"Keep off the grass" is the slogan for this week. The campaign to keep the campus beautiful is meeting cordial response from the great majority of the students. Not for this week only, but during all the rest of this school year, let us keep the slogan in mind.

Keep Off the Grass!

Tomorrow afternoon Nebraska's track team meets the champions of the cinder path among American universities and colleges. A victory would be glorious—a high spot in our athletic history—and a well-fought defeat would bring honor and glory to the Cornhuskers. Whatever the result, we stand back of our splendid team with a true Nebraska fighting spirit.

Keep Off the Grass!

The Woman's Self Government Association is again bringing Miss Helen Bennett of Chicago to our campus in connection with its discussions of vocations for college women. Miss Bennett has a wide reputation for worthwhile accomplishments in her field and her visits to Nebraska in the last two years have proved to all who have heard her, that this reputation is deserved. Individual conferences are being arranged with any girls who wish to interview Miss Bennett; this feature of her visit should prove of immense value.

Keep Off the Grass!

Nebraskans who had the idea that our University was the only state educational institution which was being "investigated" by a state legislature or who took the committee report as harsh, should have an opportunity to keep in touch with the work of the university investigating committees appointed in other state legislatures.

One example—from Colorado—shows the general tenor of these committee reports and serves as a compliment to this administration in that our report was so mild in comparison. The Colorado committee reports the following as a part of its summary: "In the case of our educational institutions, we find in some instances very poor business management; in others, we think waste and extravagance prevail in greater or less degree. It seems to us the managements of the various institutions, in many instances, have entirely forgotten the purposes for which they were created."

No such condemnation was merited or expressed after a thorough investigation of the management of this University. Sufficient appropriations to maintain the efficiency of the University during the coming biennium are now of paramount importance to this school.

Keep Off the Grass!

To make High School Fete Day more representative of activities of Nebraska high schools, a group of school men met this week with Chancellor Avery and laid plans to conduct inter-scholastic academic contests in connection with Fete Day this spring.

The plan would be to hold contests in English composition, spelling, first year algebra, plane geometry, American history and second, third and fourth year Latin. These contests will be held on May 12 at the same time that the awards are being given for victory in track, debate, and newspaper editing.

A feeling that High School Fete Day placed too much emphasis on athletics was at the bottom of the plan to add the academic features to the program of the day. The new contests should have a fine influence in stimulating scholarship throughout the high schools of the state.

The University will welcome the high school students who will come to Lincoln for these contests with the same hospitality as has always been shown to other high school contestants here. With nearly a dozen contests of interest to all Nebraska high schools in progress on our campus on the same day, many prep school students will have an opportunity to learn the educational advantages which the U. of N. offers.

The Stratford Fabric Trim

There are no body linings in Stratford sack coats. The same all-wool fabric as the coat itself is used for the inside finish. The seams are securely piped with all silk-satin. This exclusive Stratford feature helps to build style and durability into the clothes and imparts a handsome, stylish finish to the inside of the coat.
