PROF. BENGSTON TELLS FRESHMEN OF SCANDINAVIA

First European People to Land on Shores of the United States Were Norsemen.

MATERIAL AID TO WORLD Slides Shown Picturing Different Industries and Life of the Northern Countries.

An illustrated travelogue on "Scandinavia" was presented to the freshmen of the College of Arts and Sciences Monday afternoon and Tuesday morning by Professor Nels Bengston of the Department of Geology and Geography. Professor Bengston began by declaring that it has been almost definitely established that the first Europeans on American soil were the Norsemen, who sailed from Scandinavia to Iceland, from Iceland to Greenland and from that country to the northern coast of the United States. He also pointed out that a large number of the immigrants to this country have come from Scandinavia and that these immigrants have been easily assimilated and have made industrious and law-abiding citizens.

The professor also mentioned the contributions that the Scandinavian countries have made in the way of art literature and architecture. In the field of literature Scandinavia has produced such men as Isben, Knute Hamsen, and Bjorgenson. The architect who designed the Woolworth Building was a Scandinavian. In the field of music Grieg, a Scandinavian composer has been prominent.

Professor Bengston then showed slides illustrating a journey taken through Scandinavia. He showed rural scenes in the three Scandinavian countries, Norway, Sweden and Denmark. He explained that in all these countries the farms are smaller but neater than in the United States. In Denmark the country is low and flat so that agriculture is easy. In Norway the land is rougher and farming is carried on chiefly in the mountain valleys.

Slides illustrating city life in Scandinavia were also shown by Professor Bengston. Scenes in Copenhagen, Christiania and Stockholm were used to typify Scandinavian city life. The professor pointed out that automobiles are not common in Scandinavia even in the cities horse vehicles are used. Pictures showing the Norwegians at their favorite winter sport of skiing were shown.

Views along the west coast of Norway were then shown by Professor Bengston. These views depicted the glacier and the cliffs along this part of the Scandinavian coast. The lecture ended with some scenes in Hammerfest the town on the extreme northern part of the Norwegian Peninsula.

The Sport Circle

Proof of the national recognition being given Cornhusker teams is shown by the fact that the Christian Science Monitor has requested its Lincoln correspondent for a long story on the Nebraska track team. Included in the article will be the prospects for the remainder of the year and a review of the season so far.

Golf fans are preparing to initiate the third year of that sport at the University. Several meets have been scheduled for the season. Tryouts will be held during the latter part of this month.

For the remainder of the year track men will work out on the new dirt oval track on the drill field. The plan of having the men work out on the Lincoln high school field was found to be impracticable because of the long distance the athletes had to be transported and the consequent waste of time.

At Ohio State intra-mural contests are being held in horse shoe pitching. So far at Nebraska only the janitors have taken up the barn yard golf. A contest between the boys from the short grass country and men from the Ag college might be arranged easily.

SAYS SOLUTION OF PROBLEM OF WORLD MUST BE SPIRITUAL

Rev. Frank I. Finch of the Warren M. E. church addressed students and faculty at Nebraska Wesleyan university Monday. He said in brief: "We are living in a time of great transition and are moving at a pace our forefathers never knew. It is a spiritual transition. The other day I saw a picture of young Chinese girls dressed as flappers and carrying a huge banner which bore the legend: We will have co-education in China. The solution to the problem of the world must be spiritual. The mind of the world is just now filled with fear.

"This fear may be classified into five sorts, the biological, economic, the psychological, the governmental, and the moral. One third of the population of the world controls seven-eighths. The yellow race controls one-eighth. The economic condition is caused by the biological conditions.

"Our minds are not keeping pace with our physical strides. Cities have grown so that we cannot meet the problems of their physical needs. H. G. Wells says that the ship of civilization is now in the act of sinking. The world is possessed with hatred and suspicion. I have been lately in Pittsburgh and it seemed as if I were sitting on a barrel of powder. The increase in our expenditures for war grows alarmingly. The world demands democracy and a justice that is expressed in democracy. Latent in the world is this demand in every part. Insistent is the demand for wise leadership to guide in the way that has been lost. I am alarmed not that civilization may collapse but that the church may fall at this time."—The Lincoln Star.

DECLARES EINSTEIN THEORY IS AN INSULT TO COMMON SENSE

Santa Clara, Cal.—A new voice was added to the controversy over the Einstein theory of relativity, when Father J. S. Ricard, famous astronomer and seismologist, declared the foundations of the theory were "rickety," some of its fundamental postulates "absurd," and the entire theory an "insult to common sense."

The recent Lick observatory test of the bending of star light, Father Ricard said, was explicable otherwise than by the Einstein theory and declared that in his opinion Captain T. J. J. See, naval astronomer who denounced the Einstein structure as "humbug," was taking a "broader and more metaphysical view of the subject than those who think they have established Einstein's theory by observation."—The Lincoln Star.

Kansas and Colorado Students Will Study Farming This Summer

The farm is coming into its own. Early in June a unique Back-to-the-Farm experiment is to be undertaken by the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. jointly in MacPherson County, Kansas. Its object is to interest students in rural conditions and country life. As farm hands and cooks for harvest hands, college men and women from several colleges and universities of Kansas and Colorado will go out to study at first hand actual conditions that confront the farmer and his wife.

In speaking of the experiment yesterday in New York, Miss Winifred Wygal likened it to a similar use of their vacations by another college group who went out as workers in factories, shops and restaurants to investigate industrial conditions two years ago.

"The men will go as harvest hands with the regular hours and work of the typical hired man," said Miss Wygal. "The girls will go directly into the farm house kitchens, cooking for the harvest hands or doing whatever the farmer's wife wants done. Men and girls alike will work for wages, but they will all be there because they believe agricultural industry is at the root of all our economic problems. They are convinced that college trained men and women have a responsibility toward finding a way out."

The project will run from June 9th to July 31st. Week-end conferences to share experiences will be a feature. Production and its cost, labor saving devices, community leadership and rural recreation will be under discussion.

"There will be no effort to exploit the farmer," continued Miss Wygal. "MacPherson County was selected because it is a well developed wheat section of Central Kansas. Some of the volunteer members may be sent to work on their fathers' farms or the girls to their mothers' kitchens. They will be expected to take notes on their day's work and life and how it reveals the typical life and responsibility of the women on the farm. All members will know farm life at first hand so that there will be no trilly ideas of the city bred man or girl to discard."

The rural work of the Y. W. C. A. is carried on in 69 counties. Mrs. C. Oliver Isell is chairman.

A fund for the American Field Service is being raised at Berkeley, California. This fund is being raised in many universities throughout the country and is to be a fund to entitle students to a year's work in any French University.
