ORPHEUM.

The farewell bill at the Orpheum this week is headed by Eddie Foy and the Younger Foy's in "The Foy Fun Revue." The act is snappy, full of the comedy which has made Eddie Foy the world's most popular musical star. Johnnie Muldoon, Pearl Franklin and Lew Rose have a sure fire song and dance act, with an elaborate set, novelty steps and attractive costumes. Blanch Sherwood and Brother with their "Aviating Antics" offer some very good trapeze work, including the time honored "iron-jaw act." Rodero and Marconi present a pleasing skit using piano-accordion and violin numbers interspersed with clever patter. Madam Niha, the Twentieth Century Venus, offers a very unusual and artistic series of poses with beautifully colored lantern slides. James C. Morton and Family return with a comedy travesty. Felix Patty offers Tarzan the educated Ape.

Bizad College Notes.

There has been a large increase in the enrollment of the College of Business Administration this year, despite the abnormal conditions of the state. The total registration will be something over 850 students, as compared with 732 for last year. The increase in numbers has necessitated the creation of more sections in certain courses, as well as the introduction of several new courses.

During the year the College held extension classes in Omaha and Lincoln. Professors Ivey and Cole had large classes in Omaha in their classes in salesmanship and accounting. These two courses are given in evening work at the University, together with a course in economics given by Professor Bullock. Various members of the Department gave lectures in different parts of Nebraska.

The work in accounting formerly carried on by Mr. Davis is now taken by Mr. George M. Darlington, a graduate of the class of 1921, and a business man of considerable experience. Mr. Darlington was married shortly after graduation to Miss Dortha Manners of University Place. Mr. Harry Pike, of the class of 1920, was appointed instructor in economics and accounting. Professor C. E. McNeill came to the University in September to take the place of Professor Kilborn, taking, however, the courses in railway transportation and a new course in municipal industries. Professor McNeill was for two years statistician to the New York Transit Commission, and for three years previously, he was a graduate student at Yale University.

The bureau of business research of the college of business administration has prepared copies of its second pamphlet "hat to read on Retailing" which is a part of its series of bibliographies. This work is a compilation of books and magazine articles especially valuable to the retail trade with a short analysis of the contents and description of the author. A third edition of this same series "What to read on Insurance" will be published in the near future. The bureau is now at work investigating the problems confronting the retail merchants of this state in cooperation with the federation of Nebraska retailers. The problems to be investigated were provided by the board of directors of that organization and investigations began at their request. The work is in charge of Dr. F. E. Wolfe, director of the bureau, and other members of the economics department.

A new and important department in the College of Business Administration has recently been made in the creation of a committee on business research, with Professor F. E. Wolfe as chairman. Professor Wolfe is a graduate of Johns Hopkins University, was formerly head of the economics department of Syracuse University, was in government service during the war, and for the past two years has been statistician to the United Typothetae of Chicago. The new committee or bureau of research expects to do the kind of work done by the Graduate School of Business Administration of Harvard University and other leading institutions. It was created at the request, among others, of the Federation of Nebraska Retailers, the Nebraska Credit Men's Association, and the Nebraska Manufacturers Association. It plans several extensive investigations of problems, which affect the retailer and the consuming public. Already two bulletins of the series on Bibliography have been published: "What to Read on Banking" and "What to Read on Retailing." These will be followed by a series of reports on retail merchandising in Nebraska. Professor Wolfe has charge of the course in statistics and insurance.

All of last year's instructors in the Department of Economics and Commerce are in the College this year, except Professor Kilborn, who has returned to Dartmouth. Professor Virtue, Professor Bullock, and Professor Cole had charge of the work in Economics and Commerce during the summer session of last year and will miss activities by becoming manager probably do so again this year. Professor Martin has enlarged his business of the Nebraska Material Co., but still gives a considerable part of his time to the College. Professor Ivey's new book, "Principles of Marketing" published by the Ronald Press has been adopted as a text in 28 colleges and universities in 18 states. Professor Kirshman has taken over the courses in money and banking, so that he now has charge of all the work in private finance. Professor Fullbrook received the degree of Ph. D. from Iowa State University in June, 1921. Mr. Conner received the degree of A. M. from the University of Nebraska last spring, and was married in November to Miss Luverna Polk of Lincoln. Mr. E. G. Davis is now instructor in accounting in Columbia University, working under Professor Kester. Deon LeRossignol spent part of the summer in New York as associate editor of the Weekly Review. His new book, "What is Socialism?", has lately been published by the Thomas Y. Crowell Company.

LECTURE ON PHILIPPINE ISLANDS GIVEN TONIGHT

An illustrated lecture on the Philippine Islands, the Philippine people and Philippines in general will be given in the Social Science Auditorium at eight o'clock this evening. The pictures which have just been received from Jaime C. de Veyra, the representative of the Philippines at Washington, will be the feature of the evening as they are official reproductions of the islands and their peoples.

The lecture is being given under the auspices of the University Philippine Club and explanations of the pictures will be made by members of that organization who are well acquainted with most of these views. The lantern slides were sent with a view to letting American people see the true state of education, public works, and natural resources in the Philippines and not the ideas easily obtained from cheap publications and political speeches.

No admission will be charged and University students, faculty and outsiders are welcome.

IMMER ACCEPTS NEW POSITION AT CHICAGO

John T. Zimmer, formerly connected with the university museum, has accepted a position as curator of birds in the Field Museum of Natural History at Chicago. In a letter to Dr. Wolcott, head of the department of zoology, he writes, "I expect to leave about the middle of March by way of New York and on reaching Peru make my way inland, establish a base camp and work for six months or more and then follow some branch of the Amazon down until I can get a steamer for New York via Para. This plan may have to be changed after I get on the ground, but in the main it is fairly certain. It is going to take some equipment however and I have spent a good bit of my time while here in getting things together and ordering new."

COMMERCIAL CLUB HOLDS BIG DINNER

A large crowd of members were present for the regular monthly dinner of the Commercial Club held last night at the Grand Hotel. Harry A. Adams presided and introduced Dean J. E. LeRossignol and "Bill" Day, Y. M. C. A. secretary.

A feature of the dinner was the first appearance of the "Bizad" the new orchestra for the business administration college.

A sketch of the activities and plans of the club was given by president Adams. "Bill" Day spoke of the value of the Y. M. C. A. to university students. He also urged more men to report for some form of school athletics.

MR. BROTHERS ADDS TO MUSEUM EXHIBITS

Mr. Edgar L. Brothers of Havelock has added to his collections already on exhibition in the Nebraska State Museum a set of choice obsidian and int arrow points, collected by Mr. Brothers on the Snake river in Idaho. On former occasions Mr. Brothers has built up a collection now on display in one of the cases on the fourth floor of the museum. This consists mostly of selected Indian relics, several hundred in number.
