Dr. Jens Warming, professor of Economics and Statistics at the University of Copenhagen, Denmark, will speak on "Taxation of Real Property" Thursday at 11 o'clock at a special convocation in Social Science Auditorium. He will speak on "National Horizons of Denmark" to the Faculty Dinner club at 6 o'clock at the Grand hotel. COMMERCIAL CLUB PUBLICATION HAS MANY FEATURES

Leading Article Written by R. E. Campbell, Vice-president of Miller and Paine Store.

The March number of "The Bizad," published monthly by the Commercial Club of the College of Business Administration, is out. The number is an especially interesting one and has many fine articles. The leading article, "The Responsibility of the Retailer to the Consumer," is by R. E. Campbell, vice president of Miller & Paine. In it, Mr. Campbell states that there are two important functions of the retailer, that of purchasing agent for the community which he serves, and that of seller in that community. His duties in each capacity are clearly outlined. An explanation of the reason for the advanced prices of today over former times is given. "The modern service costs money, and as we demand that more and more things be done for us, we must expect to pay a larger and larger proportion of the commodity value for the service rendered," writes Mr. Campbell.

Extracts were printed from Bulletin No. 2 by the committee on business research of the College of Business Administration. This article, entitled "Operating Expenses in Retail Grocery Stores in Nebraska in 1921," gives a detailed account of the expenses of stores in Omaha, Lincoln, and other towns and compares the selling expenses of the Omaha and Lincoln stores with the others.

Theta Sigma Phi Has Varied and Interesting History at Nebraska

Theta Sigma Phi was founded April 8, 1909 at the University of Washington, Seattle. The purpose of the fraternity, an "honorary, professional working organization of women," is three-fold: (1) uniting in the bonds of good fellowship college trained women either engaging in or intending to engage in the profession of journalism; (2) conferring honor upon women who distinguish themselves in journalism either as undergraduates or professionals; (3) accomplishing definite achievements as an organization in the field of letters calculated to raise the standard of journalism, to improve the working conditions of women of the profession and to inspire the individual to greater effort.

There are twenty-five active chapters, California being the newest one. The members of the various chapters are engaged in journalistic work of every description, and many of them, after graduation, enter upon active journalistic careers. Such women as Zona Gale, Fannie Hurst, and Ruth Hale are members of Theta Sigma Phi.

The Nebraska chapter was installed in 1915 with the assistance of Professor M. M. Fogg of the journalism department. The six charter members of this chapter, Lambda, were: Eva Miller Grimes, Ruth Boecher Brian, Vivienne Molland O'Brian, Mollie Gilmartin, Gertrude McGee, Ethel Arnolds, and Clara Dodds.

The active members are: Gertrude Patterson, Irma Wiltse, Valora Hullinger, Florence Miller, Belle Farman, Emily Ross, Mary Ure, Marjorie Wyman, Helen Kummer, Stella Andrews, Ruth Miller, Zella Gillmor, Bonnie Hess, Edith Olds, Neva Schulte, Carita Herzog, Eleanor Dunlap, and Leata Markwell. The officers are: Gertrude Patterson, president; Belle Farman, vice president; Irma Wiltse, secretary; Valora Hullinger, treasurer; Helen Kummer, keeper of the archives.

In 1918 Theta Sigma Phi published "The Whiskbroom," a combination of fun and seriousness, dedicated to the Nebraska University soldiers. The purpose of the book's publication was to secure funds with which to send a delegate to the national biennial convention. The book, sold on the campus, was a highly creditable display of the journalistic ability of University women. The staff was as follows: Eva Miller, editor; Jean Burroughs, associate editor; Eleanor Fogg, business manager.

The Nebraska chapter has sent out many women who have distinguished themselves in the journalistic world. Dorothy Colburn, '19, is an instructor in the Lincoln high school. Sarah T. Muir, honorary, is also an instructor.

MISS CLARA WILSON RETURNS FROM TOUR OF WESTERN SCHOOLS

Lectures in Oakland on Kindergarten and Primary Work—Visits Many Schools on Trip.

Miss Clara Wilson, chairman of the kindergarten department, in the Teachers College, returned Monday from California. She left Lincoln March 5 for Oakland to lecture on kindergarten primary work under the auspices of the Oakland Kindergarten club. Her work included five lectures before the kindergarten and primary teachers of Oakland, and the vicinity around the bay. She visited San Francisco normal school, the University of California at Berkeley, and Leland Stanford University.

At the southern branch of the University of California which is at Los Angeles, Miss Wilson later spent two days visiting the kindergarten and primary departments. The situation in these departments, she says, is much like that at Nebraska. Large numbers of students are enrolled and two-year and four-year courses are offered. The Los Angeles students have one big advantage in the delightful demonstration schools which are maintained on the campus, according to Miss Wilson. These schools which include the kindergarten, and the first, second, and third grades, are held in attractive bungalows, where the students observe the teaching, while they take their practice-teaching in the public schools.

Especially interesting, said Prof. Wilson, is the primary work in the Oriental rooms. Here are taught only Japanese and Chinese children. Often the alien parents of these little American citizens are well-to-do, and dress their children according to the most up-to-date American fashions. The little slant-eyed folk in their fine American clothes, represent an interesting picture. They are very bright, and their nationality crops out amazingly in their art work, where the youngest ones without training instinctively draw delicate foreign-looking figures and foliage.

Miss Wilson was the guest of honor at several luncheons, dinners, and teas given by the Kindergarten Club. She was also entertained by a number of Nebraska people, among whom was Sadie Rothholz, a student at the University of Nebraska a few years ago. Miss Rothholz, who has been teaching in California, recently resigned to be married April 24.

Miss Wilson left Lincoln in a March snowstorm, and arrived in California to find the fruit-trees blooming.

PLANS FOR ANNUAL FARMERS' FAIR ARE COMPLETE FOR MAY 5

Nebraska and Missouri Will Clash in Diamond Contest as One of Feature Events.

General preparations have been completed for the Farmers' Fair to be held May 5, but many minor details remain to be worked out. Each year the mistakes of the previous fair are corrected and the next fair increases accordingly in size and quality.

The shows will open early in the afternoon. The edentopma; exhibits will be displayed in the various buildings. A wild-west show and many side-shows containing new and interesting features will furnish plenty of amusement for the sightseers.

A baseball game between the Universities of Missouri and Nebraska on the Ag College athletic field is an added attraction this year.

An open-air dance platform will be erected to accommodate a large crowd during the afternoon and evening. Sufficient floor space is guaranteed this year. A good orchestra has been secured for the occasion.

Women Play an Important Part in Field of Journalistic Work

By JESSIE WATSON, '22.

For some time women have been found more or less necessary in certain fields of journalism and in recent years they have been proving their worth in many new fields. The opportunities for women in journalistic or near-journalistic work are now so varied that any woman who thinks she would like the profession can surely find some branch in which she can make good if she is intelligent, has plenty of initiative, and is not afraid of work.

The country weekly is a field distinctly different from either the small town or the city daily. On a country weekly the same person usually has a hand in all of the departments: editorial, advertising, mechanical, and business. While the work is less exciting than in a larger place, it affords much opportunity for service. If a woman wishes to go into more specialized fields, the experience on a country weekly, if it is a carefully edited one, serves as a good foundation.

The work on a daily in a town the size of Lincoln differs from that of a metropolitan paper in that the duties of one person are less specialized.

CONVENTION WILL BE HELD IN OKLAHOMA

Theta Sigma Phi Will Gather April 26, 27 and 28 as Guests of Southern Chapters.

GOOD PROGRAM OFFERED

Leata Markwell Will Be Official Delegate from Nebraska Chapter—Have 25 Chapters.

Members of Theta Sigma Phi will gather in convention at Norman, Oklahoma, April 26, 27, and 28 with Zeta and Xi chapters as joint hostesses. Grace E. Ray, Department of Journalism, University of Oklahoma, Norman, Oklahoma is marshal of the convention.

Three years have passed since the convention held at Madison, Wisconsin in 1920. In these three years the fraternity has grown and become more valuable to the various campuses on which chapters are situated. Theta Sigma Phi today has chapters from the Pacific to the Atlantic Coast. This rapid growth has brought about problems to be solved and it is the purpose of the convention to bring together those who have suggestions as to the best means of solving these problems. Various amendments for eliminating the difficulties now hampering The Matrix, the official publication of Theta Sigma Phi, will be considered. It is the hope that satisfactory relations may be established and future editors may provide a much better magazine for women in journalism.

The Convention promises much with Ruth Hale as one of the speakers. John Farrar, editor of the Bookman, writes of Miss Hale: "We still believe Miss Hale to be one of the most penetrating critics in the country." Her reviews appear regularly in the Bookman. She wrote the only book review ever published by the Bookman which drew admiring letters from abroad. It was a discussion of Walter de la Mare's "Memories of a Midget." Ruth Hale is president of the Lucy Stone League, the organization founded to prove that married women may keep their own names. Ruth Hale is also author of several books.

Other speakers with whom the fraternity is negotiating for places on the program are Herbert Swope, editor, New York World; John Farrar, editor, The Bookman; Zona Gale, William Allen White, Karl A. Bickel, president United Press Association, and several honorary members of the fraternity and successful alumnae.

Lambda chapter of Theta Sigma Phi is sending Leata Markwell, '24, as official delegate to the convention.

Dr. Allyn K. Foster Here Next Week for Series of Meetings

Dr. Allyn K. Foster of New York is to be at the University on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. He travels for student work under the auspices of the Baptist board, and is said to be a very popular speaker among students. Dr. Foster is coming to Lincoln at the request of the Association of Christian Workers in the University.

He did his undergraduate work at Johns-Hopkins University and has his master's degree from Yale. He has been giving his entire time for the past three years to student work in colleges and universities.

Dr. Pope, the Baptist student pastor, knows Dr. Foster and says that he has an especially strong message for those who are interested in the relation of science and philosophy to religion. His western itinerary has embraced the state universities of Wisconsin, Ohio, South Dakota, Minnesota, Kansas, Iowa and Colorado.

Arrangements for meetings for Dr. Foster's visit on the campus are being arranged, and his program will be announced in the Friday edition of The Daily Nebraskan. The meetings will be open to all students and members of the faculty. Monday noon there will be a general luncheon at the Grand hotel for Dr. Foster. All students are invited, and reservations must be made with Miss Appleby at Ellen Smith hall.

MARCH NUMBER OF BLUE PRINT READY FOR DISTRIBUTION

Feature Articles Written by Faculty Members and Special Writers for This Issue.

Nebraska Blue Print, March issue, is being distributed this week. This magazine is the official publication of the student chapter of the American Association of Engineers. Included in this number are articles by J. A. Waddell, world-famous consulting engineer; George R. Chatburn, chairman of the Department of Applied Mechanics, and Machine Design; H. H. Marvin, chairman of the Department of Physics; Clark E. Mickey, chairman of the Department of Civil Engineering; G. M. Eaton, chief mechanical engineer for the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company, and by a senior architectural engineer, Sam L. Krechetsky.

"An Address to Engineering Students" by Mr. Waddell of New York, contains advice for all students, and particularly for engineering students. Mr. Waddell maintains that the first essential to success is an earnestness of purpose, for without this, he holds, it would be impossible to become efficient. Truthfulness, loyalty to all associates, and a willingness to aid others are factors which he deems essential to the gaining of a position in the world. Mr. Waddell also lays emphasis upon the thoroughness with which the student should undertake his work, and the care with which the tasks should be performed. While in college, this article maintains, the student should develop a lively interest in extra-curricula activities, for through these valuable training may be gained.

Professor Marvin writes on "The Structure of an Atom." In his article he explains the modern theory of electricity, describes the phenomena of cathode rays, and describes the chemical theory of the atom. The X-ray its propagation and properties, are treated extensively.

The Chicago Tribune contest for the Tribune Tower is discussed and the three prize-winning designs compared in a short article by Sam Krechetsky. The article is accompanied by reproductions of the display drawings of the three designs.

Engineers' Week propaganda is accorded space, and the program outlined in detail for the college celebration, scheduled for the week of April 24 to 28.

"Our sermonette" by T. A. Weir, editorials, and college notes complete the volume.

MERRYMAKERS WILL PLAY

Proceeds Will Be Used for Paying Delegate's Expenses to the National Convention.

FOUR MEETINGS ARE ARRANGED FOR MISS BENNETT NEXT WEEK

Will Be in Lincoln First Part of Next Week for Conferences with University Girls.

"Unfortunately the plans of Miss Helen Bennett are not very definite," stated Dean Heppner Wednesday afternoon. "I wrote to her several weeks ago asking her to suggest a program. She replied, however, that she liked the plans we made for her last year so well that she would let us make them again this year."

So far there are four definitely arranged meetings. On Monday, there will be a general convocation at 11, and one at 5 especially planned for the girls of the College of Business Administration. The two meetings Tuesday are a convocation for freshmen girls at 11 and Vespers for all at 5. The rest of the time will be devoted to personal conferences with Miss Bennett for all girls. Appointments for conferences may be made by calling Margaret Wattles at B1416.

The general convocation Monday at 11 will be held in the Temple theatre. "It will probably be about the same as the one held there last year—that is it will be made a sort of a background for the other meetings," said Miss Heppner. Miss Bennett will talk about the various professions open to girls and explain the preparation one needs to enter them. This preparation includes not only courses but also adapting one's personality to a vocation that "fits."

Monday at 5, Miss Bennett will speak on "Retail Management." She will probably tell about Mrs. Prince and her famous school on Retail Store Management at Boston, then will give something of the openings in the secretarial world. This particular meeting is sponsored by the Girls' Commercial Club who will be especially interested in this line of work.

Thursday at 11, Miss Bennett will endeavor to help freshmen girls select and correlate their courses. Vespers at 5 Tuesday are left entirely to Miss Bennett.
