NEBRASKA GETS LARGE AMOUNT FROM FOOTBALL

More Than Thirty-seven Thousand Dollars Shown in Receipts at the Athletic Office

Nebraska's share of the proceeds of the eight football games of the 1922 season is $37,122.31. The game's increasing popularity has drawn larger crowds every year at all the schools that have winning football teams. The Cornhuskers were big drawing cards at every game, their ability being widely known, the sport world was anxious to see them in action.

The number of people who saw the Cornhuskers play proves that they are indeed well-known. Fifty-eight thousand, five hundred and thirty-one people paid admissions to the games in which the Nebraska team played at home and abroad. At Kansas the largest number of fans at a game this year saw the Jayhawkers and the Huskers play on Armistice day. There were 14,570 paid admissions to the game. The attendance at the games follows:

- South Dakota, 3,750.
- Missouri, 11,191.
- Syracuse, 11,160.
- Kansas, 14,570.
- Kansas Aggies, 5,345.
- Ames, 4,136.
- Notre Dame, 13,335.

OFFER PRIZES FOR BUSINESS ESSAYS

Chicago Trust Company Offers Large Reward for Papers on Trust Company Development

Prizes of $2,500, $300 and $200 are offered by the Chicago Trust company for studies relating to business development, the modern trust company, and allied subjects, the first a triennial research prize, the others first and second annual prizes, respectively for monographs. Students in the department of economics of colleges and Universities; undergraduates in schools of commerce and law; students registered in the American Institute of Banking, excepting officers of banks, and employees of banks generally are eligible for the monograph contest. Americans, without restriction, are eligible as contestants for the $2,500 prize. The donors have in mind for this group particularly, officers of banks, business executives, practicing attorneys, members of teaching staffs, and graduate students in the field of economics and finance.

Ralph E. Heilman, professor of Economics and Dean of the School of Commerce, Northwestern University, is chairman of the committee on awards, and Leverett S. Lyon, assistant professor of Commercial Organization, University of Chicago, and educational director of the Chicago chapter of the American Institute of Banking, is secretary. Rules and suggestions governing the contest will be sent on application made to the secretary of the committee. Other members of the committee will be announced later when all the acceptances have been received.

The initial award of the $2,500 sum will be made in the summer of 1925, and thereafter every three years for the greatest original contribution to knowledge and advancement in the field outlined. For briefer studies, not exceeding 20,000 words, the annual prize will be awarded beginning with the summer of 1923.

Literature mailed to Chancellor Avery by Professor Heilman states: These prizes are offered commemorable the twenty-first anniversary of Chicago Trust Company and the occupancy of its new building at Clark and Monroe streets.

This occasion represents more than the passing of a milestone in the history of a private enterprise. It is a significant stage in the steady growth of a financial institution that has dealt with many questions affecting business development such as are suggested here for more deliberate study.

Although this year marks the one hundredth anniversary of the first trust company in the United States, these prizes are offered in the belief that only a beginning has been reached in public recognition of the possibilities of corporate trust service in meeting the financial requirements of individuals and in facilitating the development of organized business.

While trust service is associated in the minds of many almost exclusively with the management of personal estates, it has been the growth of large scale corporate industry that has given to the trust company its main field of opportunity and service. The evolution of the modern corporation has given rise to a wide variety of financial problems with which until recently the trust company alone among our financial institutions has been equipped to deal. So manifold are the services performed by the Trust company that it has been well described as the omnibus of financial institutions. Almost every type of financial operation, indeed, is now conducted by trust companies.

Although the trust phases of business remain the distinctive features of trust company operations, it has seemed fitting in view of the non-specialized character of these institutions to encourage, through these prizes, study and publication in the domain of finance generally, rather than to confine it to trust business in the narrower sense of the term. Studies on any topics within the broad field of finance may be submitted with the approval of the committee.

Subjects Suggested for 1922-23.
Trust phases of business.
Present tendencies in the development and operation of trust companies.

The increasing centralization of financial functions in trust companies and other banks.

How fiduciary services are performed in small towns.

How trust functions are performed in the British Empire (or in any other foreign country).

Trust company advertising.
The advisory relations of trust companies and other banks with their customers.

The use of insurance and of trustee service in the development and conservation of family estates.

The reduction of litigation relating to wills.
Trust companies as fiscal agents for corporations.

The relation of trust companies to the reorganization of jeopardized business concerns.
The history of British investment trusts.

Other subjects in the field of finance:
The development and control of outlying banks in large cities.
The growth of branch banking in American cities.

The growth of commercial bank advertising in the United States.
The war and post-war movement for systematic saving.

Effects of inheritance and income taxes on family estates.
Inheritance of property in relation to individual initiative and success.
The financing of small corporations.

Short term notes as a means of raising fixed capital.
The lending of money on improved real estate.
The work of commercial paper houses.
The growth and significance of commercial credit or discount companies.
The development of foreign financing corporations in the United States.
The recent failures of brokerage houses.
Financial reorganization in 1921.

VARSITY WRESTLERS MUST REPORT TODAY

Meeting in Dr. Clapp's Office at Five O'clock to Discuss Training During Vacation

All men who expect to try out for the Varsity wrestling team are required to report in the Armory today at 5 o'clock. This meeting will last not more than a half hour. Dr. Clapp will talk with the men on training during vacation and other important matters which they should know at the present time. The first meet is not far off, and it is necessary for the men to begin their training.

The management is now negotiating with the University of West Virginia for a wrestling meet. West Virginia ranks high among the eastern schools, and thus a meet with them would be much to our advantage. We have applications for meets listed with us from the University of Kentucky and the Oklahoma A. & M. college. The council at the University of Iowa has approved a wrestling meet with Nebraska.

The bachelor has one advantage. He can throw them away instead of tormenting his feet with the darned spots.

There's nothing so pathetic about Jacob's working fourteen years for his wife. Many men put in a lifetime at it.
