

COLLEGE SPORTS

Clarence Swanson, Husker end coach, and captain of the 1921 Nebraska grid team, is in the Sanatorium as a result of an acute attack of appendicitis. Swanson gained fame last year by his 60-yard run for a touchdown against Pitt.

Leo Scherer, whose sensational work at right end has received much favorable comment in sport circles this year, is confined to the Lincoln Sanatorium by injuries received in the Kansas game.

The Valley standings computed after the games Saturday, follow:

	W.	L.	T.	Pct.
Nebraska	3	0	0	1.000
Drake	3	0	0	1.000
Kansas Aggies	3	0	2	1.000
Missouri	2	3	0	.400
Ames	2	3	0	.400
Kansas	1	2	1	.333
Grinnell	1	2	0	.333
Oklahoma	1	2	0	.333
Washington	0	4	0	.000

Saturday's Cuntest Will Be First Aggie-Cornhusker Game in Decade

It has been almost a decade since the Cornhuskers and the Manhattan Farmers have locked horns in a battle to decide the supremacy on the gridiron. Back in 1917 the Kansas Aggies lost to the Scarlet and Cream gridsters by nine touchdowns and for some reason or other the two teams have not met since. In the olden days the unfortunate Farmers were walloped as often as they met the Huskers and if they don't get another beating this year they will have done well.

and they might do some surprising work on the Husker rectangle Saturday. Twice this season they have been doomed to low before both K. U. and the Soomers but in each game the husky Farmers sent across a counter for six points. The results of the past conflicts follow:

Year	Neb.	Aggies
1911	59	0
1912	30	6
1913	24	5
1914	31	0
1915	31	0

HUSKER BASKETEERS GETTING IN SHAPE

Captain Warren in Charge of Early Season Practice With Large Number Out

"Basketball practise is coming fine," was the comment made by Captain "Slim" Warren of this year's basket crew. "There are about thirty-five men coming out regularly now, but I expect there will be at least fifty before we start in on the regular practise. All of our practice now is on the fundamentals, and our regular grind will not begin until either the end of November or the first of December."

The old men out who are showing up in fine shape are Kohl, Tipton, Russell, Carmen, Warren, "Booze" Holland and Riddlesparger. "There are," said the captain, "some fifteen men out of the new ones who are showing up exceptionally well, that is, they stand out as above the average of those who usually appear at this time in the season."

Since the regular grind will not begin for a few weeks, the opportunity is still open for more men to come out and make good. The practice is every night from 5 to 6 o'clock in the Armory, and application should be made

KANSAS AGGIES NEXT GRID GAME FOR HUSKERS

Cornhusker Team Seriously Handicapped by Absence of Coach Swanson and Scherer

AGGIES HAVE GOOD RECORD

Students From Manhattan Have Special Train Scheduled for Invasion of Husker Camp

Preparations by the Huskers for the Kansas Aggie game on Saturday are handicapped by the absence of End Coach Swanson and Right End Leo Scherer, who are both confined to the Lincoln hospital. Swanson because of appendicitis, and Scherer because of injuries. The game with the Manhattan Farmers will be the first time the schools have met since 1917, and the Aggies, who have not lost a game this season, are planning on coming out of the fray victorious.

Coach Clarence Swanson, who was taken ill with appendicitis shortly after the end of the Kansas game, was operated upon Tuesday morning at the Sanatorium. Last reports from the hospital indicate that "Swannie" came through the operation in fine shape and is resting easily.

Leo Scherer, regular end, is also at the hospital because of injuries received in the K. U. contest. In attempting to obtain the ball following the blocking of a Jayhawk punt behind the goal line, Scherer dived into a cement post and hurt his head. Despite the injury, Scherer kept on playing, and a few minutes later intercepted a Kansas pass and ran forty yards for the first Cornhusker touchdown.

Head Coach Fred Dawson is going easy on his regulars this week in order that they may be rested up before the battle with the Kansas Farmers Saturday at Lincoln. Practice Monday night ended at 5 o'clock and again Tuesday Dawson began sending in the regulars at about 5 bells. The workout Tuesday was held on the drill field east of Social Science because of the poor condition of Nebraska Field.

The game with the Aggies will begin the home stay of the Huskers which will last the rest of the season, the Cornhuskers playing Ames on the following Saturday, November 25, and winding up the season on Thanksgiving Day, when they will meet the Notre Dame "fightin' Irish" eleven in a game which is expected to truly be the "battle of the ages."

Aggie Team Strong.
The Aggie eleven, under the careful tutelage of Charles Bachman, former Notre Dame star, has developed into one of the best aggregations in the Valley this year, having defeated Missouri and Ames, and having tied Oklahoma and Kansas U. The Aggies have a passing attack which is unsurpassed in the valley, as last Saturday, the Kansas Farmers took the measure of the Ames machine via the passing route, despite the drizzling rain and slippery condition of the pigskin.

Although the prevailing opinion in the Nebraska camp is that Kansas Aggies will be an easy opponent, the hope on the two teams does not justify this optimism. The Aggies have one of the best coaches in this part of the country, and are working toward the Nebraska game in the same spirit that Nebraska prepares for Notre Dame, their strongest opponent.

The Kansas Ags have a dozen letter men in uniform this year, a formidable aggregation from which Bachman has rounded out a passing team which completed nine out of thirteen passes for a total of 120 yards, in a sea of mud.

A full trainload of Kansas Aggie rooters will make the trip to Lincoln to see the contest. A block of 500 seats has been reserved for the Aggie supporters who will make the trip.

The Kansas Ag-Nebraska contest will be one of the features of Dad's Day, which is being celebrated at Nebraska for the first time. All the dads who attend the big festivities will be invited to attend the game.

All Seats Are Sold For Badger-Michigan Game Next Saturday

Every available seat in Perry field for the Michigan-Wisconsin football game to be held on Nov. 18 has been sold, was the statement given out last night by the Athletic association ticket department. There are now slightly over 300 students and faculty members who have not yet sent in their applications and the ticket office will hold seats for them up until Nov. 18. This means that approximately 40,000 tickets have been sold up to date almost two weeks before the game. On Nov. 1 the quota reserved for alumni was completely exhausted, more than 18,000 reservations having already been made for grads, and it was estimated that if more tickets had been available they could have been sold at the rate of 1,500 a day.

Since then hundreds have been turned away from the ticket offices and money returned to more than 1,000 alumni. Student and faculty applications have all come in except for 300. One reserved seat is being held for each of these student and faculty coupon book holders and may be obtained until Nov. 18. After this day, they will be used to help fill the alumni overdemand.—Michigan Daily.

Professor Schroell Will Speak Before Convocation Friday

"Applied Art in France" will be the subject of Professor Frank Louis Schroell of Sourbonne, Paris, who will speak at convocation Friday morning at 11 o'clock at the Temple theatre. The lecture will be illustrated by stereoptical slides which Professor Schroell has collected during recent trips through France. Professor Schroell received part of his education at Cambridge, England, and part in the University of France. He has acted as professor of French in the University of Chicago during the past two years, and is at present making a tour of southern and western universities.
