chairman, but was unable to attend on account of the state bar association meeting in Omaha.

The members of the association passed a resolution making it necessary for all schools in the organization to require two years of academic work as a preparation for the law course. The requirement is to go into effect in 1925. Nebraska authorities had anticipated this move and had already decided on the same plan to begin in September of 1922.

PROF. FOSTER SPEAKS TO PHARMACY STUDENTS

Professor George N. Foster just finished a series of lectures concerning the legal side of their business to the students of pharmacy. The series consisted of six lectures, one of which was given each week. The course followed somewhat the work on pharmaceutical jurisprudence by Henry Wiley. It touched on the leading federal and state regulations as to misbranding, adulteration, and the general drug laws.

BARRISTER FACULTY FROM MANY STATES

on the teaching staff of the college ever since, having held the chair of professor of law since 1899. He now instructs in the contractual subjects.

Professor Robbins is a writer. During the period when the American Law Register, the American Law Review and the Central Law Journal flourished he was a regular contributor to them. He has contributed to many encyclopedias, a notable example of his work being the section on "New Trial" in "Cyclopedia of Law and Procedure" familiarly known to lawyers as "Cys."

John J. Ledwith.

Professor John J. Ledwith of Lincoln, entered the university in 1887 as a self supporting student, was graduated therefrom with a degree of B.S.C. and entered the law college from which he was graduated in 1903. He immediately affiliated with the college of law as instructor and has ever since been connected with the school either in the capacity of instructor or professor. Outside the law school Mr. Ledwith enjoys an active practice and large clientage. He has been on the state bar commission for some ten years.

G. H. Robinson.

Professor G. H. Robinson, received his A. B. in 1905 and his LL. B. in 1909 from Harvard. In 1915 he re-entered as a student in jurisprudence with Roscoe Pound, receiving the degree of S. J. D. in 1916. He practiced law in Boston a short time after which he removed to New York City where he was admitted to the State and United States Courts. His practice in New York City chiefly concerned admiralty and transportation matters.

Mr. Robinson gave up practice to become professor of law in the University of Missouri where he was from 1916 to 1919. The last of these years he was absent on leave, being law enforcement officer of Camp Grant, Rockford, Ill., with rank of captain and judge advocate, which rank he now holds in the reserve army.

In 1919 Mr. Robinson became professor of law in the University of California whence he came to Nebraska last fall to take up the instruction of criminal law, equity, and the various phases of corporation law.

Professor Ralph P. Wilson was graduated from Nebraska in 1911 and received his LL. B. in 1913.

In 1917 he entered the teaching staff of the college of law which position he has since held except for a leave of absence when he served in the army.

He was elected county judge of Lancaster county in which capacity he served until called into military service in 1917. After nine months service, seven of them overseas, he was discharged in Feb. 188, 1919 at which time he entered the employ of the state as assistant attorney general. At present he practices as a member of the firm of Wilson, Burkett, Brown and Wilson.

H. H. Foster.

Henry H. Foster, in 1895 entered Cornell University where he specialized in education and psychology, graduating with a degree of A. B. in 1899. In 1904 he entered the Harvard law school from which institution he was graduated in 1908.

Mr. Foster was in active practice for two years in Peoria, Ill. On the establishment of the law school at the University of Oklahoma Mr. Foster was offered a professorship of law which position he accepted and held until 1920 when he came to Nebraska with Dean Seavey with whom he had been associated in Oklahoma.

Mr. Foster is instructor in the property courses and in constitutional law.
Doane Kiechel.

At the time of taking charge of the law school Dean Seavey instituted a novation in the matter of attendance taking. Under it the taking of attendance is entirely handled by a departmental secretary giving the instructor the full time for instruction unhampereed by the necessity of taking rolls. Excuses and penalties for absence are entirely handled by the department rather than the individual instructors. The work of taking and recording the attendance as well as the rest of the clerical work of the college is handled by Doane F. Kiechel of Johnson, a senior in the law college. Kiechel is a member of Phi Alpha Delta and is president of the Squires, the honorary organization of the senior law class. During his two years work in the college of arts and sciences, Kiechel was a contributor of numerous verse to the Awgwan, and last year was on the cast of the junior class play.

Marcus L. Poteet.

Marcus L. Poteet, who is secretary of the law school alumni and general representative of the school in its dealings with the other colleges and departments of the University is a senior in the college of law. He first enrolled in the University as a freshman in the arts college in 1912 and after three years work in that college and one year of law work was graduated in 1916 with the degree of A. B. Engaging in business and political matters and serving in the United States army during the interim between his graduation and his re-entry into the law college last year.

Poteet is a member of Phi Alpha Delta, Silver Lynx, Sigma Delta Chi Kosmet Klub, Innocents (active both in '16 and in '22.) He was assistant business manager of the 1914 Awgwan and business manager of the 1915 Cornhusker and the 1916 Daily Nebraskan.

Poteet saw two years service in the world war as first lieutenant in the 166th infantry, Rainbow division. He was in four major battles.
