DAVID WARFIELD TO APPEAR AT ORPHEUM

To Present David Belasco's "The Return of Peter Grimm"
Monday Night.

On Monday evening David Warfield and his supporting company under the direction of David Belasco, will appear at the Orpheum Theatre in Mr. Belasco's most notable play, "The Return of Peter Grimm." Playgoers need go back in their memories but a few seasons to recall the wide interest and discussion that attended the first production of this exquisite drama, which was acclaimed the finest achievement of Mr. Belasco as a playwright and producer and of Mr. Warfield as an actor.

Mr. Warfield's impersonation of Peter Grimm, who returns from the spiritual world to protect and to guide those whom he loved in this world, reaches to far greater heights than either his Von Barwig in "The Music Master," or his Simon Levi in "The Auctioneer." The role is one that demands, beyond the highest technical, a wealth of human understanding and spiritual insight. These attributes Mr. Warfield brings to his impersonation in such measure that his Peter Grimm is accounted by the foremost critics as among the greatest figures on the modern stage. And the play itself, far from being a mere background for a single character, is an absorbing, vital dramatic narrative that holds the interest of the auditor from beginning to end.

Surrounding Mr. Warfield is a company of the first order which includes in its membership Marie Bates, Miriam Doyle, Marie Rejhardt, Joseph Brennan, John Scinpolls, George Wallington, John F. Webber, Richard Dupont, William Boag and David Malcom.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Elley announces the birth of a daughter, Elizabeth Caswell, Dec. 3, 1921, at Philadelphia, Pa. Former Nebraskans now teaching at Oregon agricultural college at Corvallis, held their first get-together recently. The place cards for the dinner were miniature maps of Nebraska. At each place was a guest book of cream paper tied with a scarlet cord. In these books all present wrote their names and any comment they wished to make. The dinner was held in the private dining room of the home economics building, after which the evening was given over to informal talks on Nebraska's past present future. H. W. Coleman acted as toastmaster. Letters from home were read and each one present was called upon to tell anything and everything of the old uni. Miss Jessie Biles, '11, had charge of the dinner arrangements. Following is a list of former Nebraskans present: B. W. Rodenwold, '20, of the department of animal husbandry; R. B. Rutherford, '16, head coach and head of the physical education department; Mrs. R. B. Rutherford, R. E. Hager, ex-department of physical education; Mrs. R. E. Hager; G. W. Kable, ex drainage specialist, extension service, Mrs. G. W. Kable; Miss Helen Ler Davis, ex-faculty, head department of household art; Miss Mary Van Kirk, ex-faculty; Miss Jessie Biles, '11; H. N. his slides and explanations. The sanitary conditions of the country are far from modern, the public laundry, bath house, drinking fountain, garbage can, etc. being the streams that are so numerous. Much work has been done by these banana plantation owners to clean up the country about their ranches and change this wet area from the "death zone" to a productive country. Sanitary houses and villages have been constructed to replace the thatched roof shacks that were there.

Finishing his interesting lecture with a discussion of the traits and characters of the natives there, Professor Bengston showed pictures of himself and his party giving some interesting accounts of his experiences.
