

FIGHTING CORNHUSKER READY TO POUNCE ON EASTERNERS

TO GROOM CLASS DEBATERS FOR A CLASH ON BONUS

Committee Appointed to Take Care of Tryouts to be Held November 23rd

REVIVAL OF OLD CUSTOM

Freshmen Expected to Develop Some Forceful Speakers From High School Debaters

Tryouts for the class debating teams will be held November 23. Candidates who intend to try out should leave their names, phone numbers, addresses and the side of the question they intend to take with some member of the general interclass debate committee or on the bulletin board on the east side of room 106 U hall.

A revival of interclass debates, with the soldier bonus bill as the subject will be staged this year by the general interclass debate committee. The question for debate as stated by the committee is: "Resolved: That the United States Government Should Grant Adjusted Compensation to the Veterans of the World War."

At the tryouts, November 23, three team members and an alternate will be selected to represent each class in the debates. The tryout speeches will be seven minutes in length. Each candidate is supposed to devote part of his time to refutation of the opposing arguments. There will be no special rebuttal speeches. The committee advises those who intend to try out to start work on the question at once. Reference material can be obtained from the Readers' Guide or from the Reference Librarian in the University library. Next week a bibliography on the question will be issued.

The preliminary round of these debates will be held December 15. The freshmen will meet the sophomores and the juniors the seniors in these debates. The two victors of the preliminary debates will clash in the early part of January for the school championship.

Candidates who intend to try out should hand in their names at once so that the committee may formulate plans for the tryouts. The general interclass debate committee is composed of Cecil Strimple, Bernard Gradwohl, Wendell Berge and Hugh Cox.

The members of Delta Sigma Rho, honorary debating fraternity will act as chairmen of the debates. Members of the last year's Varsity debating squad are barred. The freshman team will be allowed to have a coach. In the other classes the chairman of the debate committee will act as coach.

At one time it was a tradition to hold the final clash debate on Phi Beta Kappa Day in May. The committee has changed the date in order that members of the class teams who want to try out for the school squad may do so.

A large turnout of first-year students for positions on the yearling team is expected since many of the freshmen took part in the high school debating league contests last year. The committee plans to arouse much of the old-time interest and enthusiasm in the interclass contests. Plans are under way for a meeting of the freshmen and sophomore laws to find material for the junior team.

Selleck Will Speak Concerning Europe

"The Industrial Conditions of Germany and France" will be the subject of the address of Mr. W. A. Selleck, president of the Lincoln State bank, at the meeting of the Industrial Research club at the Grand Hotel Friday at 12 o'clock. Mr. Selleck spent a great deal of the time last year studying industrial conditions in Europe and will be able to present the facts about Germany accurately from first-hand knowledge. There will be an opportunity for those interested to discuss problems of importance. The program has been so arranged that the students having 1 o'clock classes will be able to attend.

This speech by Mr. Selleck is the second of a series of addresses, the first being a talk on "The Industrial Conditions of America" by Mr. C. B. Towle of the Curtis, Towle & Paine company. These meetings are open to anyone interested in industrial conditions.

Real Nebraskan Spirit Will be Demonstrated in Kansas Jaunt

To show our rivals what real Nebraskan spirit does is one of the purposes of the special train which will go to Kansas next week to be present at the annual Cornhusker-Jayhawk gridiron battle.

Kansas has put her Homecoming on the day that Nebraska's team visits Lawrence. Her governor and University chancellor will be there to participate in the dedication of the new stadium.

Twelve hundred tickets have been laid aside for visitors—six hundred are now on sale at Tucker-Shean's at 1123 O street and six hundred more are waiting at Lawrence when the first block has been sold out. These tickets are the best in the new stadium.

Infinite announcement of the time when the train leaves and arrives on both the first and return trips has added impetus to the movement to have a thousand Huskers visit Kansas on Armistice Day. Only the number of students making the trip is unknown. A special train is assured if one hundred and twenty-five take this means of making the eight-hour trip.

Eastern Universities plan at least one big jaunt to a foreign gridiron each football season. At many of those trips, two thousand men and coaches accompany the trip. A whole side of the Harvard stadium was reserved for students from Dartmouth at their annual struggle. About two thousand Minnesotans took a trip with their football team this fall. Five hundred Oklahomans came to Nebraska last year, and a large delegation accompanied Kansas football men when they played in Lincoln last year.

On the trip to Ames last fall there was the biggest crowd of Nebraskans to go with the Cornhusker squad for some time. The fact that the Kansas trip is only an eight-hour journey and that no home game comes until November 18 make prospects for a big crowd on the special seem brighter. Plans for having deposits made on the tickets so that a definite check on the number making the trip can be made will be announced by the committee from the Innocents in charge of the special this week.

Questions concerning details of the trip can be answered at the Student Activities office in the east end of the Armory.

Alabama Tech Copies Nebraskas Buildings

Alabama Polytechnic Institute has sent to the College of Engineering of the University of Nebraska for information regarding its engineering buildings. Dean Ferguson's office has sent blue prints and photographs of the Agricultural Engineering building, and of the Mechanical Engineering building. The Alabama college in tends to use them in completing plans for new buildings to be erected there.

BABY INTERNATIONAL COMES ON SATURDAY

Annual Show of the Agricultural College is the Event of the Week

Saturday evening is the time set for the annual baby international livestock show at the Agricultural college campus. The best stock in this part of the country will be on exhibit for all who come to inspect the stock and to ask questions of the students who have raised or cared for the stock.

Block and Bridle club members are in charge of the show. A dance committee and an entertainment committee will be in charge of making the evening interesting to visitors.

The purpose of the annual show, as explained by those in charge, is to train students to fit stock intelligently for show purposes. Each student prepares an animal for show and receives credit on the condition of the animal at the show.

The stock-judging teams of the Agricultural College receive the proceeds from the baby international to help pay their expenses to the different inter-sectional meets.

William Wiedeburg was appointed by the president of Block and Bridle to be manager of the show. He has ten committees at work to make the show this year bigger than any of the four preceding it.

Begin Construction Of New Dormitories At Michigan School

Excavation for a $196,000 men's dormitory, the first of ten such buildings to be erected in the quad range formerly between Sybil and Marion streets, just north of Ferry field, was begun yesterday when C. H. Mooney, 371, chairman of the Dormitory Corporation executive committee turned the first spadeful of dirt.

A huge plan for the solving of the housing problem at Michigan was in this way inaugurated. The speed and efficiency with which the dormitories project was carried from its inception last May to the beginning of actual construction yesterday marks a new record in the service of an alumni body to its Alma Mater.

A committee of alumni met with President Burton in the last week of May, 1922, to discuss the inadequate housing situation here. From this meeting came forth the Dormitories Corporation, a plan through which the rooming difficulty promises to be adjusted.—The Michigan Daily.

DOCTOR HEDGER SPEAKS BEFORE CO-ED MEETING

Temple Theatre Packed When Representative of Elizabeth McCormick Foundation Talks

URGES WOMEN MAKE GOOD

Believes It Is Possible to Control Worry or Fear—Correct Posture an Asset

Dr. Caroline B. Hedger, from the Elizabeth McCormick Memorial Foundation of Chicago, spoke to a large assemblage of the girls of the University, which packed to its full capacity the Temple theater Wednesday morning. Dr. Hedger was introduced by Miss Margaret Fedde, head of the Home Economic department.

Dr. Hedger's topic was "How to Make Good on the Job." "I am thankful to have a job to make good on," she said. "Fifty years ago there was nothing for a woman to do but take her choice of teaching a small school, taking in sewing, living with her married brother, or committing matrimony as most of them did without thinking whether they were capable of filling the very responsible position of wife and mother."

Vitality was the first attribute which Dr. Hedger took up. She pointed out that appearance and dress are dependent on vitality, and that proper nutrition is largely responsible for a store of reserved energy.

"It is a woman's business to know what her nutritional balance is and to live up to it," she asserted. "You can't build bodies on unbalanced diets. Sleep is also necessary for good health," according to Dr. Hedger. "Don't follow Mr. Edison," she advised. "He is a genius, and we are just folks. Sleep is necessary for good health. Most of us can afford to be well or dead, but we can't afford to be sick."

Dr. Hedger believes that it is possible to control worry or fear. "It is in life, as it is in the weather," she said. "Clouds and storms pass by and all is clear again."

Dr. Hedger next advocated correct posture. "You can't slump or strain through life and get out of it what it holds for you," she said. "Correct posture is fundamental in making good your job and especially on your big job of motherhood. She commended the clothing worn by young people today, but called attention to defects in shoe styles.

Nervous balance and interest in the job were further cited as necessities for effective work. "Hurry up and find out what job you want," she counseled. "Money is not the basis of work. The basis is the service given and the joy in the work for you."

In conclusion Dr. Hedger remarked upon the manner in which women have made good in the educational world, and expressed a desire to see them succeed also in the business world. She noted here as throughout her speech the necessity of conserving and building the health of girls for the "big job," motherhood.

"Let us keep our minds clean, and ourselves fit for the big job," she ended.

CAMPUS CLUB HAS HALLOWEEN PARTY

"Mystic Evening" Proves to be Very Entertaining on the Night of the Witches

The Campus club gave its annual Halloween party, a Mystic Evening, Monday evening in the Temple club rooms. Miss Winifred Hyde, Miss Florence McCahey and Miss Grace Roper, assisted by Miss Mary Zimmerman, composed the committee in charge of the arrangements for the party.

The effective decorations were arranged under the direction of Miss Hermine Stellar. Broad bands of black and orange decorated with cats, bats and goblins, hung from the ceiling, and shocks of corn flanked with pumpkins, broke the striped effect. Gruesome Halloween figures, most of which were made and contributed by Miss Stellar's art pupils, were perched all over the rooms.

Miss Josephine Graves, in gypsy costume, and Miss Ruth Odell, as a Chinese, told fortunes during the evening.

A skit was given in the following episode and scenes:

- I. The Mysterious Future.
Madame Fong.
Madame Rosalie.
The Magic Pumpkin.
The Prophetic Apple.
The Bowl of Fate.
A Nibble at Fate and a Back Flap.
II. The Mysterious Prince.
III. The Mysterious Room.
IV. The Pitcher of Bacchus.
V. The Frolics of the Sprites.

Prof. R. J. Pool Host At Botanists Party

Prof. and Mrs. R. J. Pool entertained thirty-five members of the department of Botany at a Halloween party Saturday evening. After dinner some of the group told of their work during the summer.

J. E. Weaver spoke of the botanical work being done at the Alpine Laboratory of the Carnegie Institution on Pike's Peak.

Dr. E. R. Walker related some experiences at the Marine biological laboratory of the University of Washington at Friday Harbor. Dr. Paul Sears told some interesting experiences in connection with his visit to Europe the past summer, and told particularly of being entertained in the home of Dr. and Mrs. Hugo DeVries, a botanist of world-wide fame.

Nebraska Lutherans Hold Large Initiation

The Lutheran Club of the University held its first semi-annual Friday evening, October 27, at Bruce's park. The following were initiated:

Minnie Doe, Elsie Rathje, Magdalena Walseger, Hilda Brinkman, Carl Anderson, Leah Niebaum, John Busboom, Margaret Michelmann, Marthe Klingor, Esther Fehner, Fred Wehmer, Anna Louise Anderson, Martin Ekberg, Gilbert Lallman, Gertrude Frederickson Albert Roth.

"We're going back East, but we're not going back to lose," from Captain Hartley was greeted by a spontaneous outburst of cheering from several hundred University men and coaches who gathered at the Burlington station yesterday at 4:30 to see the team off for Syracuse. "Perhaps some of you recall our start for the East last year," he began, but was interrupted by a platform porter who placed a platform over the steps of the car so that the football captain might have a vantage point from which to speak. "This is one of our most important games—" again he was interrupted this time by a lady who wished to be helped off the train.

Cries of "Dawson! Dawson!" were raised after Hartley had returned to his teammates in the interior of the Pullman.

"I am sorry to inform you that Coach Dawson is not here. He is in Omaha," volunteered Fred Richards, cheer leader, from the top of a baggage truck.

"Noble! Noble!" came next from the assembled multitude.

"Now there's only a few minutes left before that old team leaves on that train. I think we should not discriminate now, but have a few good old cheers and a little of that old pep!" replied "Freddie." "Number one, now! Number one! Are you ready? Hip, Hip! U. U. U-N-I" and so on.

The band in their new uniforms, as promised, gathered on Twelfth street west of the Temple at 4 and began to work up spirit with "Cheer, Cheer," "Hot Time," The Old Gray Mare, and other favorites. The Cornhuskers failed to appear, or at least were not in uniform. The R. O. T. C. companies followed the band in line, and other students crowded in behind.

In a fine drizzle, girls carrying umbrellas, the procession started down the wet slippery pavement. "Duke" Gleason and Fred Richards ran up and down beside the marchers coaxing cheers. The street proceeded down Twelfth to O street, and thence to the depot by way of Ninth and P streets.

Having arrived at the station, the column discovered that they had been outwitted. About a hundred men had come down in advance with the team and secured places nearest to the gates. These were opened in a few minutes and the men shot out in a whirling stream, to surround and climb up the car that carried the team.

A dinner for dental students will be held Saturday night November 8 at K. C. Hall. This will be the first dance that the newly-formed Dental Association has sponsored and the committee is planning to have every dental student attend. The funds will go into the treasury of the organization and a successful dance is necessary for the health of the Club.
