The Orpheum should reinforce the walls of its ticket office in preparation for the rush of students to get University Night tickets tomorrow noon.

A purpose that its worthwhile is that of the Pan-Hellenic formal scheduled for February 23. The aim announced is to bring the Greek letter organizations together—to instill a closer spirit of friendship and co-operation. The old spirit of bitterness and intense rivalry between the fraternities seems to be losing ground rapidly. Long strides in the direction of less factional spirit and more Nebraska spirit have been taken since September. The Pan-Hellenic formal is another step in the right direction.

Sentiment among the students at Iowa University seems to be in the direction of permitting college athletes to participate in summer baseball professional games without disqualifying them for further participation in college athletics.

This question has often been discussed by officials of the various intercollegiate conferences but sentiment against such action has prevailed to date. Iowa wants to know the sentiment of other midwestern colleges in this matter.

In a letter to the Nebraskan, an Iowa student says, "Do you not find this sentiment (i. e., that favorable to participation in summer professional baseball without penalty) present on your campus?" Let the students express an opinion on this matter.

If sufficient interest in this matter is shown through letters to the Nebraskan this week, a ballot will be taken to show the real sentiment of Nebraska students and this information will be transmitted to Iowa. These letters should be signed as an evidence of good faith on the part of the writer, but signatures will be withheld on request.

The problem of penalty for participation in summer professional baseball contests is a live one on our campus now. Two players who starred on the Husker diamond nine will be ineligible this year on account of having played last summer.

We have lost heavily by the Valley rule. Is it worthwhile to keep on the ban?

Has Nebraska just taken another step for student self government?

The action recently taken by which University Night and the publication of the "Evening Shun" are kept on the basis of the past few years, is gratifying to the great majority of students. This is shown by the balloting on the question of censorship resulting in an overwhelming majority against it.

To the students, then, has been given the right to direct the character of University Night skits and publications. On the students also has been put responsibility for the character of the skits and publications.

On account of the publicity given the question of censorship, the program Saturday night will no doubt be watched more closely than ever by those who are always looking for something to criticize. In view of this fact, it will be well to remember that University Night should be taken in a spirit of good sportsmanship. If you are "hit" the matter is not one of life and death, but something to be taken in the spirit of jollity that actuated the jokester.

An opportunity to display the best and cleanest humor will be given on Saturday night. University Night is to be a student night. As in the past it will be an "open season" for advertising the eccentricities of faculty members and fellow students. University Night and the "Shun" are Nebraska traditions and excesses of any kind should not be allowed to lower their quality.

In the College World.

University of Washington, (P. I. N. S.)—One of the most severe and longest continued earthquake shocks in years was recorded by the University seismograph, Feb. 3. It was estimated by University authorities as being about 1,800 miles distant. Later reports showed it to have been in the Hawaiian Islands.

A state wide basketball championship for high schools is being sponsored by the Associated Students. Sixteen high school teams, winners in their leagues, will compete in the finals which will be held at the University of Washington. The men will be entertained during their stay at the organized houses on the campus.

The Glee Club will make its 25th annual state wide tour. On the tour the club will give programs at high schools and at meetings of alumni associations. After the concerts the club will give dances at which the music will be furnished by the glee club orchestra.

Ice hockey is now one of the principal minor sports at the University of Washington. Most of the games have been played with local amateur teams but it is hoped that here will be more college hockey teams available next season.

THE BEST MAN I EVER HIRED.

On this man's record card, I find the following notes:
"C. A. Jones, Home-Oakville, Ohio; started work in Union Grove, Ohio; sold $192.50 first week and $196.30 second week; nice-looking, clean-cut, congenial; has a desire to learn; sold books four summers; worked his way thru colleges; was field manager for 2 years for * * * Publishing Co., both field and office trained; believes in training and thoroughly knowing his goods; loves college organization work, hiring and training college men; willing to pay any price to learn the secrets and art of selling merchandise and organization work."

If you are another C. A. Jones with similar experience and desires, I have a position for you. Write me a personal letter, giving me full details of your past experience and tell me why you are a C. A. Jones.

college he will have earned $80,000. On the other hand the average yearly income of an uneducated man is approximately $500. In forty years he will earn $20,000. Subtract $20,000 from $80,000 and you have $60,000, the difference in earnings of educated and uneducated men. In other words this is the monetary value of an education. In order to obtain a B. A. degree it is required that one shall spend practically sixteen years in school. If you will figure it out you will find that each day in school gives back approximately $22.00 in return. Is it worth while as a business proposition, as a financial investment?

A college bred man is a citizen and a student of his country and the world. The uncultured man is confined to a very small circle. No man should be content with anything short of the best training. He is given the faculties which are capable of being developed. In other words, man is given certain talents.

If he develops these God-given talents by acquiring a college education, he may be a benefactor to society. He thereby equips himself to meet the opportunities and responsibilities of life both private and public.

In setting a college education as a standard prerequisite to professional training no one is eliminated, for today a A. B. course is within reach of anyone who is ambitious and has determination and stick-ability. It is a really a "weeding out" process. It eliminates the unfit. In short, it is a fine test of character.

STUDENT GUESTS ARRIVE MONDAY

vidualistic in all his ideas. At one time he and six friends lived together in Jena conducting a co-operative industry as an experiment on how co-operation can exist in the midst of competition. His knowledge is based principally on seeing, thinking, and feeling, for his life has been as hard as it has been varied, especially in the last four years. Hans was but eighteen years old at the time of the revolution in Germany and his sympathies were with the more radical parties. He was under arrest for a time and attended Carl Wilke's school for prisoners and delinquents, where he arrived at the conclusion that his ideas were quite different from those held by the revolutionaries. This student who is of the type that represents the hope of Germany will attempt to give Germany a fair showing in the eyes of Americans, he asserts.

Holland is not a country affected directly by the World War and it is perhaps surprising to find a youth renaissance there (than in the countries whose every system, social and economic, has been shaken, say Student Forum officials. Piet Roest is the Dutch student. His life, has been one of ins and outs and his struggle for education and existence has evidently played the usual part in development of character. He is now a medical student at the University of Leyden, and, also, a member of the Practical Idealist Association. From personal contact he knows the attitude and conditions of young people of all classes in Holland. At 13, Piet went to sea in a fishing smack. A year later he was a student in the H. B. school. During his summer vacations he worked in a shipyard as a common laborer. Later he became a clerk in a coal distribution bureau and now while he is studying medicine he is an assistant in a tropical hygiene laboratory.

Jorgen Holck, the Danish student, has always been active in international student life. His work at the University of Copenhagen was mainly in the study of theology and the history of civilization. In 1921 he took part in the All-Scandinavian Congress at Stockholm and in the latter part of that year went to England to study social conditions. He has worked in connection with the Student Christian Movement in its settlement house where students pass on their instructions to workers who are unable to attend university.

Dr. W. T. Elmore of the First Baptist church, will speak Sunday morning at 10:30, on "The Hydrangeas." By special request he will speak in the evening on "Boston and the New American Religion."

Even when the worm turns, about all it can turn is the other cheek.
