

WRESTLING RULES TO ENLIGHTEN ROOTERS

gained after the man has crossed the mat, does not count.
A fall terminates a match. Both shoulders pinned to the mat for the silent count of three seconds by the referee, shall constitute a fall. Flying and rolling falls do not count. To earn a decision at the end of a twelve-minute bout, a man must have an advantage of one minute in time behind his opponent. Two extra periods of three minutes each are wrestled if this advantage is not had by one of the men. An advantage of thirty seconds is required to win a decision in the three minute periods. The referee tells which man is "behind" his opponent, or has the advantage over him, and the time is kept by length of the bout. A fall with any part of the body off the mat is left to the discretion of the referee.

No coaching is allowed by coaches or spectators along the sidelines during the bout. A fall counts five points. A decision counts three points.

The classes and weights are as follows:

- Bantam—115 pounds or under.
- Feather—125 pounds or under.
- Light—135 pounds or under.
- Welter—145 pounds or under.
- Middle—158 pounds or under.
- Light Heavy—175 pounds or under.
- Heavy—175 pounds and over.
