OWNING THE VALLEY

The institutions of learning which are located in the Missouri Valley region and members of the Missouri Valley Conference have no doubt read with amusement the slogan now echoing out from Mount Oread, the home of the Jayhawk.

But we are forced to admit our error. A formidable array of championships annexed by the Kansas institution, with those held by other schools discreetly omitted, affords the proof of ownership.

You have all heard the old story of the man who took in too much territory. This is surely a parallel case. Our Jayhawk brethren evidently overlooked the fact that there are other states bordering their own commonwealth and that there are bigger rivers than the Kaw.

But if the Jayhawkers get any kick out of a slogan of this kind, far be it from us to complain. We are very happy here by ourselves and manage to win a football game now and then.

AFTER COLLEGE—WHAT?

Some students have their plans made for their future occupation or profession when they enter college. Many more decide this important question during the college years or at their close.

Men and women now-a-days are seeking more than a means of earning a living. They want also opportunity for service as well as daily contacts that make for growth.

Information as to how to become a good librarian may be obtained from the college library, the nearest public library, the state library commission, or by writing directly to the American Library Association, 78 East Washington Street, Chicago, Illinois.

Contemporary Opinion

FREAKS

Genius often seems to be closely allied to madness, especially on the campus. The individual whose cerebrillum is of particularly large and fine grain is often unbalanced along some other line; he becomes so engrossed with mind that he forgets matter.

Who has not ridiculed the loppytroussed, shambling one, with long, over-grown hair and double-lens glasses, or the imitation flapper, whose face is wrinkled with age, yet who prances around in bobbed hair and abbreviated skirts, kittenish, one admits, but also both-eaten by the years; or the one with a sagging skirt and run-down heels, or the one with no necktie and dust on his coat collar, or the one with locks falling around his face in lank strings, whose hat sits on his head like the lid on a sugar bowl, and who carries his books in a shoe-string shopping bag?

Nature is not responsible for freaks; the freak is a self-made creature. He, or she, is so immune to the opinions of others that he, or she, can stroll down the elite board walk promenade from the University Hall to the Auditorium, unswept, unlauded, and un-hung, and yet perfectly oblivious of the caustic comment which he, or she, excites.

One observes, however, that all geniuses are not freaks, and that Bohemianism is rather going out; the goggle-eyed, the beery, and the long-haired have given way to a more artistic form of genius, one more pleasant to look upon.

The Exhaust.

Some public-spirited person handed us a quasi-humorous news item. We print it as we found it—so don't blame us:

"A baker's dozen of the members of the University Union planned to have a steak roast last Thursday, since they were unable to indulge otherwise. The weather man failed them, so they turned the steak roast into an indoor picnic.

Rainy, puddly, sloppy weather. Air feels like a big wet feather. Sticky bots and muddy stockings. Make the Uni. simply stocking. Baseball practice all called off. No more motoring or golf.

By the way, the "Raggers" are all—or at least those who have done their duty for the last paper—walking around with their heads in the clouds. The reason is not a raise in the wage-scale, but the inexplicable appearance of three brand-new typewriters in the room where one is accustomed to finding boiler-factory models of the pre-Noah time.

Well, we are all back again—or at least half here—after our week of lay-off. And gosh but its a relief to have gone home to get our April allowance, because Dad always is so slow that we're broke before we get the glimmer of his gold.

Other Worlds Than Our Own.

University of Cincinnati—Indorsed by the Men's and Women's Panhellenic associations of the University, and fostered by the Y. M. C. A., last Sunday evening there was an interfraternity church service. "Fraternalism and Christianity" was the subject of the lecture.

University of California—On April 1, at the University of California, a Women's Field Day was held. Final matches of all interclass games were played. Basketball and interclass and intersorority tennis were held in the morning with canoeing in the afternoon.

Cornell College, Ia.—A committee of seven has been appointed by the board of Trustees of Cornell College to select a successor to President Chas. W. Flint, who has accepted the chancellorship of Syracuse University. Cornell's committee includes John E. Johnson, Waterloo, Iowa, chairman; W. C. Stuckslager, banker of Mount Vernon and Lisbon, Iowa, secretary; Prof. W. H. Norton, Mount Vernon; George C. Hunter, president Joint Stock Land Bank, Des Moines, Ia.; R. M. Gunn, farmer, Buckingham, Iowa.

Ohio University—Grant P. Ward, director of intermural athletics, was elected the first general chairman of the Western Conference Intramural Athletic Directors' Association at a meeting of representatives of seven of the Big Ten schools at Chicago recently. Ohio State's record of intramural sports is best, according to reports presented at the conference in Chicago, leading with 6115 participants in 17 sports. Michigan is second, Illinois third, and Minnesota fourth.

Columbia University—Plans are being completed for an Interfraternity Bridge Club tournament. Alumni will be allowed to play for the respective houses.

MCGILL University—Fair one at the wheel—How do you like our motor roads? He (dustily)—Best I ever tasted. Ohio University—A class in cheer leading is being conducted at Ohio State. A professor in Psychology is giving a series of lectures on "The Psychology of Cheer-leading." In his lecture he pointed out that three main principles for a cheer leader to follow are catching the attention, giving directions, and getting response. He suggested that an exemplifier be used in experimenting on various yell and methods of leading them, to determine the ones best adapted for different situations.

Northwestern University—The students of the School of Speech at Northwestern recently entertained at a most novel dance. A gipsy campfire, natural woodland scenes, wooded lanes, flanked by grass, trees and moss leading from the gipsy camp to rustic seats resembling logs in a forest.

University of Michigan—At a meeting of the athletic coaches here, plans for increasing interest in all branches of athletics were discussed. The matter of having four-year athletics was discussed and seemingly approved. It was thought that if, as freshmen, the men were permitted to come out for varsity athletics, interest would be increased.

NOT MANY TRY FOR PRIZE IN CONTEST

Competition in the manufacturers' contest announced recently in the Daily Nebraskan has not yet developed large proportions, as is shown by the fact that only about half a dozen students have applied to Professor DeBaufre, chairman of the Mechanical Engineering Department, who is running the contest.

Three prizes of twenty-five, fifteen and ten dollars respectively, are offered by a Nebraska manufacturer for the best suggestions for a new product to manufacture. The award will be made by a committee consisting of Prof. DeBaufre, Chairman of the Mechanical Engineering Department, Mr. Zumwinkle, Commissioner of the Nebraska Manufacturers' Association, and a representative of the manufacturer.

All students now registered in the University of Nebraska are eligible to enter the competition under the following conditions:

- (a) The suggestions must be turned in to Prof. DeBaufre, M. E. 203, before May 1st, 1922. (b) The suggestions must be in the form of a description of the proposed article to be manufactured, written on one side of 8 1/2 by 11 inch paper. All papers should be securely fastened together and to a sealed blank envelope containing the name of the student submitting the suggestion. These papers and envelope, holding the name of the student, are all to be placed within a 4 by 9 1/2 inch envelope, which is to be marked: "Suggestion for Article to be Manufactured by A." (c) More than one suggestion may
