INVITATION TO COSTAL BATTLE NOT RECEIVED

No Word Has Reached Here From the Pasadena Authorities

Dedication of New Stadium to be Held Morning Before the Irish Battle

Prospects for a Husker invasion of the coast during the holidays were considerably dimmed yesterday when Director of Athletics Fred Dawson gave out the word that no official invitation or other communication had been received from the Pasadena authorities who are promoting the ornament of the Roses. The rumor that has gone the rounds that Nebraska was asked to play the University of California eleven in the Pasadena stadium on Christmas Day is plain bunk, the result of poor work on the part of some California newspaper men.

The only game scheduled for the Tournament of the Roses is the Penn State-University of Southern California contest. This fray will be played on New Year's Day in the Pasadena stadium. However, the Penn State crew has lost three games since they have accepted the invitation, and so it is not looked upon as worthwhile to have them play in the post-season game.

Even if Nebraska did receive an invitation to play on the coast, it is doubtful as to whether or not they will accept. Coach Dawson's proteges have already broke training for the season. Again, the consent of the University authorities would be necessary before the Huskers could consent. But still another obstacle would have to be overcome in the person of the Missouri Valley Conference heads, whose O. K. would also have to be secured.

It is generally believed among Cornhusker supporters that a game with the University of California team would be a great boost for Cornhusker athletics. The game would undoubtedly attract national attention, and give much prestige to Nebraska. The Bears have one of the strongest, if not the strongest football aggregations in the country, and so a contest with Andy Smith's eleven would be highly desirable from the Husker's point of view.

Irish Here Oct. 20.
 It was announced at the University athletic office yesterday that the Notre Dame game for 1923 had been definitely scheduled for October, 20 at Lincoln. According to the plans now being formulated by Athletic Director

Dawson and the alumni association, the memorial stadium will be dedicated on the morning of the game with the Irish. A large crowd will be attracted to the Notre Dame game, and the dedication will no doubt be a big attraction as well.

With the Illinois game on October 6, and the Notre Dame battle on October 20, the Huskers will have an intensive practice period before them when the training season open September 15. The Illinois and Notre Dame games will be two of the three big contests of the season for the Huskers, and in order to win these games, the team will have to be in the best of condition.

HOUSING OF BASKET BALL PLAYERS HARD

The Large Number of Men Trying Out Makes Practice Hard

An alternative schedule has been arranged for the basketball players by which they can practise in the afternoons if they are unable to come out evenings. There are so many men out, too, that this move was almost a necessity to take care of them all. The practises are held in the Armory at 4 o'clock Tuesday and Thursday, and 1:30 o'clock Monday, Wednesday and Friday. The men who cannot come to these practises are supposed to come to the practise at 4 o'clock Monday, Wednesday and Friday and at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday and Thursday. It is hoped that this will enable all men to stay out, but if it doesn't something will have to be done to cut down the number of men out. Basketball, unlike the other sports, it seems, has plenty of men out. The present practises are lasting over an hour and a half now to get the men in trim for their first game in the first of the year.

Coach Frank says, "We have a good bunch out, but no statement can really be made as to how the team will show up this year. The truth of the matter is that nothing can be said because we know so little of the strength of the other teams that we are to play, and our strength could only be expressed in comparison with theirs."

The number of men out is well over fifty and no more men need come out as it is doubtful as to what is going to be done with all that are out now. Facilities are not sufficient to take care of all the men, and the only thing that can be done is to let it go this year and then next year the stadium will fill the vacancy.

The floor of the Armory is to be used for all home games in basketball this year. New glass back boards are to be used, and tiers of seats will make it possible for twenty-five hundred to attend. The baskets have already been moved and the floor will be completely ready in a few weeks.

The freshmen basketball men have not yet been called out, and they probably will not be until after vacation. They will get to practise any time the floor is not in use by the varsity. Many of the basketball stars of the team held at Lincoln last year will be present in the freshmen ranks, and will offer good material for the varsity next year.

There have been a few minor changes made in the rules this year regarding free throws on fouls.
