WHEN YOU GO HOME: In just a few more days, students of the university will be boarding the trains for the homeward path. In a few days more a new crop of students will be coming to Lincoln to take courses during the summer sessions. When the present students go they will leave behind them many friends whom they will not hear of or see throughout the summer unless they provide some means to accomplish this.

Personal items of all kinds will be contained in the new publication. Students may read the summer paper and know just what their fraternity brothers and sorority sisters are doing during the summer. A correspondent is being appointed from each organization to keep the Summer Nebraskan informed of the activities of Cornhusker students throughout the vacation period.

YOUR YEAR BOOK: In a few days, the Cornhusker for 1922 will be out. Every student who has subscribed for the book will be the envy of those who have thoughtlessly or carelessly let the matter slide and at the last moment find themselves without a book.

Contemporary Opinion: THERE MUST BE INTEREST. College people in campus activities are generally regarded by those who are not as people looking for nothing more than personal gain and glory. Just how mistaken is this attitude, the Silent Partner, a commercial magazine, very clearly shows in the following:

"Success is captured by interest and only held by interest. Interest is the universal instinct of mankind. We must be interested in what we are doing, else we shall do little." Those people who are handling campus affairs are the ones who have shown interest in their work and who are continuing to manifest it as time slips by.

edge is all right in its way, but the man who isn't practical with his knowledge—the man who has not shown the dyed-in-the-wool qualities of leadership—is not the men who gets very far in life's struggle.—Ohio State Lantern.

Colorado College—Friction among students of Colorado College with their president is believed to have caused a recent raid upon the school museum and the subsequent transformation of the campus into a jungle. Specimens from the $50,000 collection were spirited away and placed in true jungle fashion among the trees and to top the climax a live cow was driven into the museum building. "This will keep up until Dunlway goes," and "Dunlway get out," were among the signs written on the walks. The president characterized the action as a "cowardly attack."

Gillen & Bonney Candies Sold Here Rudge & Guenzel Co Specially Prepared Boxes For All CANDY NEWS

CANDY IN GIFT BOXES for The June Bride The Birthday Gift The Graduate Delightfully attractive are the boxes in which you find luscious sweets specially prepared for the persons who are going to be married, who are going to have a birthday, or who are going to graduate. Truly, we can think of no more an appropriate gift than candy—to give—especially when such pains have been taken by candy artists to make the sweets attractive as well as delicious. Now, for

The June Bride there's a perfectly lovely box of Bons Bons—and these are different than ordinary bon bons. They are White Coated Chocolate Creams. White has always been the brides color—and so it is that our Bride's box is entirely in white. A cunning little cupid adorns the outside of the box, and is held in place by white satin ribbon. Lilies of the Valley carry the message you wish to be carried. Perhaps it isn't just the thing to mention the price on a box like this—but this is what it sells for, $3.50.

"A Happy Birthday" "This is just a little sign I'm thinking of you, friend o' mine And sending very best regard Upon this little birthday card."

Can you carry your birthday wish in prettier and simpler words than these? Maybe you can—but you can't make Chocolate Creams, such as are inside of the box which carries this greeting. If you know someone to whom you want to send a birthday gift—just stop in, and look at one of these Birthday boxes. You'll buy one, we're almost sure. Birthday boxes—at $1.00 and $2.25.

For the Graduate There's a pretty box filled with assorted candies—nuts, fruit, hard candies, creams—and those always good nut rolls which everyone likes. A pretty picture is on the outside of the box—and this alone is worth a part of the $1.35 asked for the box. Candies—Street Floor. Rudge & Guenzel Co
