

W. A. A. GIRLS WILL GIVE DANCE DRAMA

Annual Production to Be Presented Saturday—To Feature Miss Barstew's Pupils.

The annual Dance Drama, presented by W. A. A. will be given at the Temple theatre, Saturday evening at 8:15. The first part of the entertainment will be composed of dances by Marjorie Barstow and her pupils, assisted by several members of W. A. A. The dances in which the University girls will participate are as follows:

- The Clown and the French Doll—Ruth Ellsworth and Dorothy Seacrest.
- Dutch Dance—Beulah Grabill and Winifred Mayhew.
- Dance Cubiste—Jesse Hiet and Mable Dickenson.
- The Season—
 - Summer, Louise Gibbons.
 - Fall, Dorothy Whelpley.
 - Winter, Bernice Ballance.
 - Spring, Beulah Grabill.

The second part will comprise the Dance Drama proper. The story of the dance deals with the incident of two lovers in a garden in which all the flowers come to life. The cast is as follows:

- The Lady—Dorothy Davis.
- The Man—Louise Gibbons.
- Yew Hedge—Irene Berquist, Margaret Tool, Edith Gramlich, Blanch Gramlich, Esther Swanson, Loyse Shepherd, and Madeline Lau.
- Gay Marguerites—Lois Pederson, Pearl Safford, Lucile High, Florence Sturdevant, Millicent Ginn, Eloise Fralick, and Harriett McClelland.
- Roses Rare—Marjorie Bell, Joe Westgate, Allegra Westgate, Marjorie Hale, and Lillian Lewis.
- Golden Daffodils—Marie Snavely, Louise Branstead, Leora Chapman, Anna Hines, Inez Reez, Willie Maud Powell, Betty Lentz, Neva Jones, and Kathryn Smith.
- Stately Hollyhocks—Dorothy Seacrest, Bernice Bayley, Dorothy Goodale, and Coleta Aitken.
- Drifting Clouds—Dorothy Van Van Kren, Ruth Tanner, Bernice Ballance, Dorothy Dougan, Carol Kingsbury, Irma Ellis, Ruth Ellsworth, and Dorothy Taylor.

Famous Personages Assume Queer Roles In Mentality Tests

Lorado Taft was designated as an ex-resident, and Tetraxinni as a Russian statesman, by students of the College of Emporia in a test to ascertain the knowledge of the average college student concerning current events and prominent contemporary personalities. One student thought that Edwin Denby was a prize fighter; another said that Georges Carpentier was a popular author.

The average college student does not spend much time reading the newspapers, according to the test conducted by R. N. Miller of the College of Emporia faculty. Students were asked to identify twenty-eight persons whose names appear almost daily in the press. According to Mr. Miller, the students may have a wide and comprehensive knowledge of Cromwell, Euclid and Rousseau, but do not know whether Albert T. Beverage is a soft drink or a tonic.

I understood her, she understood me; in fact we understood each other. This was helped along because her friends lied to her, my friends lied to me; in fact our friends lied to us. To straighten it out I lied to her; she lied to me; to be precise we lied to each other. I knew that she lied; she knew that I lied; we knew that each other knew that the other had lied. I told her that I believed her, she told me that she believed me, and neither of us believed that the other believed. But we made up. Ain't Love Grand? —Exchange.
