COLLEGE SPORTS

MANY TEAMS IN ACTION AFTER NEXT SATURDAY

Colleges All Over the Country Are Preparing to Get Into Season in Earnest

TEST WESTERN STRENGTH

Huskies Go Against South Dakota Next Saturday Afternoon at Two-Thirty

After practice varying from three to five and six weeks, most of the collegiate football teams of the country get under way Saturday. Indications from all over the country point to unusual interest in the grid game this year, with many sensational games scheduled. Last year's winners in several of the conferences have suffered heavy losses in their lineup, and as the season begins hope is practically valueless.

Centre will feel keenly the loss of Bo McMillan, and others. Notre Dame lost Mohardt, star, and practically all the rest of the team. Iowa needs to fill the vacant places of the Devine brothers, and the giant Slater. Michigan begins with a weak line; Syracuse is in the same boat. Chicago has little unusual, according to reports, to open the season with. Purdue is no better than usual. Minnesota will be a strong contender for honors in the Big Ten. Ohio State will bear close watching. The Wolverine aggregation is a seasoned team, it is reported, and has a good schedule. Indiana has weeded out undesirable, and are building a good team. Northwestern promises about the same as before.

Illinois has a strong team, it is reported, and is a contender for 1923 honors worth considering.

The strength of Missouri Valley teams is yet to be determined. Unusual interest is displayed in the Kansas-Army game, which will be played at West Point Saturday. This game holds a good deal of interest for Cornhusker upholders. Should Kansas come home from the east with the Army scalp tucked away, and should the Cornhuskers walloper the Jayhawkers at Lawrence, Armistice day, it is as much as to say, that is, by dope, that the Huskers can beat the Hudson river cadets. And there you are!

Nebraska is not the only school that has turned its eyes to this game. Missouri who always has the bitterest game with the Jayhawkers on Thanksgiving, shows signs of interest. They figure the same way, and they meet the Mount Oread troop in Tiger town this year, where they always play best.

Washington University takes on Rolla, the Missouri School of Mines, at St. Louis. Drake faces Cornell at Des Moines. Ames will meet Coe College at Ames, while the Kansas Aggies open the season at Manhattan against Washburn. Missouri will play Grinnell in Columbia. This is the only strictly conference game scheduled for the day.

Nebraska Game at 2:30.

The Huskers go against South Dakota University on Nebraska field at 2:30 Saturday afternoon. No upset is expected for the opening day in the conference. Drake, Washington, Kansas Aggies, Ames and Missouri are all favorites, meeting teams of lesser calibre. The Kansas-Army game is anybody's, and from all indications Nebraska has some little road to travel to safely pull the Coyote game from the fire.

The Big Ten schedule for Saturday follows:

Iowa vs. Knox at Iowa.

Unl. of Georgia vs. Chicago at Chicago.

Wisconsin vs. Carleton at Wisconsin.

Michigan vs. Case at Michigan.

Illinois vs. Butler at Urbana.

Purdue vs. James M. H. H. at Purdue.

Northwestern vs. Beloit at Evanston.

Minnesota vs. North Dakota at Minnesota.

Ohio vs. Ohio Wesleyan at Ohio.

Indiana vs. Michigan Aggies at Lansing.

The only other Intersectional game outside of the Kansas-Army game, and the Chicago-Georgia contest, will be at Princeton, when Virginia meets Princeton.

Be sure and attend the big football rally tomorrow night.

TRACK CANDIDATES MEETING A meeting of all cross-country and track candidates will be held tonight in the Armory at 7:30. Coach Henry F. Schulte will talk to the men.

When the Yearlings held the 'Varsity to three touchdowns Tuesday, the fact again was demonstrated that the Huskers will not have a lead-pipe cinch when they meet the Coyotes Saturday. The Freshmen broke thru the 'Varsity line with ease, and if the Dakotans perform in this manner Saturday, Cornhusker supporters will be awfully busy "alibing" Saturday night.

Syracuse, the Huskers eastern opponent this year, defeated Muhlberg last Saturday by the overwhelming score of 47-0. The Orange eleven also defeated Hobart the previous Saturday by a large score.

When the Huskers play the Coyotes Saturday, Nebraska fans will Carefully worked over reports of powerful grid teams come from every team in the valley, as the curtain is about to rise for the 1922 season. Which gives rise to the remark, "all is not what it seems in football."

Missourians are paying close attention to the Jayhawk game at West Point Saturday. The Tigers figure they will beat Potay Clark's squad this year, and should Kansas defeat the Army, Missouri's hopes of landing an intersectional game or two next season will be materially boosted.

probably see the eighth wonder of the football world. Chester (Fat) Nison, South Dakota lineman, only eight 254 pounds, and carries a waist measure of fifty-seven inches. The village harness-maker was pressed into service when he presented himself for a suit. At a squad watermelon feed, Nison devoured a mere fourteen melons. Three regular jerseys were spliced together to make Nison's jersey.

The date of the Missouri Valley cross-country run, which will be held at Washington U in St. Louis, has been changed from November 25 to November 3.

The fifty first-year gridsters, working out under Farley Young's direction on the field east of Social Science, look good this year. Included in the squad are a number of heady and clever players, who measure up well with the 'Varsity.

Did you know that in the Valley championship cross-country run three years ago, a Husker runner, being seized with cramps, doubled up and rolled into a ditch, following which he rubbed out the cramps, got up and passed eight men in the last mile of the race? His heroic feat put Nebraska in third instead of fifth place.

A little more cheering at the practice on the open days would help the team out a lot, Coach Dawson says. If the students don't cheer, Dawson says he takes it that the students don't want to see the men who are working for Nebraska. Let's have some real cheering at the next open practice, and show Dawson that we are behind him and the team.

Al Lincoln, who has been one of the chief factors in the Missouri backfield is back and at his best this year. Lincoln weighs around 100 pounds, and is one of the best halves that ever played on the Tiger squad. The team is being built around him this year. Kershaw at quarter is a brainy and speedy man. These two with Bond and Johnny Knight, three sport men, will give Missouri a formidable backfield.

James "Fleetfoot" Thompson, 235 pound Sooner guard, has again put in his bid for the moleskins at Penny Owens' oil camp. He will add considerable to the Sooner line.

SCHULTE CONDUCTS COACHING SCHOOL

Hits Seven Towns Throughout the State to Give Instruction to High School Coaches

Coach Henry F. Schulte returned to Lincoln yesterday, following a ten-day trip over the state during which he conducted a coaching school at seven towns. Coach Schulte was enthusiastically received at every town, and he reports that the plan for better coaching in high school grid contests was accorded a good reception. Coach Schulte announced yesterday that there will be a coaching school held at the Chamber of Commerce today, beginning at ten o'clock this morning.

The towns at which Schulte held the school for the study of football rules are as follows: Omaha, Norfolk, Columbus, Broken Bow,

McCook and Hastings

The meeting lasted from ten o'clock in the morning to nine and ten o'clock at night, due to the tremendous interest shown by the officials throughout the state. Although the meetings lasted from twelve to fourteen hours, but at only one stop was the rule book completely gone through, because the discussion on every rule was so complete.

The average attendance at each meeting ranged from ten to twenty-five officials, in addition to a large number of onlookers.

A number of the officials who attended the meetings made valuable suggestions. The best suggestions will be drawn up and standardized, then will be sent out over the state in the form of an official's code for Nebraska. It will also be given to the papers. The purpose of the code will be to develop better officiating and finer football throughout the state. Floyd Wright will soon announce the date of the officials' school which he will hold at Scottsbluff.

These football officials' conferences are only a part of a great program to built up football throughout the state. A problem department will also be formed, the officials sending the problems to Coach Schulte, who will take them up and solve them once a week, then send them out to all the coaches.

There was also a wide demand among the officials for a like school in basketball. The officials were all very enthusiastic over Schulte's school for officials, and declared it was the greatest thing that has ever been pulled off for the benefit of better football in the state.

Evening Slippers of Satin

—Strapped or Tongued
—Plain or Brocaded

Skillfully interpret the finer versions of the mode

First of all should be emphasized that fineness of quality, without which lasting beauty is impossible, especially in slippers of satin. Worthy of special emphasis also is their perfect modeling, which assures evening-long foot comfort—snug setting heels and ample room across the forepart where one's weight rests when dancing.

Whether you choose one of the exquisite strap styles, one of the new tongued effects, or a model which combines both of favored fashion features—you are assured of style that perfectly compliments whichever of the newer modes and materials for evening wear are most becoming to you—plus the comfort, quality and economy which are associated with all footwear chosen here.
