MAY END BIG WEEK WITH CAMPUS LUNCH

Lincoln Sphinx Suggests Having a Box Supper and Entertainment to End Welcome

As a means of bringing a final grand ending to the freshman welcome week in case it is approved and put on by the Iron Sphinx next fall, Charles Hall, of Lincoln, has suggested that a box luncheon and entertainment be held on the university campus on Friday night of that week.

The plan as suggested by Hall and approved by several other Lincoln Sphinx calls for the sale of box lunches to all men of the freshman and sophomore classes. The lunches would be similar to those served at Antelope park by the Innocents on Ivy Day and those which some thousand university alumni enjoyed on the third day of the Cornhusker Roundup early in June.

Besides the luncheon an entertainment would be planned. A musical number or two might be given and a tumbling stunt put on. An informational trip about the campus might be held. The entire program, including the lunch and entertainment, would be over before 7:30 or 7:45. It would start not later than 6:30.

Sphinx to Sell Tickets

In case this plan is followed, each member of the Iron Sphinx and the student activities office will be asked to sell the tickets. A sign telling of the event would be placed by the armory. In this way it is hoped that all men of both the lower classes will be reached.

The plan for the lunch on Friday evening does not alter the suggestion of giving tags to each member of both the sophomore and freshman classes. These tags would be given free to each member of those two classes. The men would be asked to write their name plainly on them and to wear them throughout the week.

Consensus of opinion among all the Iron Sphinx heard from so far seems to be that the welcome week should be put on as soon after school starts as anywhere near possible. Rush week and registration comes September 8 to 13. The first classes meet on Thursday, September 14. Several

JACK BEST WRITES OF WESTERN TRIP

"Nebraska's Grand Old Man" having Great Time—Will Return About September 1.

Jack Best, "the best in the west," trainer at the University of Nebraska, is having one grand time on his trip to Salt Lake City says a letter received from him. Jack left Lincoln with his family July 11 and expects to return to Nebraska about the first of September to help make another champion football team.

The trip to Salt Lake City was made possible to the "Grand Old Man" by a contribution fund donated by the student body. The "N" club sponsored the drive for funds and sent Jack out west to help improve his health and in appreciation of what Jack has done for Nebraska.

The letter, which was written by his daughter, follows:

"We got here safe and father is feeling fine.

"From Denver he had lots of fun with the children, telling them the grizzly bears took baths in water we had to drink, and by Glenwood Springs he said he saw the fish come up out of the water and open their mouths for the worms. He sure will have some tales to tell.

"He helps the girls sing 'Old Black Joe' and it has been quite a while since I heard him sing. You would sure have a good laugh if you could have a peep in. Out on the desert, he thought there would be a football ground with plenty of room. It looks like 'No man's land' to me.

"Oh yes, he said next time he comes this way, he would bring his fan along.

"I forgot to tell you, he told the children he was going to have the porter bring him a bottle of champagne as the water was not clean enough. The girls are still wondering what champagne is."

CLASS '21 PMANS GIFT FOR SCHOOL

Solicit Funds to Purchase Flagstaff Encircled by Marble Set For University

Funds for the purchase of a huge flagstaff to be encircled by a marble setting are being solicited by the class of 1921 from among its members. Letters asking for donations of $4 per member have been sent to the graduates with that class.

Contributions for the purchase of the flagstaff are being sent to Eugene C. Dinsmore of the Peters Trust company at Omaha.

The flagstaff is to cost approximately $1,500. To meet this amount, each member of the class must contribute at least $4.

The committee in charge of the class gift selection hope to have the flagstaff erected by June, 1923, at the time of the second annual Cornhusker Roundup. The class of '21 had a good representation at the last Roundup. It was during that time that plans for the purchase of the flagstaff came to a head and definite work started.

Following is the letter sent to the members of the class of 1921:

"Dear Classmate:

"Are you one of the lucky ones? Were you fortunate enough to be present at the first Nebraska Cornhusker Roundup. If not, you will like to know that the class of 1921 took an important and enthusiastic part in the festivities. Class spirit broke the thermometer.

"And we're still going, with the following as the next step to make permanent in the annals of University of Nebraska history the name and deeds of OUR CLASS:

"During the roundup, at a class assemblage, the gift committee was re-appointed with additional members. Suggestions for a suitable gift to the university were made by the class. The committee investigate these suggestions, and after conference with landscape architects and university authorities, selected as the most appropriate gift to the memory of the class
