THE "N" CLUB AGAIN

Again we take pen in hand (or rather begin whacking the old type writer) to hand a bouquet to the "N" club. The latest noble enterprise the club has undertaken is to raise funds to send Jimmy Best on a vacation.

Jimmy Best has spent many a faithful year at Nebraska and has been one of her most ardent boosters. Jimmy is old now and he won't be with us always.

Let Nebraska students stand behind the "N" club in this enterprise. And we know they will.

REMOVE THE IRON FENCE

Back in the early days of the University of Nebraska when the good people of Lincoln kept family cows and permitted them to wander more or less aimlessly about, grazing where the grass was greenest and most plentiful, the Chancellor decreed that the campus was not a pasture.

Does the need for this fence still exist? There is no necessity in so curbing the campus against a "cow invasion" for there is not a cow within sight of the campus.

The fence also stood as a stockade against the malicious thief who sought to enter buildings. In the days when the fence was built, it might have served its purpose.

Does the fence add to the beauty of the campus as a whole? How can it when more of the campus is without than within the fence?

The necessity for a fence around the campus is gone and no future need for it is in sight. The cause for its construction has been removed. It does not offer any protection against the thief or the mischief doer. It stands as an eye-sore to the artistic eye.

Contemporary Opinion

CONSERVING OUR INSPIRATIONS

As we pass through college, we are often struck by the beauty or force of some remark, are stirred by some poem or quotation, or inspired by the books and articles that we read.

One excellent means of preserving material of this nature is to use a looseleaf notebook, which admits of indefinite expansion, classification and revision. Into this will find its way the choice quotations culled from reading, impelling thoughts gleaned from chapel and convocation addresses, poems from here and there.

Often times a magazine article makes a profound impression upon the reader. These can be filed in a supplementary cover and by using a paper punch can be preserved and filed in loose leaf form.
