

PARTY COMMITTEE PLANS BIG DOINGS

All-University Parties to Be the Best Avery Say Student Members.

J. Wilbur Wolfe, Chairman, Already Getting His Committees Working.

Better parties than ever before is the motto toward which the members of the 1922-23 all-university party committee, of which J. Wilbur Wolfe is the chairman, is striving.

Members of the committees have already started lining up their plans for their work for the year. A string of the best stunts ever are being planned for the parties.

The committee is striving toward getting more students interested in the all-university parties than has generally been the case the last few years. At the final meeting before the close of school, much enthusiasm was shown and prospects point to a rousing success of the student parties.

The first of the parties will be for the freshmen. While the members of the first year class will be indirectly responsible for the party, it will be the all-university committee which will supervise the entertainment.

Dates for the parties next year have not all been definitely set. One will be held at homecoming time and one about halloween. The other party dates are as yet uncertain.

Members of the all-university party committee follow: Reception, Margaret Stidworthy and Kenneth Cozier.

Publicity, Isabel Fouts and Wilbur Peterson.

Entertainment, Ami Martin and Clare Bowman.

Refreshments, Josephine Gund and Norman Cramb.

Decoration, Ruby Damme and B. W. Quigley.

Checkin, Arnold Fouts.

Willaman is New Coach at Ames, Ia.

Ames, Ia., Sept. 12.—S. S. Willaman, who with his brother Frank Willaman as assistant, will coach the Iowa State college football team next fall, had a remarkable record as coach at the Cleveland East Technical high school.

In four years as a football coach at that school, Willamans teams only lost three games, and two of those were when the ranks of his players were decimated by the flu epidemic. Twice during that time his teams contested for the United States high school championship. For three straight seasons he won the championship of Cleveland high schools, and his team still holds that honor.

Willaman learned the coaching game in a good school. After having played for three years on the Ohio State team in 1911, 1912, 1913, under the tutelage of Coach Wilce, and having ranked as a star during that period, he put in four years as assistant coach to the man who made him a eridiron luminary. During this period he had a hand in the development of "Chick" Harley and Pete tinchcomb, two of the greatest stars who have ever performed on the "Big Ten" circuit. In those four years Ohio State either held the championship of the "Big Ten" or was runner-up for the honor. Willaman got the championship habit, and when he went to Cleveland the force of habit was still strongly imbedded in his nature. "Defeat" didn't seem to be in his dictionary.

As a basketball coach at the Cleveland school, Willaman turned in eighty-seven victories out of eighty-nine games played in four years. His brother, Frank Willaman, who will assist at Ames, was also a varsity player at Ohio State, and likewise assisted Wilce in the coaching game after graduation. Frank graduated in 1920 and helped Wilce for the following two seasons.

ATHLETIC REVIEWS TO FRATERNITIES

Copies of "Tales of the Cornhuskers" to be Placed in Each House This Fall

Copies of the "Tales of the Cornhuskers" the athletic year book of the university, will be placed in each fraternity and sorority house this fall according to an announcement by the members of the staff.

The athletic year book was published late last spring by three students. Failure of the printers in getting the book out by June 1 made it impossible to distribute the book last spring. Only members of the athletic teams who were entitled to free copies of the book, captains and coaches of high school teams and alumni "N" men who ordered the books received their copies then. More than 1,000 copies were mailed out during the summer.

Two Copies to Each House A limited number of copies will remain in the hands of the publishers. Two copies will be given to each fraternity and sorority. Individuals who wish extra copies may obtain them at the student activities office for 50 cents each.

The "Tales of the Cornhuskers" contain complete reports of all sports during the school year 1921-22 with statements of the prospects for the next year. A section of the book is devoted to inter-fraternity and intramural sports and another section to high school athletics. The book is dedicated to Jack Best "Nebraska's Grand Old Man." A history of athletics at Nebraska is contained in the book.

Plans are being made now to put out a much larger and better book next spring. Work on the first issue was started late in May and a few minor sporting events were overlooked. A much more complete section for all sports, especially intramural and high school, is planned for the next issue.
