DEAN BUCK WILL LEAVE THIS WEEK

Head of Arts and Science College Will Start on Long Trip Thursday or Friday

Dean Philo M. Buck of the arts and science college will start Thursday or Friday of this week on a long and tedious trip to India where he will be busied in an exchange professorship with Professor S. L. Joshi of the college of Baroda, University of Bombay.

Dean Buck will go first to Seattle, Washington, from where he will sail for Tokio, Japan, on Wednesday of next week. He will stay there for a short time and then go to China. He will not get to his destination in India until the middle of September. Delays along the route make the trip tedious.

A definite schedule of duties has been mapped out by the Carnegie institute for which Dean Buck makes the trip. He will continue west on his return trip visiting Italy, Germany, France and England, thus circling the globe before again returning to Lincoln.

Dean Buck will deliver a series of lectures at Condy, Colombe, the University of Madras, the University of Bombay, Allahabad, Lucknow, Calcutta, Lahore, Delhi, the Mohammedian University of Alighir and the Hindoo University of Bonoras. He will be in residence at Baroda as the guest of the Maharajah of Baroda.

Professor Joshi will come to Nebraska the first week in August. He will stay in Lincoln for about a week and will deliver a series of addresses to summer school students. Following these lectures he will maintain his headquarters at the University of Nebraska but travel over a large part of the country giving lectures at different universities. He will probably return for a second series of lectures at Nebraska after the commencement of the fall term.

The exchange professorship between Buck and Joshi was arranged by the Carnegie Institute of International education. It required weeks of dickering before arrangements could be finally completed. Chancellor Samuel Avery favored the exchange heartily.

Speaks Language Well

Dean Buck is one of few men in the United States, professors of standing and reputation, who speak the Hindoo language fluently. Buck was educated at the Philander Smith Institute at Musoorie, India, from 1898 to 1893 and became familiar with the language. His father is a Methodist minister in India.

Dean Buck is an excellent literary writer. He has done much work of

Composer of the 'Cornhusker Rose'

HOWARD ADAMSON

A sophomore in the university, is the composer of the latest popular waltz hit, "Cornhusker Rose," for which a contest to decide the most representative girl of the university, the girl who should adorn the cover, was held by the Summer Nebraskan. Miss Vivian Hanson was the winner of the contest and her picture will be on the front page of the new song. Besides Miss Hanson, twenty girls receiving the highest number of votes, will receive free copies of the "Cornhusker Rose."

"Cornhusker Rose" is a popular sweetheart song. It will be of especial interest to Nebraska students in that the song lives up to the name. It is hoped that it will become one of the permanent songs of the university, that it will be adopted for university dances and by the university band. It is the first University of Nebraska song printed which is especially adopted for use at dances. It will probably be in the next edition of the Nebraska song book.

Adamson has composed songs for use in Kosmet and his work is well known. He is a member of Delta Chi.

"Cornhusker Rose" will be off the presses soon after the first of August, it is hoped. The song has been in the hands of the printers for some time and the cover design and picture of Miss Hanson was forwarded immediately following the close of the contest last Monday night.

Copies of the song may be obtained through the Summer Nebraskan for 25 cents each. The copies will be sent anywhere on receipt of 25 cents.

NEW INSTRUCTORS IN SECOND TERM

Among the new instructors who will teach during the second term of the summer school are superintendent A. H. Daley of Hastings; Assistant Superintendent W. L. Curfman of the Lincoln public schools; Principal Mattie Allen Branchwaite and Miss Bigford of the Lincoln schools.

FORMER STUDENTS OPEN A TEA ROOM

The Misses Gertrude and Mildred King, of Lincoln, former students of the University of Nebraska, have opened a little tea room just outside of Valley in their father's grove on the edge of King's lake. Miss Gertrude King was a student at the university last year and her sister attended summer school last year.

Their tea room is 16 by 36, a little new building located close to the old building in King's grove. It is screened and has a movable wooden hood to insure protection against the wind and rain and cold. Dainty oak tables are used, and they always have centerpieces of flowers. Lovely white and gold dishes are used for the dainty teas that are served any time in the afternoon to thirsty passers-by, and for the tasty chicken dinners that one can get with only an hour's notice.

SCHULTZ PLANS A MIDSUMMER TALES

Track Coach Will Edit a Scandal Sheet for Nebraska Athletes and Graduate "N" Men

Track Coach Henry F. Schulte, assistant athletic director of the university, is planning to edit a "Midsummer Tales" before the end of the present summer. The "Tales" is a scandal sheet for Nebraska athletes. It contains news of the activities of all of them, together with plans for the coming season and constructive criticism from coaches, students and alumni.

The first issue of "Midsummer Tales" was published two years ago by Schulte. Last year it was neglected, but this summer the sheet is again to go out to all Nebraska athletes. Not only is it going to the present student athletes, but the sheet will also be sent to alumni "N" men. This is done in an effort to keep their interest in Nebraska athletics at a high pitch and to inspire them back for the athletic seasons.

Coach Schulte plans to do most of the work on the sheet himself. He will soon embark upon a journey to Michigan where he will spend his vacation. It is there that he hopes to do the work connected with the sheet. Letters are being sent to a number of present and former athletes asking for help with the sheet, for statements to run in it.

"Midsummer Tales" is published to fill in the gap between the end of school in June and the start in September. Nebraska athletes are spread all over the state and it is rare that more than two or three get together at one time. The "Tales" brings them close to all other athletes and increases their desire to get back to school.
